Ald. Meyer to present alternatives

Officials to discuss ways of cutting city hall costs

by STEVE BROWN

Des Plaines officials will meet again tonight to discuss methods of cutting cost on the proposed $1.6 million city hall building.

One of the project's major critics, Ald. Gerald Meyer (7th) said earlier this week that he had not completed his plans to reduce the price tag. The city council's building and grounds committee will meet at 8:30 p.m.

"I hope to have some alternatives ready Friday," said Meyer, who asked to delay action on accepting bids for city hall two weeks ago so the project could be studied in more detail.

Meyer and several other aldermen voiced concern earlier this month when bids for the six-story building came in about $300,000 above estimates. They argued that perhaps the size of building should be reduced to bring the cost into line with the city's estimate.

MEYER SAID he is more concerned about possible costs increases for the police station, which will be the second phase of the city's civic center.

"If the costs increase that much on the city hall, then I doubt we can build the police facility for the $860,000 estimate," Meyer said. He added that if the cost of the police building increases greatly, the city would exceed its non-referendum bonding limit, which is about $3 million.

The city has the power to sell bonds for capital improvements up to one per cent of its assessed valuation. The city can sell additional bonds, but a referendum must be held and voters must approve the sale.

"Our first priority should be the police facility and by exceeding the estimate on the city hall, we are jeopardizing this," Meyer said.

SEVERAL aldermen have suggested the city reduce the size of the building by eliminating the top two stories.

However the city has been told it might not save any money by making such a move. Kenneth Holmes of the architectural firm of Holmes and Fox said it is possible the city might wind up paying the same price for four stories as they would for six.

Holmes estimated that the city could save between $80,000 to $100,000 per floor, but the Frederick Quinn Construction Co. of Elk Grove said that they would reduce their price about $35,000.

The second low bidder on the project is more than $120,000 above the Quinn bid and even a maximum deduction would only bring cost close to the low bid for the six-story building.

OTHER CITY officials argued that the four-story building would not allow room for expansion in the future. Adding the floors later would cost a great deal more than any savings realized now by eliminating the floors, they said.

Holmes has also said that the initial $1.3 million estimate was too conservative. He said increased prices for material have been reflected in the bids on the building.

It is expected that a report on the city hall will be made to the city council Tuesday. The city may take official action and award contracts then.

Low-income housing issue avoided by city panel

by STEVE BROWN

After more than a year of study, a city housing panel will submit its final report next week, but the group has apparently sidestepped the controversial issue of low-and moderate-income housing.

The special Des Plaines Housing Commission will urge the establishment of a permanent commission when the report is presented to the city council Tuesday. No mention of low-income housing is made in the report.

Commission chairman Ralph Martin said he will make a full report to the city council outlining various recommendations.

It is expected that if the council approves the report an effort will be made to obtain funding for the full-time commission. About $1,000 is needed to fund the commission, Martin said.

The housing report was scheduled for completion early this month, but Martin said several commission members wanted to update information in the report, forcing the delay.

The report will recommend that the permanent commission study substandard dwellings and housing for the community's senior citizens. It also recommends the city's building and housing code should be updated.

Some commission members have said that the time limit imposed on the commission made it difficult for any definitive recommendations on the low-income housing issue.

THE COMMISSION also wrestled over the subject of substandard housing. Contradictions between definitions of substandard housing offered by various government agencies delayed commission action for some time.

The low-income housing issue has been clouded since before the commission was established. The city council first decided the commission should not deal with the issue at all but later reversed their stand and told the commission to develop its own study area.

The reversal came after the city learned that making the restrictions on low-income housing in the study could jeopardize chances for future federal grants for other projects, such as residential units for senior citizens.

WHEN THE action was taken last year, City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi said the council's resolution establishing the special commission was "unclear."

Several citizen's groups argued both sides of the low-income housing issue before the city council took the action to form the commission.

The city then took nearly six months to name members of the commission. The seven man panel was selected after the city council rejected the candidates recommended by Mayor Herbert Behrel.

Behrel had said he did not plan to appoint anyone who did not have an open mind on the housing issue.

The council, however, did approve the appointment of at least one commission member who opposed low-income housing, Joseph Botte. Botte served as the president of the Des Plaines Citizens Opposed to Low and Moderate Income Housing.

The lack of action on the low-income housing issue may require additional study before the city develops any detailed plan for government-financed housing.

The commission format grew out of the city rejection of a five point plan aimed at developing low-income housing, because the plan "lacked information."

Garage break-in

Burglars broke into the garage of a local man and stole fishing and camping gear valued at $445, police said yesterday.

The victim, George Torgusen, 2073 Plainfield Dr., told police that fishing tackle, two tents, and a sleeping bag were among the stolen gear. Torgusen, who reported the incident to police Wednesday, said the break-in occurred between Aug. 17-20, according to reports.

Man shot eight times now listed in 'serious' condition

by JOHN MAES

A Des Plaines man remained in serious condition at Holy Family Hospital yesterday after police said he was shot eight times by a roommate in his apartment Tuesday night.

Peter Klein, 29, 910 Beau Dr., was being kept in intensive care again yesterday and was conscious. Hospital spokesmen said one of the bullets punctured Klein's right lung and he had been given four pints of blood.

Hospital spokesmen told the Herald late Wednesday Klein's condition was satisfactory but a second spokesman said yesterday his condition had been serious since the man was hospitalized.

Doctors assigned to the case said Klein was "holding his own" yesterday and complimented police and a fire department ambulance crew for "care and proficiency" in transporting the victim to the hospital.

ANTAL SCHMIDT, 29, who shared the Beau Drive apartment with Klein has been charged with attempted murder and aggravated battery in the shooting.

He was taken to Cook County Jail Wednesday on $25,000 bond to await a Thursday appearance in Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Police said the shooting resulted from a feud between the two over the use of a Jaguar sports car they shared. Both men worked as auto mechanics at Laurel Motors in suburban Westmont and Klein had reportedly used the car to go to work that day without Schmidt.

Klein was shot just after he returned home from work before 6:30 p.m. Police were alerted to the incident by a building resident, one of several who told police they heard the gunblasts.

Police said the wounded Klein staggered through a rear door into an adjacent apartment where he fell.

The residents next door had run out the front door to investigate the shots. One of them told police he saw Klein screaming at their rear door.

POLICE NABBED Schmidt minutes after the shooting as he was walking out onto his apartment patio.

Police said the two had been living together about four months. Schmidt is a Hungarian immigrant who speaks little English.

A search of the apartment turned up the automatic pistol used in the shooting, a shotgun and ammunition.

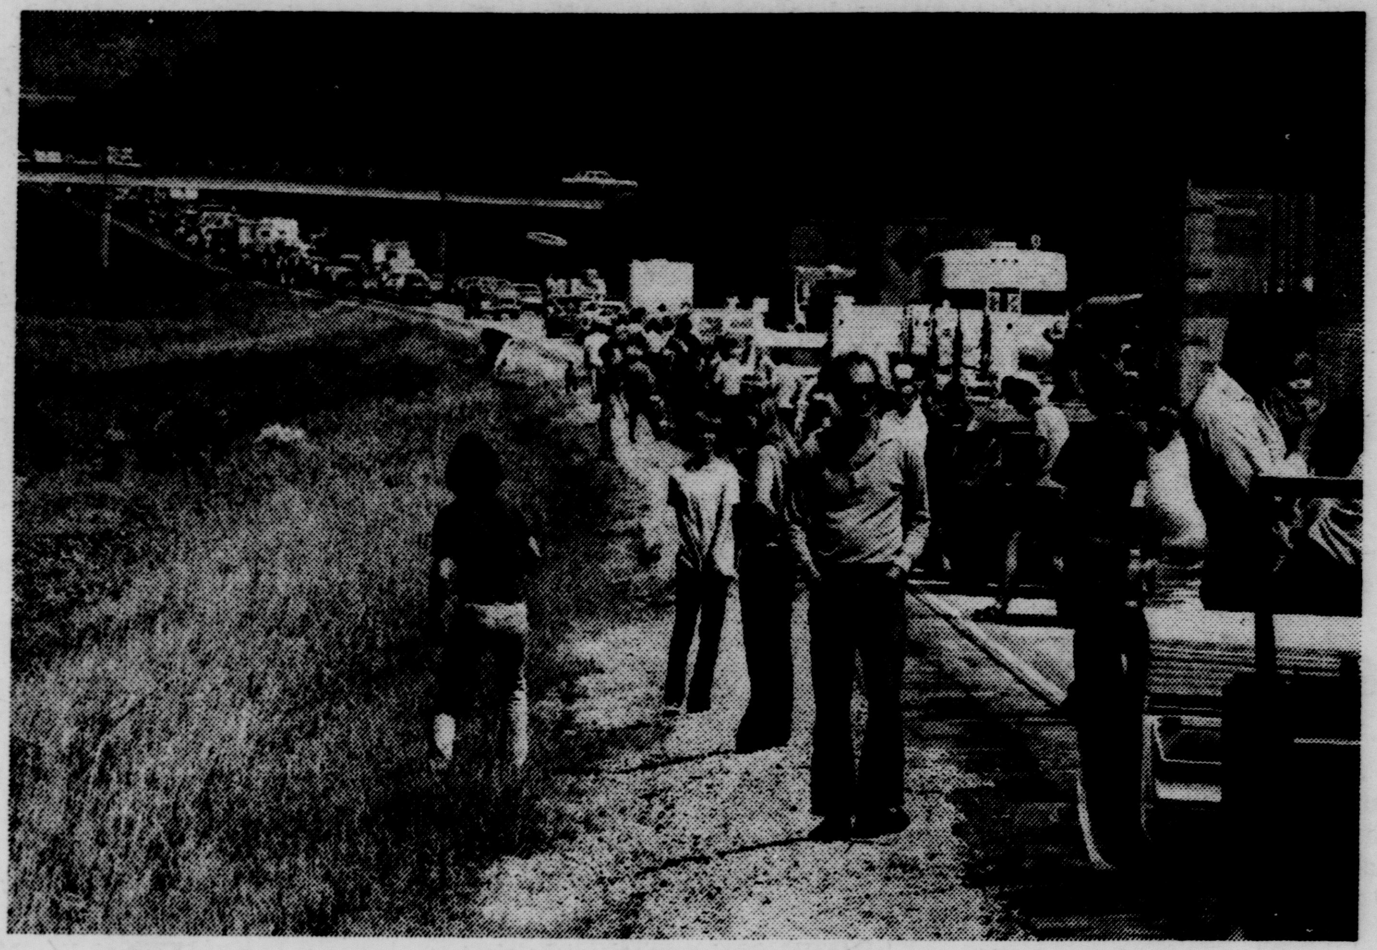
Herald will take a holiday Monday

The Herald will not publish a newspaper on Monday, Labor Day, in observance of the national holiday.

All offices and switchboards of the Herald will be closed for the day. Paddock Publications main offices are also observing summer hours Saturday and will not be open to customers.

The Herald will resume publication Tuesday morning and all business and editorial offices will reopen at that time.



IF STANDING AROUND is your idea of having fun during the Labor Day weekend, then traveling Interstate 90 through Wisconsin to the Dells resort area is just for you. If you want to avoid a probable two-hour traffic jam from Portage to the Dells, however, get off at Madison, and take either highways 12 or 51 around the congestions.

2 million leaving area

Driving will be Laborious

by BARRY SIGALE

About two million persons are expected to flee Chicago and its suburbs this holiday weekend in the annual Labor Day exodus which signals the end of summer with its toll of highway deaths and aggravation.

The uncertainty of the gasoline crisis, the construction barricades lining expressways, the maddening swirling of the crowds at O'Hare Airport, Union Station and Greyhound Bus terminals probably will combine to detract from the main purpose of travelers.

And if Wisconsin is your final destination, the Wisconsin Dells resort area specifically, be advised to leave as early as possible and start with a full tank of gas. A massive traffic jam may await you.

IT'S THE ANNUAL Labor Day weekend exodux to visit relatives and resort spas, the time for renewing family ties and enjoying the remains of summer. For more than a few, however, it will be their last weekend, according to the National Safety Council.

Projections are that around 600 persons will be killed on the nation's highways during the Friday night to Monday night rush (last year 602 persons were killed nationwide, 25 in Illinois).

The combination of auto traffic and some construction bottlenecks will make driving somewhat dangerous for Northwest suburban motorists on their way out of town, especially if they're going towards Wisconsin.

From 4 p.m. today to between 4:30 and 9 p.m. Monday, it is estimated that 500,000 autos will leave from Chicago and suburbs and return, Chicago Motor Club spokesmen said. Most of these trips, they said, will be within a 300-mile radius of Chicago, to Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana.

ON THE WAY, drivers will encounter delays that could aggravate their entire vacation plans. Though actual construction and repair on the Northwest Tollway will come to a halt between noon today and noon Tuesday, several lane closings will be in effect.

Most of the road work extends from O'Hare to Rockford on the Northwest Tollway and in some areas only two lanes will be open in either direction. The construction picks up again along I-90 in Wisconsin, the expressway leading to the Wisconsin Dells.

It is here that motorists will encounter their biggest headache. Only one lane in either direction will be open on a 12-mile stretch from Portage to the Dells. According to the Wisconsin Highway Department, normal weekend travel has resulted in a six-mile backup and an hour delay at this point. They are predicting twice the volume and twice the problem this weekend.

MOTORISTS ARE being advised to take various alternates around the construction zone. Two alternates include getting off I-90 at Madison, which is about 40 miles south of Portage. The highway department suggests taking either highways 12 or 51, which both bypass the trouble spots and feed into the Dells area.

Adding to the driving woes is the question of whether service stations will be open to provide motorists with enough gasoline to get them to their destination and back.

There is still the threat that some stations will be closed in protest over a price battle with the Cost of Living Council. But a motor club survey shows that two-thirds of the stations should be operating normally. In any case, motorists are urged to fill up before leaving.

Of the 61 Illinois dealers surveyed, 47 reported they plan to operate during normal hours for the holiday weekend, the motor club has determined. This has improved over a survey taken a month ago which reported only 30 per cent of the stations would be operating normally.

FOR THOSE NOT leaving by auto, but by air, rail or bus, the outlook is for a hectic, even frustrating battle with hordes of travelers.

Though no estimates are being made, O'Hare Airport is expecting an increase in passengers over last Labor Day. TWA, for instance, expects about a three per cent increase in passengers this Labor Day compared to last, when 5,500 persons flew out of Chicago. Other airlines have similar expectations.

AMTRAK officials estimate more than 6,000 persons this weekend will travel their system out of Union Station. The two most popular runs are to New York City and Washington, D.C., both 16-hour trips. Other popular spots include Kansas City, Los Angeles, Minneapolis and St. Louis, where the new Six Flags Over Mid America amusement park is located.

Those not wanting to go through the hassle didn't have to look very far to keep themselves occupied over the weekend. Persons with reservations are simply going to the Arlington Park Towers Hotel, where they report a complete sellout, partly due to the Future of America Fair being held there.

Help for diabetics sought

The first general meeting of a new organization dedicated to promote research toward the cause and cure of diabetes will take place at 8 p.m. today at St. Paul Lutheran Church, 100 S. School St., Mount Prospect.

The Juvenile Diabetes Foundation of Illinois, comprised of a nucleus of 20 families, all parents of diabetic children, was formed two months ago and is conducting a membership drive. The chapter invites not only parents and relatives of diabetics to join it in its efforts, but anyone interested in the plight of the diabetic.

"We are an aggressive fund-raising group," stated Marilyn Furer, president. "We have never been closer to a real breakthrough in diabetes research, but it will all be lost unless we can find money to support it."

A $20 million "emergency funding bill" designed to supply immediate funds for the diabetes research plan has been introduced by U. S. Rep. Robert Steele, R-Conn.

"THERE ARE approximately eight to 12 million diabetics in the United States, of which about one million are children," said Mrs. Furer. "Juvenile diabetes ranks first as a chronic disease, and fifth as the greatest killer of children."

Top researchers in the field of diabetes in the United States have stated that their work will come to an abrupt halt by the end of 1973 unless further funds are available.

The Illinois chapter, headed by Mrs. Furer of Mount Prospect, is one of the newest. Further information is available by calling her at 956-1029.

Help for diabetics sought

The first general meeting of a new organization dedicated to promote research toward the cause and cure of diabetes will take place at 8 p.m. today at St. Paul Lutheran Church, 100 S. School St., Mount Prospect.

The Juvenile Diabetes Foundation of Illinois, comprised of a nucleus of 20 families, all parents of diabetic children, was formed two months ago and is conducting a membership drive. The chapter invites not only parents and relatives of diabetics to join it in its efforts, but anyone interested in the plight of the diabetic.

"We are an aggressive fund-raising group," stated Marilyn Furer, president. "We have never been closer to a real breakthrough in diabetes research, but it will all be lost unless we can find money to support it."

A $20 million "emergency funding bill" designed to supply immediate funds for the diabetes research plan has been introduced by U. S. Rep. Robert Steele, R-Conn.

"THERE ARE approximately eight to 12 million diabetics in the United States, of which about one million are children," said Mrs. Furer. "Juvenile diabetes ranks first as a chronic disease, and fifth as the greatest killer of children."

Top researchers in the field of diabetes in the United States have stated that their work will come to an abrupt halt by the end of 1973 unless further funds are available.

The Illinois chapter, headed by Mrs. Furer of Mount Prospect, is one of the newest. Further information is available by calling her at 956-1029.

Rail strikers storm Parliament

Angry striking rail workers, shouting "We won't go back," stormed the Canadian Parliament buildings in Ottawa Thursday, moments before the federal government introduced legislation ordering them back to work or face up to two years in jail. More than 200 of the railmen smashed windows, scuffled with police and brandished picket signs before they were brought under control by Royal Canadian Mounted Police and House of Commons security guards. Canada's week-old national rail strike, following four weeks of rotating regional strikes, has disrupted food and grain shipments, forced closures of industries and drastically curtailed newsprint supplies in the U.S.

Party panel reelects Mao and Chou

The Chinese Communist Party Central Committee reelected Mao Tse-tung as chairman yesterday, and established beneath his imposing figure a new leadership group dominated by military men and Mao's old-guard followers. Premier Chou En-lai retained his position as the power behind Mao. The Central Committee also reaffirmed the policy of improving relations with the U.S.

Race to rescue pair trapped in sub

The leader of the Canadian diving team attempting to rescue two men trapped in a min-submarine beneath the Atlantic reports the "men are in good shape, they're relaxed and waiting for us to do our job." A second mini-sub descended last night to put a rope around the striken Pisces III so it can be pulled to the surface.

Relief in Chicago as N.Y. boils

Clouds and some scattered sprinkles gave Chicagoans a bit of relief from the heat yesterday, and roaming thunderstorms offered a respite in other parts of the Midwest. In New York, rapidly rising electricity loads, due to the hot weather, forced power cutbacks for the third day.

The big pullout begins in Thailand

BANGKOK,Thailand (UPI) — A squadron of U.S. Marine Corps A6 Skyhawk jets flew out of Thailand Thursday, beginning the American withdrawal from its last bastion of military power in Southeast Asia.

The squadron from Marine Air Group 15 left from Nam Phong airbase, 240 miles northeast of Bangkok, with the unit commander, Maj. Ron Merrihew of Mission Viejo, Calif., piloting the first plane out.

U.S. and Thai military spokesmen said the squadron was returning to its home base at the Iwakuni Marine Air Station in Japan. By Saturday, 2,100 men and 36 planes from Nam Phong will have departed, the spokesmen said.

A second squadron of Marine F4 Phantom jets was to leave Nam Phong today and the last F4 squadron based there will leave tomorrow, the spokesmen said.

The initial withdrawal from Thailand, expected to be completed by the end of this week, will involve about 3,550 American servicemen and more than 100 planes. Talks on a second phase pullout will begin early next week.

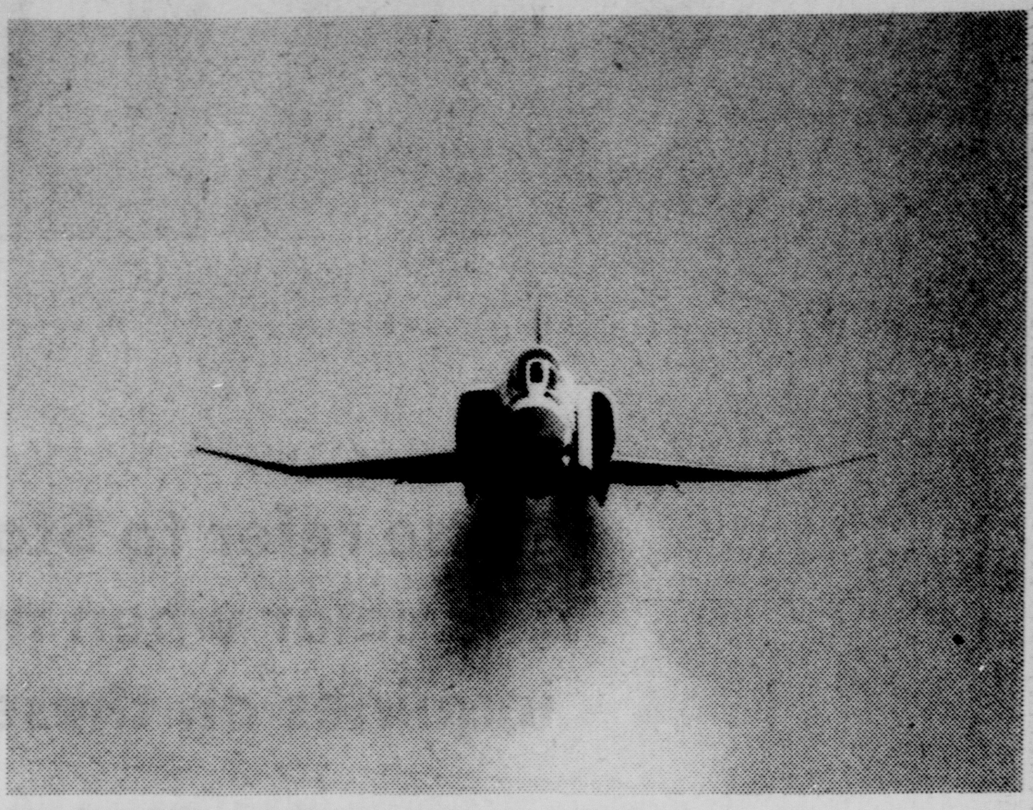
Military sources said other units involved in the initial stages of the withdrawal were Air Force squadrons stationed at Takhli, 100 miles north of Bangkok. The United States has F4s and swing-wing F111s at Takhli.

The United States had about 45,000 servicemen and more than 600 planes stationed in Thailand at the time of the Aug. 15 bombing halt in Cambodia. It was the largest concentration of U.S. airpower anywhere outside the United States.

The Americans in Thailand are stationed at seven air installations across the country. They were built by the United States in the 1960s at a cost of more than $650 million.

In Cambodia, government troops went into their third week of fighting without U.S. air support and scored a key victory when 2,500 troops broke through a rebel roadblock on Highway 5. Within hours, trucks were speeding along it with food supplies for the capital of Phnom Penh for the first time in six days.

Government troops failed, however, to reopen Highway 4, another vital overlink, connecting the capital with Cambodia's only deepwater seaport at Kompong Som to the south.



THE PULLOUT of the last concentration of American military power in Southeast Asia began, with jet fighter-bombers like the heavily-used F4 Phantom being flown out along with thousands of men from Thailand.

Nixon plans the next step: appeal

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — After a "spirited" debate with his lawyers, President Nixon decided Thursday to appeal U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica's historic ruling that Nixon must turn over the secret White House tapes for private judicial examination.

The Western White House said the President's appeal would be filed with the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington before Sirica's deadline of next Thursday.

The move will be the next step toward placing the constitutional controversy between Nixon and Senate and federal investigators in the hands of the Supreme Court.

Nixon made his decision after consultations with White House counsel J. Fred Buzhardt and Charles Alan Wright, the University of Texas constitutional lawyer whom he has hired as a legal consultant on Watergate.

There had been speculation the lawyers might advise Nixon simply to ignore Sirica's order on the ground the doctrine of separation of powers makes the President immune to any court order, including a demand for release of the tapes.

Sirica ruled on a petition by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, who believes the tapes might contain critical evidence for the federal grand jury's investigation of possible perjury, conspiracy to obstruct justice and other criminal activities by Nixon's former White House and campaign aides.

The judge said he wants to review the tapes and other documents sought by Wright to determine which are relevant to the Watergate inquiry and could be turned over to the grand jury without violating national security.

Buzhardt and Wright were reported to have held a "spirited" debate on what Nixon's next step should be, before the President decided to pursue the customary appeals process in the courts. Meanwhile Nixon has announced he will not comply with Sirica's order.

Nixon bases his refusal to release the tapes to anyone on the argument that their disclosure would so impair the confidentiality of his office he could not carry out his constitutional duties, and that he alone can decide whether they should remain secret. His lawyers also argue that the courts, as a separate and equal but not superior branch of government, have no authority to compel their release.

Nixon has said, however, he would comply with a "definitive ruling" of the Supreme Court ordering him to release the tapes.

Sirica won't combine suits

In a brief order with little elaboration, Chief U. S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica refused Thursday to consolidate the suits of the Senate Watergate committee and Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox to obtain President Nixon's secret Watergate tape recordings.

McCord ordered to end lectures

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica has denied permission for convicted Watergate conspirator James J. McCord to continue on a lecture tour which began Wednesday in Springfield. He was expected to put similar restraints on Watergate defendant Jeb S. Magruder because such tours would generate additional pre-trial publicity for future defendants in the Watergate case.

Dole wants end to TV hearings

Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., saying "The people want the hearings off the screen," drafted a resolution Thursday to end the Senate Watergate hearings and leave the scandal to the courts. Former Atty. General Richard G. Kleindienst also urged a suspension of the televised hearings, but a spokesman for the Senate Watergate committee said it was unlikely the Senate would support an end to the hearings.

Kleindienst cautious on Nixon tape stand

Former Atty. General Richard G. Kleindienst, speaking in Springfield, Thursday, said he thinks there may be "dramatic political consequences" if President Nixon continues his refusal to release the White House tapes. Whatever the political impact, however, he said he concurred with the president's legal position.

Farm prices take huge leap

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Signaling more potential food increases, the Agriculture Department reported Thursday that the average price of all raw farm products soared a record 20 per cent to a new all-time high in the month ended Aug. 15.

Farm prices also topped 100 per cent of parity for the first time in 21 years, the department said.

The monthly farm price report was the first major economic indicator to measure the impact of the July 18 end to wholesale and retail ceilings on all foods except beef. It showed prices 62 per cent above a year earlier.

Rising prices for beef cattle, wheat, hogs and corn led the increases along with higher prices for soybeans, eggs and cotton. They were only partly offset by lower prices for tomatoes, potatoes and apples.

Meat animals as a group were 68 per cent above a year earlier.

Wheat rose to a record $4.45 per bushel, up $1.98 from mid-July and nearly triple a year ago. Rice averaged $10.70 per hundredweight, a record high, and nearly double a year ago. Corn, rising 65 cents from July, reached $2.68 a bushel compared with $1.53 a year earlier.

Soybeans prices rose $2.30 from a month earlier to reach $8.99 a bushel, $1.01 below two months ago but well above the year ago price of $3.36 a bushel.

Eggs rose to 69.4 cents a dozen, up 18.1 cents from mid-July and only a fraction below the 69.6 cent record set in December, 1919. The August price was more than double a year earlier.

A number of commodities were above the 100 per cent of parity figure which is considered a theoretically "fair" price for farm products in comparison with the cost of things that farmers buy.

Hogs were at 152 per cent of parity, beef cattle at 116 per cent, eggs at 114 per cent, soy beans at 180 per cent and dry beans at 115 per cent.

Big Steel asks hike, draws indictment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prospects for maintaining future domestic steel production are grim unless the Cost of Living Council allows the industry to boost prices.

This was the claim made Thursday by Stewart S. Cort, chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp., the nation's second largest steel producing company.

Cort told the council that an industry-wide price increase was vital for domestic firms because of heavy competition from foreign producers.

While the steel executive was arguing for price hikes in Washington, however, a federal grand jury in Texas was indicting Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, and Armco — three of the nation's biggest steelmakers — on charges of violating antitrust laws.

The three major firms and 14 smaller ones were accused of price-fixing and bid rigging on reinforcing steel bars, known as re-bars, which are used to reinforce concrete in highway, bridge building construction. In 1971, sales of the steel bars by the defendants amounted to more than $40 million.

At yesterday's council hearing in Washington, Cort said a 5 per cent increase of sheet and strip steel prices would not seriously hamper anti-inflation effort.

Bethlehem and 11 other steelmakers have already notified the council of their intentions to raise prices of flat rolled products — about 40 per cent of industry output — by an average of 5 per cent in September.

James W. McLane, CLC deputy director, said his agency was curious as to "how these proposed price increases impact the consumers as they ripple through various levels in the economy."

Unless formally challenged by the council, the higher prices take effect within a few weeks.

Meanwhile, the council has promised to rule "well before Sept. 15" on big four automaker requests for price increases from $55 to $106 on 1974 models. Witnesses from all four firms argued that prices ought to be allowed to go up to meeting the added costs of antipollution and safety equipment required by the government.

Gas controls delayed a week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Threatening to close their stations to motorists over the long Labor Day weekend, the nation's retail gasoline dealers Thursday won a one-week reprieve from Phase IV price controls on gasoline and diesel fuel.

The controls, scheduled to go into effect Saturday, were postponed until Sept. 7 by the Cost of Living Council. It was the third such postponement for retail gasoline controls.

The council said it delayed the retail gasoline controls because of various court challenges. Attorneys for 165,000 brand name gasoline dealers earlier in the day asked Chief Justice Warren Burger to suspend the controls.

CLC director John T. Dunlop indicated that the Phase IV controls would not be extended again beyond Sept. 7, with this latest extension granted to give dealers time to comply with new rules.

The American Automobile Assn. said the council's surprise announcement ended plans for a "widespread" holiday shutdown by the dealers, who claim the Phase IV controls will put some of them out of business.

But, the AAA added, dealers in at least three regions — Connecticut, Pennsylvania and the Cincinnati, O., area — still were threatening to close down and dealers in Indiana and Illinois were "up in the air" about the shutdown.

Quake hits in S. America

A powerful earthquake shook the Columbia-Venezuela frontier area Thursday, as the relief effort continued in quake-ravaged Mexico.

The new quake, of a magnitude slightly less than that which hit Mexico, rumbled for more than a minute and shook such major cities as Caracas, Bogota and Cucuta. There were no immediate reports of damage or casualties.

The official death toll in the Mexico quake was put at 527, with 4,075 injured and an estimated 25,000 homeless, totals that made it the worst earthquake in the country's history.

The Mexican government continued to pump food, medicine, water and emergency shelters into the broad interior disaster zone. Word still was awaited on how the quake affected the 50,000 Indians living deep in the Zongolica mountains.

- The Norwegian Nobel Committee announced 47 candidates for the 1973 Nobel Peace Prize, among them President Nixon, Yugoslavia's President Tito, and Brazilian archbishop Halder Camara, a perennial nominee. The prize — if a winner is picked — will be presented in Oslo Dec. 10, Alfred Nobel's birthday.
- Philadelphia mayor Frank Rizzo, who's been in a stew over corruption charges, is really in it now. A national park advisory commission is putting on the heat to move the Liberty Bell out of Independence Hall, where it's been since it rang its last in 1776, and put it where it'll be more accessible to the throngs expected during the 1976 bicentennial celebration. Rizzo doesn't like the idea, says his mail is running 100 to 1 against it, but he'll go along with a move of a "few yards" from the hall.

Rail strikers storm Parliament

Angry striking rail workers, shouting "We won't go back," stormed the Canadian Parliament buildings in Ottawa Thursday, moments before the federal government introduced legislation ordering them back to work or face up to two years in jail. More than 200 of the railmen smashed windows, scuffled with police and brandished picket signs before they were brought under control by Royal Canadian Mounted Police and House of Commons security guards. Canada's week-old national rail strike, following four weeks of rotating regional strikes, has disrupted food and grain shipments, forced closures of industries and drastically curtailed newsprint supplies in the U.S.

The big pullout begins in Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — A squadron of U.S. Marine Corps A6 Skyhawk jets flew out of Thailand Thursday, beginning the American withdrawal from its last bastion of military power in Southeast Asia.

The squadron from Marine Air Group 15 left from Nam Phong airbase, 240 miles northeast of Bangkok, with the unit commander, Maj. Ron Merrihew of Mission Viejo, Calif., piloting the first plane out.

U.S. and Thai military spokesmen said the squadron was returning to its home base at the Iwakuni Marine Air Station in Japan. By Saturday, 2,100 men and 36 planes from Nam Phong will have departed, the spokesmen said.

A second squadron of Marine F4 Phantom jets was to leave Nam Phong today and the last F4 squadron based there will leave tomorrow, the spokesmen said.

The initial withdrawal from Thailand, expected to be completed by the end of this week, will involve about 3,550 American servicemen and more than 100 planes. Talks on a second phase pullout will begin early next week.

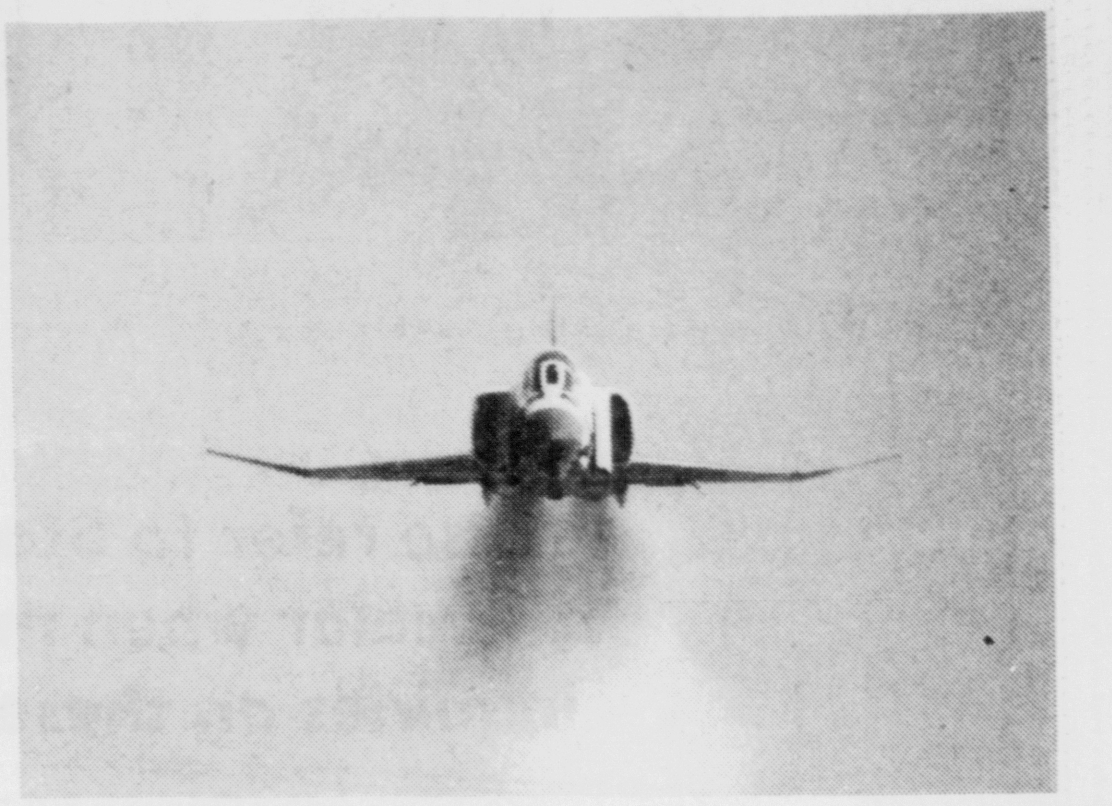
Military sources said other units involved in the initial stages of the withdrawal were Air Force squadrons stationed at Takhli, 100 miles north of Bangkok. The United States has F4s and swing-wing F111s at Takhli.

The United States had about 45,000 servicemen and more than 600 planes stationed in Thailand at the time of the Aug. 15 bombing halt in Cambodia. It was the largest concentration of U.S. airpower anywhere outside the United States.

The Americans in Thailand are stationed at seven air installations across the country. They were built by the United States in the 1960s at a cost of more than $650 million.

In Cambodia, government troops went into their third week of fighting without U.S. air support and scored a key victory when 2,500 troops broke through a rebel roadblock on Highway 5. Within hours, trucks were speeding along it with food supplies for the capital of Phnom Penh for the first time in six days.

Government troops failed, however, to reopen Highway 4, another vital overlink, connecting the capital with Cambodia's only deepwater seaport at Kompong Som to the south.



THE PULLOUT of the last concentration of American military power in Southeast Asia began, with jet fighter-bombers like the heavily-used F4 Phantom being flown out along with thousands of men from Thailand.

Nixon plans the next step: appeal

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — After a "spirited" debate with his lawyers, President Nixon decided Thursday to appeal U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica's historic ruling that Nixon must turn over the secret White House tapes for private judicial examination.

The Western White House said the President's appeal would be filed with the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington before Sirica's deadline of next Thursday.

The move will be the next step toward placing the constitutional controversy between Nixon and Senate and federal investigators in the hands of the Supreme Court.

Nixon made his decision after consultations with White House counsel J. Fred Buzhardt and Charles Alan Wright, the University of Texas constitutional lawyer whom he has hired as a legal consultant on Watergate.

There had been speculation the lawyers might advise Nixon simply to ignore Sirica's order on the ground the doctrine of separation of powers makes the President immune to any court order, including a demand for release of the tapes.

Sirica ruled on a petition by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, who believes the tapes might contain critical evidence for the federal grand jury's investigation of possible perjury, conspiracy to obstruct justice and other criminal activities by Nixon's former White House and campaign aides.

The judge said he wants to review the tapes and other documents sought by Wright to determine which are relevant to the Watergate inquiry and could be turned over to the grand jury without violating national security.

Buzhardt and Wright were reported to have held a "spirited" debate on what Nixon's next step should be, before the President decided to pursue the customary appeals process in the courts. Meanwhile Nixon has announced he will not comply with Sirica's order.

Nixon bases his refusal to release the tapes to anyone on the argument that their disclosure would so impair the confidentiality of his office he could not carry out his constitutional duties, and that he alone can decide whether they should remain secret. His lawyers also argue that the courts, as a separate and equal but not superior branch of government, have no authority to compel their release.

Nixon has said, however, he would comply with a "definitive ruling" of the Supreme Court ordering him to release the tapes.

Farm prices take huge leap

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Signaling more potential food increases, the Agriculture Department reported Thursday that the average price of all raw farm products soared a record 20 per cent to a new all-time high in the month ended Aug. 15.

Farm prices also topped 100 per cent of parity for the first time in 21 years, the department said.

The monthly farm price report was the first major economic indicator to measure the impact of the July 18 end to wholesale and retail ceilings on all foods except beef. It showed prices 62 per cent above a year earlier.

Rising prices for beef cattle, wheat, hogs and corn led the increases along with higher prices for soybeans, eggs and cotton. They were only partly offset by lower prices for tomatoes, potatoes and apples.

Meat animals as a group were 68 per cent above a year earlier.

Wheat rose to a record $4.45 per bushel, up $1.98 from mid-July and nearly triple a year ago. Rice averaged $10.70 per hundredweight, a record high, and nearly double a year ago. Corn, rising 65 cents from July, reached $2.68 a bushel compared with $1.53 a year earlier.

Soybeans prices rose $2.30 from a month earlier to reach $8.99 a bushel, $1.01 below two months ago but well above the year ago price of $3.36 a bushel.

Eggs rose to 69.4 cents a dozen, up 18.1 cents from mid-July and only a fraction below the 69.6 cent record set in December, 1919. The August price was more than double a year earlier.

A number of commodities were above the 100 per cent of parity figure which is considered a theoretically "fair" price for farm products in comparison with the cost of things that farmers buy.

Hogs were at 152 per cent of parity, beef cattle at 116 per cent, eggs at 114 per cent, soy beans at 180 per cent and dry beans at 115 per cent.

Big Steel asks hike, draws indictment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prospects for maintaining future domestic steel production are grim unless the Cost of Living Council allows the industry to boost prices.

This was the claim made Thursday by Stewart S. Cort, chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp., the nation's second largest steel producing company.

Cort told the council that an industry-wide price increase was vital for domestic firms because of heavy competition from foreign producers.

While the steel executive was arguing for price hikes in Washington, however, a federal grand jury in Texas was indicting Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, and Armco — three of the nation's biggest steelmakers — on charges of violating antitrust laws.

The three major firms and 14 smaller ones were accused of price-fixing and bid rigging on reinforcing steel bars, known as re-bars, which are used to reinforce concrete in highway, bridge building construction. In 1971, sales of the steel bars by the defendants amounted to more than $40 million.

At yesterday's council hearing in Washington, Cort said a 5 per cent increase of sheet and strip steel prices would not seriously hamper anti-inflation effort.

Bethlehem and 11 other steelmakers have already notified the council of their intentions to raise prices of flat rolled products — about 40 per cent of industry output — by an average of 5 per cent in September.

James W. McLane, CLC deputy director, said his agency was curious as to "how these proposed price increases impact the consumers as they ripple through various levels in the economy."

Unless formally challenged by the council, the higher prices take effect within a few weeks.

Meanwhile, the council has promised to rule "well before Sept. 15" on big four automaker requests for price increases from $55 to $106 on 1974 models. Witnesses from all four firms argued that prices ought to be allowed to go up to meeting the added costs of antipollution and safety equipment required by the government.

Gas controls delayed a week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Threatening to close their stations to motorists over the long Labor Day weekend, the nation's retail gasoline dealers Thursday won a one-week reprieve from Phase IV price controls on gasoline and diesel fuel.

The controls, scheduled to go into effect Saturday, were postponed until Sept. 7 by the Cost of Living Council. It was the third such postponement for retail gasoline controls.

The council said it delayed the retail gasoline controls because of various court challenges. Attorneys for 165,000 brand name gasoline dealers earlier in the day asked Chief Justice Warren Burger to suspend the controls.

CLC director John T. Dunlop indicated that the Phase IV controls would not be extended again beyond Sept. 7, with this latest extension granted to give dealers time to comply with new rules.

The American Automobile Assn. said the council's surprise announcement ended plans for a "widespread" holiday shutdown by the dealers, who claim the Phase IV controls will put some of them out of business.

But, the AAA added, dealers in at least three regions — Connecticut, Pennsylvania and the Cincinnati, O., area — still were threatening to close down and dealers in Indiana and Illinois were "up in the air" about the shutdown.

Quake hits in S. America

A powerful earthquake shook the Columbia-Venezuela frontier area Thursday, as the relief effort continued in quake-ravaged Mexico.

The new quake, of a magnitude slightly less than that which hit Mexico, rumbled for more than a minute and shook such major cities as Caracas, Bogota and Cucuta. There were no immediate reports of damage or casualties.

The official death toll in the Mexico quake was put at 527, with 4,075 injured and an estimated 25,000 homeless, totals that made it the worst earthquake in the country's history.

The Mexican government continued to pump food, medicine, water and emergency shelters into the broad interior disaster zone. Word still was awaited on how the quake affected the 50,000 Indians living deep in the Zongolica mountains.

Sirica won't combine suits

In a brief order with little elaboration, Chief U. S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica refused Thursday to consolidate the suits of the Senate Watergate committee and Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox to obtain President Nixon's secret Watergate tape recordings.

McCord ordered to end lectures

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica has denied permission for convicted Watergate conspirator James J. McCord to continue on a lecture tour which began Wednesday in Springfield. He was expected to put similar restraints on Watergate defendant Jeb S. Magruder because such tours would generate additional pre-trial publicity for future defendants in the Watergate case.

Dole wants end to TV hearings

Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., saying "The people want the hearings off the screen," drafted a resolution Thursday to end the Senate Watergate hearings and leave the scandal to the courts. Former Atty. General Richard G. Kleindienst also urged a suspension of the televised hearings, but a spokesman for the Senate Watergate committee said it was unlikely the Senate would support an end to the hearings.

Kleindienst cautious on Nixon tape stand

Former Atty. General Richard G. Kleindienst, speaking in Springfield, Thursday, said he thinks there may be "dramatic political consequences" if President Nixon continues his refusal to release the White House tapes. Whatever the political impact, however, he said he concurred with the president's legal position.

Adlai Stevenson hits '74 campaign trail early

by BOB LAHEY

With his Republican opponent still unnamed, Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III has already begun fund-raising efforts for his 1974 reelection campaign, with the aid of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

In a letter dated Sept. 1 (tomorrow), Muskie is soliciting funds nationwide to finance Stevenson's campaign.

The letter, which predicts that "Adlai Stevenson will be a prime target of the Nixon administration, which will make every effort to defeat him and extinguish the Stevenson tradition," is accompanied by the text of a speech on corruption in the administration which Stevenson delivered in the Senate nearly a year ago.

Use of that Senate speech, in which Stevenson called Nixon politics "the politics of wealth and stealth," is an early indicator of how Stevenson and other Democrats will attempt to exploit the Watergate scandal.

THIS EARLY fund-raising campaign is also a clear indication that Stevenson contemplates a rugged campaign to retain his Senate seat, whether his opponent turns out to be Attorney General William Scott, U.S. Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Rockford, or NATO Ambassador Donald Rumsfeld.

Muskie's letter pictures Stevenson as a seer who foresaw "the cloud gathering over Washington, and the shadow it cast upon the entire political landscape."

Wrote Muskie, "Now the storm he foresaw has broken. And whatever the verdict of future juries, the political process is already ravaged.

"I am writing to you today on behalf of Adlai Stevenson, and in the interest of repairing that process."

Muskie refers to Stevenson's "fight for reform" in the Illinois Legislature and as state treasurer, and his stand in "the fight between special interests and the public interest," which have earned him 100 per cent voting ratings from Common Cause, the National Education Association, the League of Women Voters and the Consumer Federation of America; and a 96 per cent grade from the League of Conservation Voters.

The Senate speech accompanying Muskie's letter may be a preview of the corruption which Stevenson will allege throughout his campaign.

It cites the Watergate burglary; the secret Nixon campaign bankrolls; the Dita Beard memo; the profits gained by Agriculture Department officials from the Russian wheat sale; a presidential aid guiding postal bonds to his own investment house; failure of Attorney General Herbert Kleindienst to report a bribe attempt; failure of the Justice Department to prosecute an alleged antitrust violation in the merger of two large steel companies; and sundry other charges of corruption.

Stevenson's speech cited various forms of corruption which he said pervade the Nixon administration: financial corruption, the subversion of public interests for private interests, and finally the "corruption of arrogance."

THAT HE proclaimed the worst of all corruption. With the Stevensonian rhetoric so reminiscent of his father, he declared:

"Take all the scandals of yesteryear, pile them block on block, and you cannot equal it. Find enough old deep-freezes to chill the Sahara; enough vicuna coats to warm the polar icecap; enough Persian rugs to dazzle a sultan — and still you cannot match that final betrayal of the people's trust. The greatest scandal — the ultimate corruption — is an arrogant refusal to answer the questions of the people."

It promises to be a gritty campaign.

Adlai Stevenson hits '74 campaign trail early

by BOB LAHEY

With his Republican opponent still unnamed, Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III has already begun fund-raising efforts for his 1974 reelection campaign, with the aid of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

In a letter dated Sept. 1 (tomorrow), Muskie is soliciting funds nationwide to finance Stevenson's campaign.

The letter, which predicts that "Adlai Stevenson will be a prime target of the Nixon administration, which will make every effort to defeat him and extinguish the Stevenson tradition," is accompanied by the text of a speech on corruption in the administration which Stevenson delivered in the Senate nearly a year ago.

Use of that Senate speech, in which Stevenson called Nixon politics "the politics of wealth and stealth," is an early indicator of how Stevenson and other Democrats will attempt to exploit the Watergate scandal.

THIS EARLY fund-raising campaign is also a clear indication that Stevenson contemplates a rugged campaign to retain his Senate seat, whether his opponent turns out to be Attorney General William Scott, U.S. Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Rockford, or NATO Ambassador Donald Rumsfeld.

Muskie's letter pictures Stevenson as a seer who foresaw "the cloud gathering over Washington, and the shadow it cast upon the entire political landscape."

Wrote Muskie, "Now the storm he foresaw has broken. And whatever the verdict of future juries, the political process is already ravaged.

"I am writing to you today on behalf of Adlai Stevenson, and in the interest of repairing that process."

Muskie refers to Stevenson's "fight for reform" in the Illinois Legislature and as state treasurer, and his stand in "the fight between special interests and the public interest," which have earned him 100 per cent voting ratings from Common Cause, the National Education Association, the League of Women Voters and the Consumer Federation of America; and a 96 per cent grade from the League of Conservation Voters.

The Senate speech accompanying Muskie's letter may be a preview of the corruption which Stevenson will allege throughout his campaign.

Sabbath services resume

Family Sabbath services resume at Maine Township Jewish Congregation, 8800 Ballard Rd., Des Plaines, Sept. 6, 8:30 p.m. This service, conducted in Hebrew and English, contains the traditional Sabbath prayers and features an Oneg Shabbat social hour following the one-hour prayers. Rabbi Jay Karzen and Cantor Harry Solowinchik officiate at these weekly services. An early sunset service is also recited on Friday evening, 30 minutes before sundown.

Michael Small, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Small, 9108 Barberry, Des Plaines, will celebrate his Bar Mitzvah Sept. 8, 9:30 a.m. The Sabbath concludes with the Mincha-Maarly ceremony at 6:30 p.m.

Sunday School begins Sept. 9. Daily religious school (Hebrew department) commences Sept. 10. Registration for all departments of the religious school, including nursery school and high school, can be made 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and evenings 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. For membership details call 297-2006.

Bingo at 8 p.m. Sunday evenings is open to the entire community.

The Sisterhood of the Congregation will hold its first open meeting Sept. 12 at 8 p.m. A membership party is scheduled and will feature an original skit presented by the Sisterhood membership committee. A mini-supper will be served. An invitation is extended to all women in the are to attend this meeting.

Lawn, home care class

The Des Plaines Park District is offering a home care and landscaping class which will feature techniques in lawn and tree care and how to effectively landscape a yard. The class will meet on Wednesdays from 7-9 p.m. starting Sept. 12 at the Lake Park Day Camp building. The fee for 10 classes is $10. Registration for all park district programs will begin Sept. 4 at the park district office from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.

Speakers are offered

The Human Resources Pool, organized by Oakton Community College in 1972, offers more than 100 volunteer speakers who are experts in fields ranging from acting to Zen Buddhism.

Alexander Kruzel, director of program, points out that the Human Resources Pool acts as a catalyst in bringing together experts in various fields and community organizations, clubs, and educational institutions who are seeking speakers for their program. It also enlarges the "pool" of volunteer experts available to present programs to the community.

The speakers are drawn from Oakton Community College and other educational and professional institutions as well as business, industry, government and labor. Additional information about the Human Resources Pool is contained in the Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult Continuing Education Program brochure for fall, 1973, which was mailed to all residents of Maine and Niles Townships.

Individuals who wish to become volunteer members of the Human Resources Pool or who want to engage a speaker through the "Pool" should call 696-3600 Ext. 50.

Friendship opens Saturday

Friendship Junior High School in Des Plaines will be open for classes on Sept. 4. The school has successfully passed its fire inspection, the only requirement that would have prevented the school from opening.

All academic areas of the building are complete. The only sections not finished are the gymnasium, locker room and auditorium. The only effect the incomplete sections will have on school work is to limit the physical education program on rainy days.

Events planned for Labor Day

The annual Des Plaines Park District Labor Day festivities will be held at Lake Opeka.

The Commissioners' Cup golf tournament will begin at 8 a.m. Prizes will be awarded to the man, woman and junior division winners who record the lowest score, come closest to the 18th pin and use the least number of putts during their round.

The fishing contest will start at 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Trophies will be awarded to the person catching the biggest fish and the most fish.

The sailing regatta will start at 1 p.m. and trophies will be awarded to the first place finisher in each of the three sailing classes, Rebel, Pintail and miscellaneous.

For information call 827-7930. All activities are open to Des Plaines Park District residents at no extra cost.

Seek to force talks on working conditions

Teachers union plans demonstration Tuesday

by REGINA OEHLER

The teacher's union in East Maine Elementary School Dist. 63 has adopted a six-point program designed to force the school board to negotiate working conditions.

The program calls for:

- an hour-long demonstration before the Dist. 63 teacher institute day Tuesday;
- total compliance with rules and procedures as outlined in contracts including arriving at school at 8:05 a.m. and leaving at 3 p.m. At the same time teachers are not to volunteer for extra work such as lunchroom supervision or coaching scholastic or athletic activities;
- not volunteering for subcommittees which give board credit and not attending after-school or noon meetings; and
- refusing to supervise student teachers.

"None of these actions shall be construed in such a way as to ask any teacher to violate his/her contract or endanger the safety or education well-being of the students," the plan states.

THE PROGRAM was presented at the East Maine Education Association (EMEA) meeting Wednesday. EMEA, the teacher's union, affiliated with the Illinois Education Association (IEA) represents about two thirds of the district's 364 teachers, according to president Hank O'Neil. About 90 members attended the meeting.

Jim Pippen, a member of the teachers' negotiating team, advised teachers not to make any "administrative decisions" this year.

"Most of what happened (in the schools) happened because we did the administrative work. We made the decisions . . . Within one week it will be hell on wheels," he said.

If the burden of administrative work is cast back where it belongs "I don't know what will happen," he said.

Other EMEA members said the resulting confusion in the schools would upset parents who would in turn pressure the school board.

Pippen suggested teachers refuse extra work such as lunchroom supervision, sponsoring clubs and coaching scholastic and athletic activities. He added they should give up the stipends they receive for the jobs.

Only about a third of the teachers at the meeting who received stipends indicated they were willing to give them up. One teacher said she needed the extra money.

MARILYN HADDEN, another member of the negotiating team, advised teachers to take work home rather than remain at school after 3 p.m. to finish.

According to the plan teachers are to arrive no earlier or later than 8:05 a.m. and leave exactly at 3 p.m. no matter what they are doing.

Another negotiator, Jerry Slowinski, said teachers should not help load buses after 3 p.m. as they've done in the past. "At 3 o'clock I will walk away and tell the administration it's their problem," he said.

Required forms and reports are to be submitted only at deadline times, according to the plan. Teachers are also supposed to refuse filling out useless survey forms. "Things do get mislaid," Slowinski said.

Parts of the plan will innundate the administration under a towering pile of paper, said one union leader.

Teachers are asked to list all unrepaired building hazards daily, keep detailed reocrds of all classes over 25 and follow all disciplinary rules to the letter — which means filling out piles of forms.

"I plan on filling out 300 (forms) this year," saie Slowinski, describing how he would follow disciplinary rules during playground supervision.

TEACHERS WHO are appointed to board subcommittees should either use the committees to the advantage of the union or not participate at all, according to the plan. This includes passive attendance at in-service workshops and refusing to attend noon and after-school meetings.

Slowinski said if teachers have already accepted a student teacher they have to take him or her. "The conditions in our district are not very good for a student teacher to see," he added.

The union is not planning to strike. Joe Anderson, IEA representative told the group that striking at this time would be ineffective.

He suggested striking along with other school districts sometime in the future if the action plan doesn't work.

He pointed out that strikes in private industry force employers to negotiate because of revenue losses. But strikes in a school district, he said, don't have that effect.

Anderson said that school district actually make money during strikes because they don't have to pay teachers. He also pointed out that the districts do not lose any state aid, in most cases, because there are five free days each year.

"It's hard to carry a strike past two, three days," he added.

He told the EMEA members not to strike, but to "think more in terms of guerilla warfare."

Parrot gives owner the bird

Hear any extra squawking in your neighborhood lately? If so, you might want to check to see if its Laurel the Parrot, who flew away from its home on the northwest side of Des Plaines.

Laurel, a green and yellow parrot, belongs to the Thomas H. Alvey family, of 370 Oxford Ave., Des Plaines.

Mrs. Alvey said the parrot was last seen flying west towards Wolf Road. She said she had been cleaning the bird's cage when the incident occurred.

She said the bird may be hiding in a tree.

"The bird is very gentle and might fly down on someone's shoulder," Mrs. Alvey said.

Anyone who sees a parrot in the area is asked to call the Alveys at 827-1464 or the Des Plaines police.

PTA notes

School lunch scoreboard: some higher, some free

Because of higher food costs at the wholesale level, the price of a Type A lunch for Maine Township High School students has been raised to 55 cents for the coming school year — an increase of five cents over last year's cost.

A policy to provide free lunches to those high school students whose families cannot afford to pay the price of the meal has been developed by Maine Township High School Dist. 207 in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Department of School Food Services. The school district will provide lunches free to students whose family income level meets eligibility standards.

Determinations are based on national guidelines used in participating schools throughout the United States and prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture. In addition, consideration will be given to any unusual circumstances such as family illness, unexpected expenses due to fire or similar disaster, seasonal unemployment and similar emergency situations.

A LETTER GIVING information about the school district's free lunch policy has been sent to parents of all Maine High School students, along with an application form and information regarding procedures for application.

Parents who believe that their children may qualify for free lunches should fill out the application blank and return it to their child's school. Such applications will be reviewed within ten days and the family notified in writing of the decision made. Information provided on the application will be held in the strictest confidence. The anonymity of each student receiving a free lunch will be insured.

Those who qualify will be served a "Type A lunch," consisting of meat or an alternate protein-rich food, a serving of two or more fruits and vegetables, bread, butter and milk. Planned to provide from one-third to one-half of the nutritional needs of school children, the meal will be identical to that served to students who will pay 55 cents daily for the lunch.

Maryville tailored to students' needs

The new Maryville School specifications call for 20 classrooms, each of which is to house eight children. The classroom breakdown will be: four primary grade, eight intermediate grade (fourth, fifth and sixth grades) and eight junior high classes.

The small class size and other specialized features have been included in the specifications because of the distinctive needs of the Maryville youngsters. Specifications were drawn up by the River Trails School Dist. 26 administration.

In addition to the primary, intermediate and junior high classrooms, there will be exceptional education rooms, vocational education rooms, physical education facilities and areas for privacy and isolation.

The exceptional education rooms are needed to meet the needs of children with learning disabilities, mentally retarded youngsters and children with emotional problems.

SINCE MARYVILLE students spend most of their time in an institution "with huge rooms, . . . open dormitories and . . . forbidden surroundings," the report recommends the architects design a "homey, comfortable, inviting quiet" building.

The report also suggests the building be flexible enough to include areas for small and large group activities, resource areas and tutorial space.

Offices for a social worker, psychologist, nurse and counselor are called for in the specifications. A testing room and conference room are also included.

Suggestions for the vocational education area include space for home economics, industrial arts, arts and crafts.

Dist. 26 administrators asked for a physical education facility consisting of a multi-purpose room and locker-shower area. A small therapy pool would also be included.

Included in the specifications is a request for two padded isolation rooms in the counseling area for youngsters "in an overwrought state of mind."

Noting that the Maryville youngsters value privacy very highly, the report recommends that private areas in the form of partitions, room dividers and study carrels be installed in each classroom.

Dist. 26 acting Supt. James Retzlaff said educationl specifications are recommendations the administrators would like included in the building. He said the final building plan will not necessarily contain all the items requested.

Snake definitely not poisonous

Buffalo Grove police said yesterday they are now positive the snake skin examined earlier this week is that of a harmless rat snake and not a deadly Egyptian Cobra.

Police made their announcement after the owner of the escaped snake, Gene Gowling, 18 of Wheeling and its keeper, David Pearson, 18, of Buffalo Grove went through several hours of lie detector tests.

According to Police Chief Harry Walsh, the skin given to experts at Brookfield Zoo was positively that of the escaped snake. The reptile was purchased in a suburban pet store for $17. Walsh said, however, the test also showed that the two youths believed they owned a Cobra.

Walsh said the tests, called psychological-polygraph tests, were taken by the youths voluntarily. He said they agreed to tests to show that the skin examined was actually taken from the escaped snake. He added that tests showed the youths were not playing a joke in saying they believed a Cobra escaped.

The tests are reportedly the most advanced way of giving lie detector examinations, according to police officials.

DESPITE THE tests, however, Pearson faces a court date on a charge of disorderly conduct and a bill for the expenses incurred by the village during a three-day search for the missing snake, before discovering it was non-poisonous

Yesterday, Village Trustee Thomas Mahoney told the Herald that if the bill is not paid, Pearson's father may face a civil suit from the village to recover damages.

Mahoney proposed a resolution Monday night saying the village should try to recover the cost of the search. If it cannot do so it should sue the owner of the home from where the snake escaped — in this case Pearson's father.

Mahoney also said he did not propose the resolution because of negligence on Pearson's part but because keeping snakes in Buffalo Grove is against village ordinances. Thus, the village should not be responsible for the cost of the search.

Pearson said Wednesday that he will not pay the bill because he had contacted Buffalo Grove several weeks ago to see if the snake was illegal. He also said he offered to get rid of the snake if it was illegal and was not told to do so.

Police have said they did not tell Person to get rid of the snake because of "bad information" from state sources who said the snake was legal.

Residents get degrees

Three Des Plaines residents recently were awarded degrees at Illinois Wesleyan University.

Bachelor of music degrees were awarded to Susan Chamberlin, 1382 Earl Ave. and William Smith, 1382 Earl Ave. A bachelor of arts degree was earned by Sue Muncy, 180 N. Wolf Road.

125 single-family homes planned

While current construction trends in many areas seem to favor multiple-family housing, a Chicago development proposed plans this week for 125 single-family homes in Des Plaines.

Representatives of Brooks and Sons Co. appeared before the Des Plaines Plan Commission to explain their proposal for a subdivision to be located on a 27-acre tract at Wolf and Road roads.

George Brooks agreed current trends seem to lean towards multiple family housing, but there is still a market for homes in a medium price range.

"I think there is a good market in Des Plaines for the development," Brooks said.

While complete plans are not finished for the development, which will be known as Stratford Manor, Brooks said he hopes to have all details ready to present to the city in several weeks.

Brooks said tentative plans call for the homes, which will be three and four bedroom models, to be priced in the $35,000 to $45,000 range.

A spokesman for the company, who appeared before the plan commission, said there may be a request to reduce the width of the streets in the development from the standard 66-foot width to 40 feet. The developer would also grant the city a 13-foot easement on both sides of the street for utilities.

If the street size variation is not allowed, the developer might have to request a variation on the city's standards for lot sizes, because not all of the lots would be the correct size.

The tract, which is commonly known as the Moehling propery, is one of the largest undeveloped residential parcels remaining in Des Plaines.

No formal action was taken by the plan commission on the proposed development.

Seek to force talks on working conditions

Teachers union plans demonstration Tuesday

by REGINA OEHLER

The teacher's union in East Maine Elementary School Dist. 63 has adopted a six-point program designed to force the school board to negotiate working conditions.

The program calls for:

- an hour-long demonstration before the Dist. 63 teacher institute day Tuesday;
- total compliance with rules and procedures as outlined in contracts including arriving at school at 8:05 a.m. and leaving at 3 p.m. At the same time teachers are not to volunteer for extra work such as lunchroom supervision or coaching scholastic or athletic activities;
- not volunteering for subcommittees which give board credit and not attending after-school or noon meetings; and
- refusing to supervise student teachers.

"None of these actions shall be construed in such a way as to ask any teacher to violate his/her contract or endanger the safety or education well-being of the students," the plan states.

THE PROGRAM was presented at the East Maine Education Association (EMEA) meeting Wednesday. EMEA, the teacher's union, affiliated with the Illinois Education Association (IEA) represents about two thirds of the district's 364 teachers, according to president Hank O'Neil. About 90 members attended the meeting.

Jim Pippen, a member of the teachers' negotiating team, advised teachers not to make any "administrative decisions" this year.

"Most of what happened (in the schools) happened because we did the administrative work. We made the decisions . . . Within one week it will be hell on wheels," he said.

If the burden of administrative work is cast back where it belongs "I don't know what will happen," he said.

Other EMEA members said the resulting confusion in the schools would upset parents who would in turn pressure the school board.

Pippen suggested teachers refuse extra work such as lunchroom supervision, sponsoring clubs and coaching scholastic and athletic activities. He added they should give up the stipends they receive for the jobs.

Only about a third of the teachers at the meeting who received stipends indicated they were willing to give them up. One teacher said she needed the extra money.

MARILYN HADDEN, another member of the negotiating team, advised teachers to take work home rather than remain at school after 3 p.m. to finish.

According to the plan teachers are to arrive no earlier or later than 8:05 a.m. and leave exactly at 3 p.m. no matter what they are doing.

Another negotiator, Jerry Slowinski, said teachers should not help load buses after 3 p.m. as they've done in the past. "At 3 o'clock I will walk away and tell the administration it's their problem," he said.

Required forms and reports are to be submitted only at deadline times, according to the plan. Teachers are also supposed to refuse filling out useless survey forms. "Things do get mislaid," Slowinski said.

Parts of the plan will innundate the administration under a towering pile of paper, said one union leader.

Teachers are asked to list all unrepaired building hazards daily, keep detailed reocrds of all classes over 25 and follow all disciplinary rules to the letter — which means filling out piles of forms.

"I plan on filling out 300 (forms) this year," saie Slowinski, describing how he would follow disciplinary rules during playground supervision.

TEACHERS WHO are appointed to board subcommittees should either use the committees to the advantage of the union or not participate at all, according to the plan. This includes passive attendance at in-service workshops and refusing to attend noon and after-school meetings.

Slowinski said if teachers have already accepted a student teacher they have to take him or her. "The conditions in our district are not very good for a student teacher to see," he added.

The union is not planning to strike. Joe Anderson, IEA representative told the group that striking at this time would be ineffective.

He suggested striking along with other school districts sometime in the future if the action plan doesn't work.

He pointed out that strikes in private industry force employers to negotiate because of revenue losses. But strikes in a school district, he said, don't have that effect.

Anderson said that school district actually make money during strikes because they don't have to pay teachers. He also pointed out that the districts do not lose any state aid, in most cases, because there are five free days each year.

"It's hard to carry a strike past two, three days," he added.

He told the EMEA members not to strike, but to "think more in terms of guerilla warfare."

Parrot gives owner the bird

Hear any extra squawking in your neighborhood lately? If so, you might want to check to see if its Laurel the Parrot, who flew away from its home on the northwest side of Des Plaines.

Laurel, a green and yellow parrot, belongs to the Thomas H. Alvey family, of 370 Oxford Ave., Des Plaines.

Mrs. Alvey said the parrot was last seen flying west towards Wolf Road. She said she had been cleaning the bird's cage when the incident occurred.

She said the bird may be hiding in a tree.

"The bird is very gentle and might fly down on someone's shoulder," Mrs. Alvey said.

Anyone who sees a parrot in the area is asked to call the Alveys at 827-1464 or the Des Plaines police.

School lunch scoreboard: some higher, some free

Because of higher food costs at the wholesale level, the price of a Type A lunch for Maine Township High School students has been raised to 55 cents for the coming school year — an increase of five cents over last year's cost.

A policy to provide free lunches to those high school students whose families cannot afford to pay the price of the meal has been developed by Maine Township High School Dist. 207 in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Department of School Food Services. The school district will provide lunches free to students whose family income level meets eligibility standards.

Determinations are based on national guidelines used in participating schools throughout the United States and prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture. In addition, consideration will be given to any unusual circumstances such as family illness, unexpected expenses due to fire or similar disaster, seasonal unemployment and similar emergency situations.

A LETTER GIVING information about the school district's free lunch policy has been sent to parents of all Maine High School students, along with an application form and information regarding procedures for application.

Parents who believe that their children may qualify for free lunches should fill out the application blank and return it to their child's school. Such applications will be reviewed within ten days and the family notified in writing of the decision made. Information provided on the application will be held in the strictest confidence. The anonymity of each student receiving a free lunch will be insured.

Those who qualify will be served a "Type A lunch," consisting of meat or an alternate protein-rich food, a serving of two or more fruits and vegetables, bread, butter and milk. Planned to provide from one-third to one-half of the nutritional needs of school children, the meal will be identical to that served to students who will pay 55 cents daily for the lunch.

125 single-family homes planned

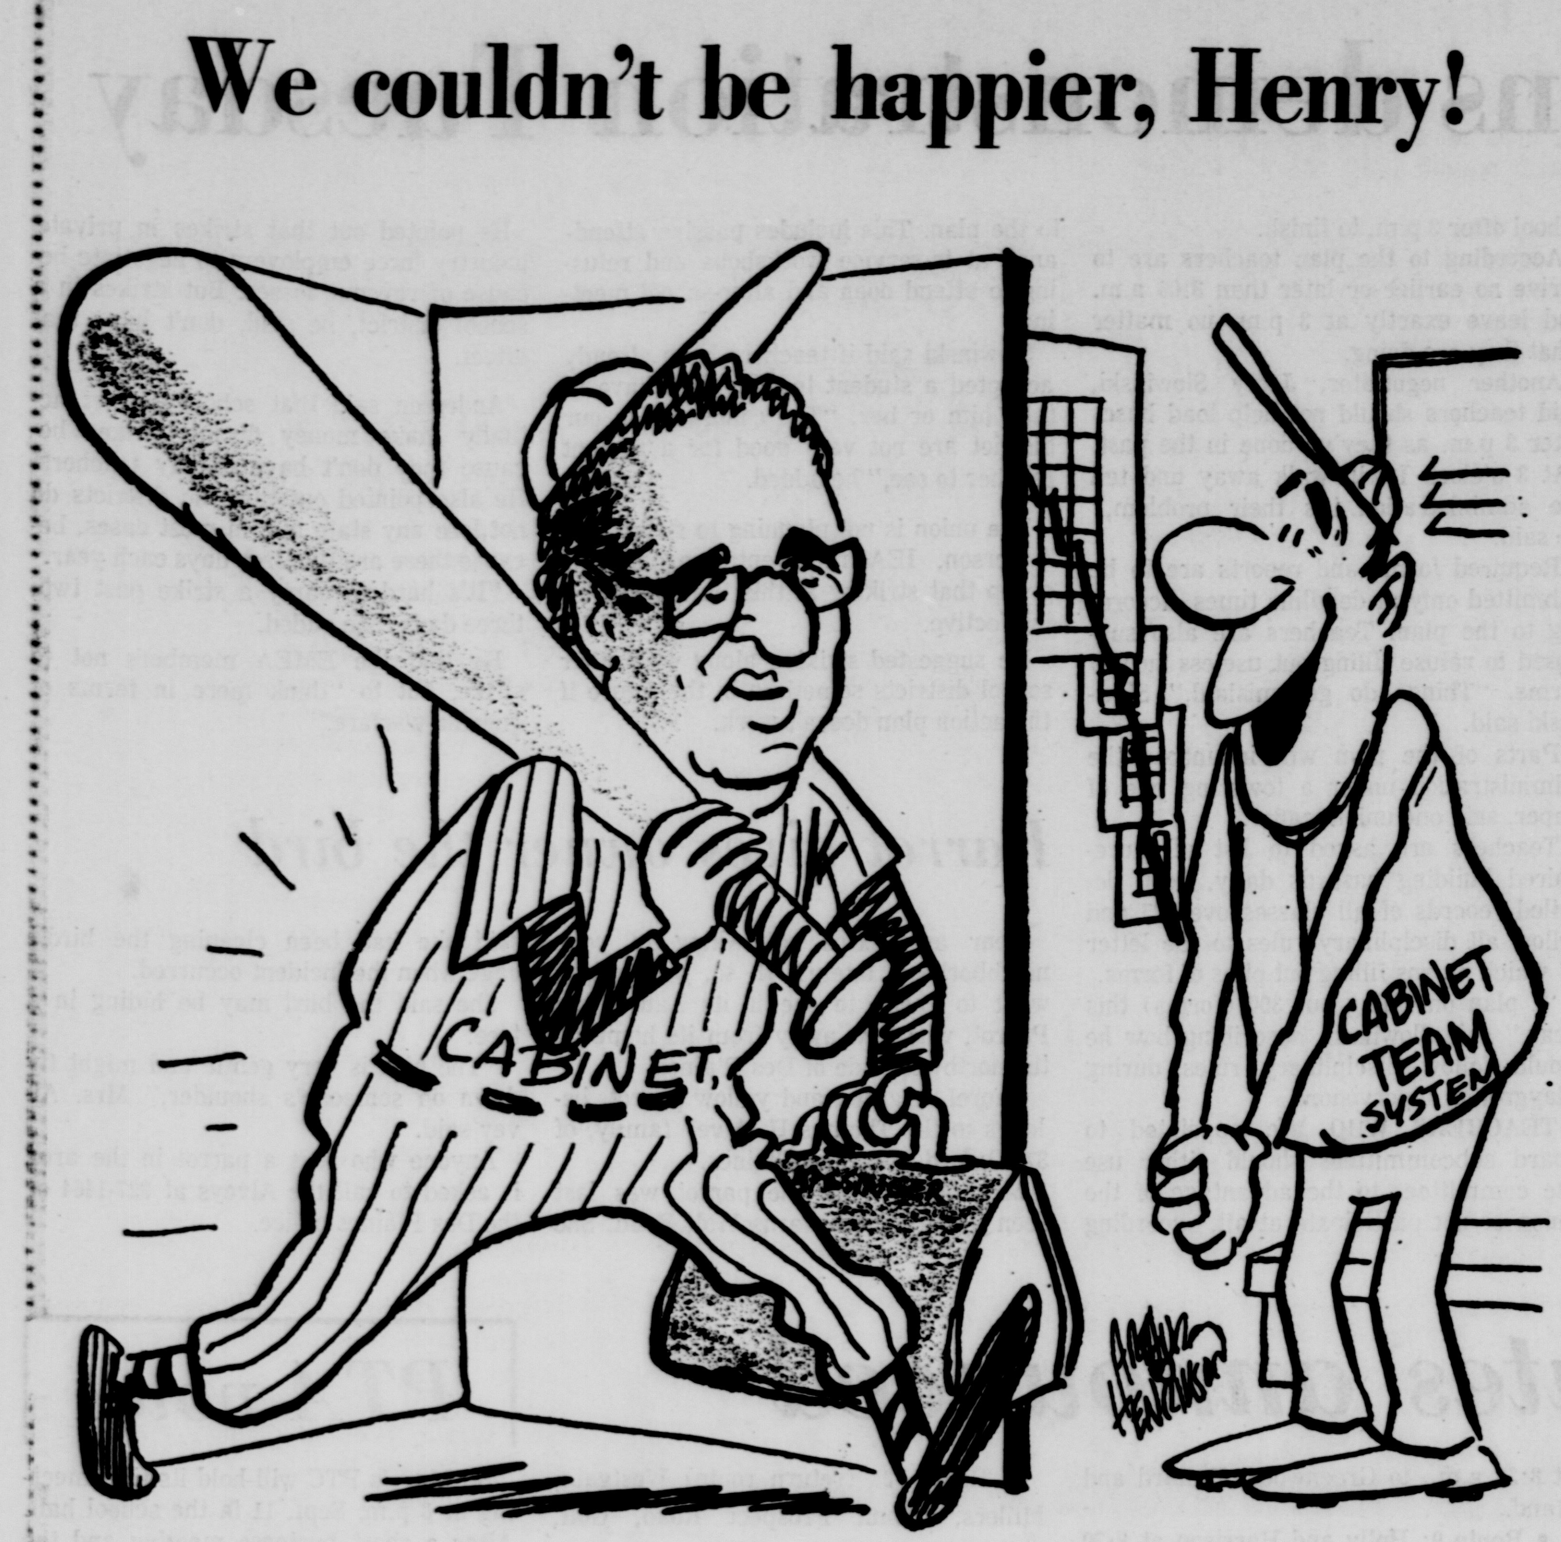
We couldn't be happier, Henry!



Herald editorial

Kissinger a good choice

President Richard Nixon's choice of Henry A. Kissinger as Secretary of State is more than the selection of the best man to fill this position; it creates the possibility of a fundamental shift in direction for the Nixon Administration.

For the past four and a half years, Kissinger has been the White House's resident shaper of cataclysmic changes in American foreign policy. Among his diplomatic triumphs have been the hard-won Vietnam peace accords and the spectacular rapport achieved with Communist China; he's also earned the reputation as the philosopher who undergirds Nixon's view of foreign affairs.

However, as a result of Kissinger's sweeping achievements, the 12,000-person State Department slid into obscurity. Formulating everyday policy and keeping the bureaucracy functioning fell to a nominal Secretary of State, William Rogers, while the glamor remained in the White House. Rogers did have triumphs, such as the 1970 Middle East settlement, but Kissinger stayed in the public's eye.

Now, Kissinger is replacing Rogers, and it appears we're about to return to an era of strong and prominent Secretaries of State, as exemplified by Dean Acheson and George C. Marshall.

Part of the State Department's strength will come through Kissinger's Cabinet role, and we hope it represents a trend to more Cabinet authority throughout the Nixon Administration. Too many of the White House errors and excesses of the Watergate days were caused by a too-secret, too-arrogant White House staff. This kind of closed operation can be changed if Cabinet officers are permitted closeness to the President — the kind of authority which Kissinger has possessed as a Presidential adviser.

Our gravest concern about the appointment is that the debonair Kissinger retains that umbilical cord to the White House in his role as Special Assistant to the President for National Security.

On one level, this may assure the State Department of a special pipeline to the President. Otherwise, it could mean the expansion of the dangerous trend of burying public information behind the "executive privilege" shield which the President has too-frequently employed.

Henry Kissinger

Members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will interrogate Kissinger on this point, and to his credit Kissinger has pledged to make information "more accessible to Congressional and public scrutiny" through his dual role.

If Kissinger keeps his word, Congress may have won a major battle to assure the public of more information about the making of foreign policy. If otherwise, the Senate could be reluctant to confirm quickly the new Secretary of State.

The 50-year-old native German who will shortly move into a job held by such men as Thomas Jefferson and James Madison has called for the formation of a "new consensus," based on non-partisanship, to work out world problems. This approach encourages all Americans to work together for world cooperation and peace.

Kissinger has sought Congressional support for his stand, and shortly he will sit down at his desk on the seventh floor of the State Department to face the mechanics of making his avowed policy work. Based on his world-wide diplomatic record, he's the best person to confront this awesome task.

Offers abortion 'logic'

It is with growing dismay and noncomprehension that I view the almost daily debate in the news media pro and con abortion: How many Catholics support it? How many doctors at Northwest Community Hospital say yes, how many say no? What does the average housewife think? And so on and so on, as if there were some logical reason for so doing. But if you stop and think; there isn't.

The democratic process was conceived to consolidate opinion, not trifle with fact.

What I am saying is that, when it comes to matters of actuality, voting one way or the other alters nothing. If every citizen in the USA voted that, from now on, it would not hurt to put your hand into an open flame, it would still hurt, plenty. If all the Germans had voted that the slaughter of the Jews by Hitler was okay, in fact, if the entire membership of the UN did the same, that slaughter would still be wrong. What in the world does a majority vote have to do with facts?

So when it comes to abortion, consider the fact: Anyone with any religious knowledge knows that it takes more than a man and a woman to create a new life; it takes the life-giving supplying of a soul by the Creator to complete that vivification. Which means that, if a woman has conceived, God has given life to that unborn child, God has plans for that child, God has a life mapped out for that child and surely His plans don't terminate with the child leaving the operating room in pieces in a wastebasket. If God says, "Let there be life," and every last person on the planet says, "No, let there be death," who's right? The majority?

What are all these doctors and nurses and unnatural mothers going to say when they come face to face with their Creator after death and are confronted by the souls of all these murdered children? That they thought God's "Thou shalt not kill" was a joke? I'll bet the last thing they feel like doing at that moment is chuckle. When He says, "I had plans for all these lives, and you took it upon yourself to interfere with those plans. I trust you had a good reason. What was it?" they'll spend a pretty unhappy eternity trying to come up with a satisfactory answer.

Well, be that as it may, the point is: Please stop quoting numbers on matters of fact. If the day should come that "Portnoy's Complaint" or some such novel actually outsells the Bible, does that thereby make it the better book? (Do I have to tell you the answer?)

Reading centers sought

I would like to disagree with library board president John Parsons that it is important to keep the library expansion in the downtown area. We need to take branch facilities directly into the communities to the heart of a vast growing population. Yes, it would take more people and lots of extra planning to make these branch facilities available to our people in Mount Prospect. Yet, I strongly believe a small community type reading center in two or three areas outside of the downtown center would be more beneficial !

My reasons are these, first, as a resident of the Mount Prospect area since 1960, I have found my family unable to take full advantage of the library where it is. Over the years my children are the ones who have needed either my husband or myself to drive them for their books. Now my older ones ride their bikes, crossing busy Golf Road, Route 83, and then Northwest Hwy. Yes, quite a bike hike for them, but I like to encourage library use like most mothers. My younger ones (I have six children) may only use the school library during the summer, because of the danger involved in letting them ride to your so called downtown area.

There are over 100 children in my immediate two-block area. I am sure their parents have felt the same way I have about needing a reading center closer to us. It is for them and my own children, plus countless number of adults for whom I speak.

I know, I am not alone, when I say my own library at home has grown, simply because I buy a book in paperback form when I want to read, instead of traveling to the library. Still, I cannot give up on my dream of centrally located reading centers where one can walk or ride a bike, perhaps one of my neighbor's children and my own can go to before they are too old to enjoy one. I believe, positive ideas are sometimes born in dreams and I would hope this one might become a reality.

Lauds paramedic work

Around 4 a.m. on Sunday, August 12, I had occasion to call for help from the Buffalo Grove Fire Department. My husband woke up in terrible pain which was located in the chest cavity.

After a telephone call for help, the Buffalo Grove police arrived within two minutes and administered oxygen and the Buffalo Grove paramedic squad arrived a few short minutes later. They took over immediately and with their excellent training and equipment transmitted his vital signs to Northwest Community Hospital. After working on him for approximately 20 minutes, it was decided that he should be taken to the hospital which they did.

To all these young men who work so hard to help the people of our village in their time of need, I would like to express my deep gratitude for all they did for us. I have nothing but bouquets for their ability and gentleness in dealing with people in pain and need.

'Pornography a victimless crime'

I would like to take point with Mr. Joe Rosenberger's letter of August 23.

He states that the crackpots who renounce abortion are the same people who renounce pornography. Well, this is a blatant generalization on his part and I would like to bring it to his attention.

Although my own opinions differ completely from his on abortion, we almost come to an agreement on pornography. I definitely do not favor censorship in any sense of the word and I do believe it does bring the country closer to an undemocratic government. But this raises the questions of: How can the same crackpot who opposes abortion be also against censorship?

Very simply, because they are not even comparable. Pornography belongs to a small list of illegalities called victimless crimes. Among these crimes is the use of marijuana, prostitution and homosexual acts between consenting adults. These are offenses that ordinarily do no harm to anyone but possibly the offender, while abortion is a crime that does have a victim. And that is the unrepresented and totally helpless human fetus.

May I conclude by saying, read and look at all the pornography you want because that's your right. And if you believe in freedom and the rights of others, more power to you. But don't be a hypocrite and deny the most helpless of humans his rights either.

Rogers breaks from Nixon 'line'

by NICHOLAS DANILOFF

WASHINGTON — William P. Rogers, the low key Secretary of State, is parting company with the Nixon administration with a rash of outspoken statements suggesting he was becoming increasingly estranged from, and critical of, the White House.

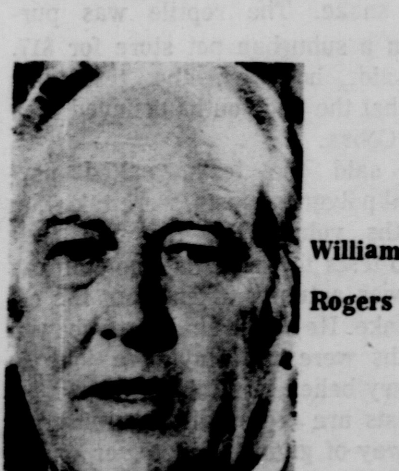
In the days immediately preceding his departure Sept. 3, Rogers, the last member of the original Nixon cabinet, said:

- The United States should not become so obsessed with security that laws are frequently violated.
- He had given President Nixon very little advice on how to handle the Watergate affair, in contrast to his intimate counseling role of 1952 when Nixon was under severe attack as a vice presidential candidate.
- He did not know of and would not have approved of the wiretapping of three top State Department officials in 1969-1971 ordered by the White House in an effort to stop news leaks.

Sources close to Rogers acknowledge that the outgoing Secretary of State, who is to be replaced by Presidential assistant Henry A. Kissinger, was disturbed by the Watergate scandal; the wiretapping orders, the violations of law and the creation of the "plumbers group" in the White House.

Rogers is known to feel that the government operates best when it follows procedures which have been developed over many years and relies on its established institutions.

Therefore, he believes the White House, rather than create the extraordinary "plumbers group," should have tried to convince FBI director J. Edgar Hoover of the need to take aggressive action to stop the news leaks. In the end, partly because of Hoover's uncooperative attitude, the White House went around his back to establish the controversial "plumbers."



William Rogers

Rogers also was galled by the manner in which Kissinger sought to increase his power within the administration and frequently usurped the authority of the Secretary of State.

However, Rogers made it a point — and still clings to it — always to refer in public in a polite manner to Kissinger, who provided the intellectual stimulus for the new American foreign policy.

Nevertheless, Rogers' associates say the secretary's view of his tenure is a balanced one.

He believes the Egyptian-Israeli ceasefire of 1970 was achieved entirely through the efforts of the State Department and his own negotiating abilites.

He also is proud to have been associated with an imaginative new foreign policy which has dramatically improved relations with Communist China and the Soviet Union.

Rogers recently told newsmen he felt like "the last of the whooping cranes" as he abandons the Nixon cabinet which will no longer have any of the officials Nixon presented one night in December 1968 before assuming office.

And while Rogers departs from the State Department with a reputation of having relatively little influence on foreign affairs, he is considered a man of notable integrity and humanity. (UPI)

Kissinger a good choice

President Richard Nixon's choice of Henry A. Kissinger as Secretary of State is more than the selection of the best man to fill this position; it creates the possibility of a fundamental shift in direction for the Nixon Administration.

For the past four and a half years, Kissinger has been the White House's resident shaper of cataclysmic changes in American foreign policy. Among his diplomatic triumphs have been the hard-won Vietnam peace accords and the spectacular rapport achieved with Communist China; he's also earned the reputation as the philosopher who undergirds Nixon's view of foreign affairs.

However, as a result of Kissinger's sweeping achievements, the 12,000-person State Department slid into obscurity. Formulating everyday policy and keeping the bureaucracy functioning fell to a nominal Secretary of State, William Rogers, while the glamor remained in the White House. Rogers did have triumphs, such as the 1970 Middle East settlement, but Kissinger stayed in the public's eye.

Business Today

NEW YORK — "There's a woman on board!" shouted the operator of the man-trip train as Barbara Krohta descended down the shaft of a Canadian copper mine to interview miners about low morale and high employe turnover.

"Person-trip train, they should call it now," said the 29-year-old management consultant, one of only 25 American women in that field.

In 2½ years as a consultant in the Los Angeles office of Theodore Barry and Associates, Miss Krohta has worked on several projects for the mining industry. But not until the firm assigned her to the copper mine run by the Grand Duke Operating Co. in British Columbia was she finally permitted to go underground.

"There's a superstition among American miners that if a woman goes down into the tunnels an accident or death will occur," Miss Krohta told UPI, "but my firm was careful to check that the fear had not spread to Canada."

IN HARD HAT and yellow oiler, Miss Krohta went underground regularly to conduct interviews and attitudinal testing among the 700 men working in the mine 800 miles north of Vancouver on the Alaskan border. "By the time I got dressed up, I don't see how those wild and wooly miners even knew I was a woman," she said.

Although top management of the copper mine was reluctant to hire Miss Krohta in the belief men would never talk to a woman, the miners dispelled this myth. "They were afraid at first to mention what they considered a crude subject," according to Miss Krohta, "but it soon became apparent that with only 20 women employed at the camp the miners' morale was low and the turnover in personnel high because they wanted a more normal community."

Miss Krohta, who worked as a market researcher for Douglas Oil Co. and an investment adviser before joining Barry, found 34 additional jobs women could handle at the camp. She also recommended expanding the housing facilities at the camp which now accommodate 400 single men while the 300 married miners must commute two hours one way to company units in Stewart, B.C., the nearest town. In a few cases, clients have refused to use her on a project simply because she is a woman. Miss Krohta admits she often has had to "sell" herself to clients who find it difficult enough to accept suggestions on how to restructure their businesses from an outsider, much less a woman. Once on the job, she has been accepted by even the most dubious client.

THEODORE BARRY and Associates, one of the first management consultant firms to hire a woman, assigned Miss Krohta to a coal mining study for the Federal government even before she had underground experience. Her name appeared as "B. Krohta" on the list of 50 consultants analyzing fatality reports. But her cover was blown when she and the 49 male consultants were called to Washington.

Government people are very, very quiet," she said in describing their reaction, "but they later used the fact a woman had worked on the project."

Even a firm like Barry cannot always anticipate situations that will crop up for a professional woman moving through what is essentially still a man's world. When Miss Krohta travels with a male colleague, the hotel discreetly books them into adjoining rooms. Since the government pays consultants on a per diem basis, men traveling together will double-up to cut costs, but Miss Krohta has the luxury and the expense of a room to herself. But after the proverbial business lunch, "the client insists on picking up the check," she said.

Universal Oil cancels auto catalyst plant

Universal Oil Products Co. announced it is cancelling construction of the portion of its Port of Catoosa, Okla. plant designed for spherical catalyst manufacture.

This action reflects recent customer product decisions outside the scope of the Catoosa plant's capability. The plant had been under design and in construction for approximately 10 months under an agreement between UOP and General Motors Corp. The two companies are discussing an equitable financial settlement concerning the spherical catalyst plant and regarding a continuing relationship in catalyst activities.

UOP stated it is continuing its research and development of spherical catalysts for automotive use. As previously announced, the company has several contracts to supply spherical catalyst and it is anticipated that these commitments will be met from UOP's production at existing locations and from affiliated production oversas.

UOP indicated that its monolithic catalyst plant and related service facilities are being constructed on schedule at Port of Catoosa. No difficulty is anticipated in meeting delivery commitments for the 1975 model cars under its contract with Chrysler Co. UOP stated it is examining other possible uses for some portion of the spherical catalyst facilities already constructed at Port of Catoosa.

Business Today

NEW YORK — "There's a woman on board!" shouted the operator of the man-trip train as Barbara Krohta descended down the shaft of a Canadian copper mine to interview miners about low morale and high employe turnover.

"Person-trip train, they should call it now," said the 29-year-old management consultant, one of only 25 American women in that field.

In 2½ years as a consultant in the Los Angeles office of Theodore Barry and Associates, Miss Krohta has worked on several projects for the mining industry. But not until the firm assigned her to the copper mine run by the Grand Duke Operating Co. in British Columbia was she finally permitted to go underground.

"There's a superstition among American miners that if a woman goes down into the tunnels an accident or death will occur," Miss Krohta told UPI, "but my firm was careful to check that the fear had not spread to Canada."

IN HARD HAT and yellow oiler, Miss Krohta went underground regularly to conduct interviews and attitudinal testing among the 700 men working in the mine 800 miles north of Vancouver on the Alaskan border. "By the time I got dressed up, I don't see how those wild and wooly miners even knew I was a woman," she said.

Although top management of the copper mine was reluctant to hire Miss Krohta in the belief men would never talk to a woman, the miners dispelled this myth. "They were afraid at first to mention what they considered a crude subject," according to Miss Krohta, "but it soon became apparent that with only 20 women employed at the camp the miners' morale was low and the turnover in personnel high because they wanted a more normal community."

Miss Krohta, who worked as a market researcher for Douglas Oil Co. and an investment adviser before joining Barry, found 34 additional jobs women could handle at the camp. She also recommended expanding the housing facilities at the camp which now accommodate 400 single men while the 300 married miners must commute two hours one way to company units in Stewart, B.C., the nearest town. In a few cases, clients have refused to use her on a project simply because she is a woman. Miss Krohta admits she often has had to "sell" herself to clients who find it difficult enough to accept suggestions on how to restructure their businesses from an outsider, much less a woman. Once on the job, she has been accepted by even the most dubious client.

THEODORE BARRY and Associates, one of the first management consultant firms to hire a woman, assigned Miss Krohta to a coal mining study for the Federal government even before she had underground experience. Her name appeared as "B. Krohta" on the list of 50 consultants analyzing fatality reports. But her cover was blown when she and the 49 male consultants were called to Washington.

Government people are very, very quiet," she said in describing their reaction, "but they later used the fact a woman had worked on the project."

Even a firm like Barry cannot always anticipate situations that will crop up for a professional woman moving through what is essentially still a man's world. When Miss Krohta travels with a male colleague, the hotel discreetly books them into adjoining rooms. Since the government pays consultants on a per diem basis, men traveling together will double-up to cut costs, but Miss Krohta has the luxury and the expense of a room to herself. But after the proverbial business lunch, "the client insists on picking up the check," she said.

Universal Oil Products Co. announced it is cancelling construction of the portion of its Port of Catoosa, Okla. plant designed for spherical catalyst manufacture.

This action reflects recent customer product decisions outside the scope of the Catoosa plant's capability. The plant had been under design and in construction for approximately 10 months under an agreement between UOP and General Motors Corp. The two companies are discussing an equitable financial settlement concerning the spherical catalyst plant and regarding a continuing relationship in catalyst activities.

UOP stated it is continuing its research and development of spherical catalysts for automotive use. As previously announced, the company has several contracts to supply spherical catalyst and it is anticipated that these commitments will be met from UOP's production at existing locations and from affiliated production oversas.

UOP indicated that its monolithic catalyst plant and related service facilities are being constructed on schedule at Port of Catoosa. No difficulty is anticipated in meeting delivery commitments for the 1975 model cars under its contract with Chrysler Co. UOP stated it is examining other possible uses for some portion of the spherical catalyst facilities already constructed at Port of Catoosa.

Federal funds can be used

New laws lift mental health outlook

by BOB LAHEY

The financial picture for local mental health services has brightened considerably in recent weeks, in light of the enactment of two new state laws and an upsurge in federal revenue-sharing funds alloted to townships.

Gov. Daniel Walker recently signed into law a bill specifying that townships could use federal revenue sharing funds for any "priority expenditures" defined by the federal government. Mental health is one of those categories.

And recently, township officials have learned they can expect approximately twice as much in revenue-sharing funds next year as they were anticipating.

Meanwhile, the governor also signed into law a bill authorizing townships to use monies from the town fund for payments "to established, recognized mental health agencies as payment for services to township residents." The bill was sponsored by Rep. Robert S. Juckett, R-Park Ridge, and co-sponsored by Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.

MANY TOWNSHIPS in the suburban area formerly supplied funds to mental health organizations through a 2 per cent fee they charged other governments for collection of taxes.

A court ruling in 1969, however, rendered that collection fee unlawful.

"Many mental health agencies were severely crippled by this change," Juckett noted, "and the state had to supply emergency aid."

Howard Olsen, Palatine Township supervisor, noted that prior to the court ruling, Palatine Township had supplied nearly $200,000 to mental health agencies "over a five or six-year period." Subsequently, a referendum to establish a mental health district, with taxing powers, failed. "Since that time, we have not been able to do much," Olsen noted.

But he said the Palatine Board of Auditors already is considering requests for revenue-sharing funds from mental health agencies, and expects to begin disbursing money soon.

The Juckett law specifically empowers townships to include "mental health and retardation" services in their budgets. Juckett said township officials had been reluctant to do that before because only "health" services were specified in the act.

Richard M. Hall, Elk Grove Township supervisor, said his board plans to make a "substantial contribution" to mental health next year through revenue sharing funds.

"But this bill means that if anything happens to revenue sharing, we would be able to continue such contributions," he said.

THE LAW DOES not affect the statutory limit on the tax rate of 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation for the town fund.

But all townships in the Northwest suburbs collect only a fraction of that amount. The town fund rate in Wheeling Township, for instance, is only 2.8 cents per $100 valuation.

Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, said township officials anticipate using revenue-sharing funds to bolster mental health services, but will also study the Juckett bill.

Vernon Laubenstein, Schaumburg Township supervisor, said his board has also planned expanded mental health contributions in anticipation of the two new laws.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out about the latest methods of hearing correction.

The hearing test will be given Monday and Tuesday. If you can't get there on Monday or Tuesday, call one of the numbers below and arrange for an appointment at another time. Shut-in service is available in your home. Just phone the Beltone Hearing Aid Service nearest to you.

Free Hearing Tests Set For Senior Citizens

Electronic hearing tests will be given at Beltone Hearing Aid Service offices on Monday and Tuesday.

Factory-trained hearing aid specialists will be at all of the offices listed below to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to have a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular loss. Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out about the latest methods of hearing correction.

The hearing test will be given Monday and Tuesday. If you can't get there on Monday or Tuesday, call one of the numbers below and arrange for an appointment at another time. Shut-in service is available in your home. Just phone the Beltone Hearing Aid Service nearest to you.

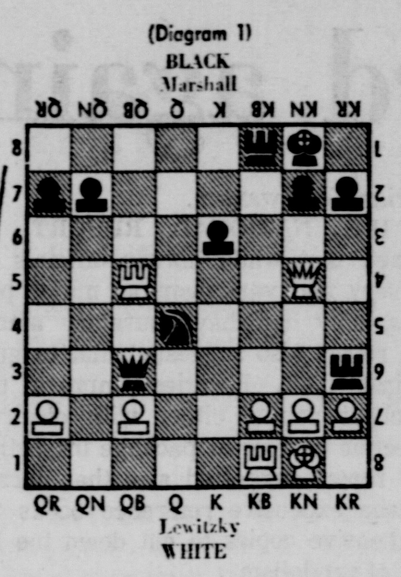
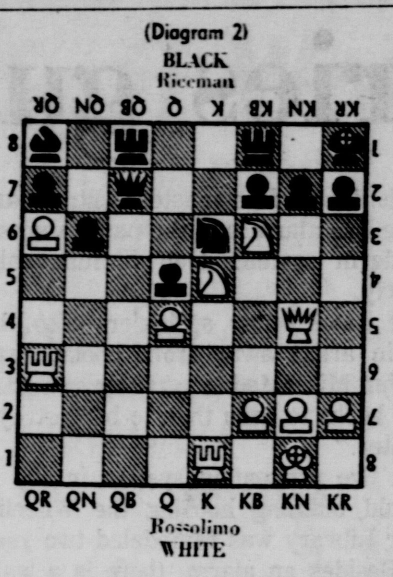
Shelby Lyman on Chess

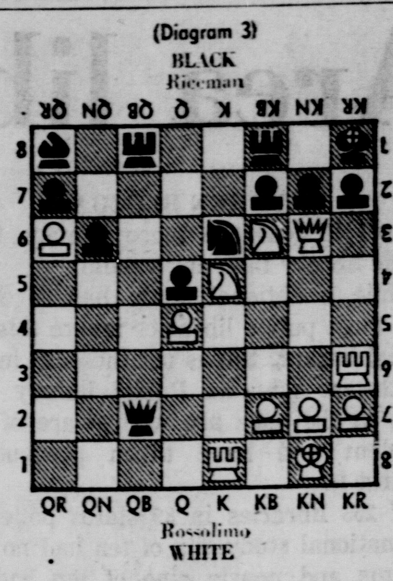
Be prepared for an astounding move



Hold your breath and find black's move.



White to play, now it's easy.



Rub your eyes, this is the final position.

An unmitigated materialist motive can paralyze thought. The other extreme, cavalier disregard for one's pieces, may gain the player a state of spiritual grace, which for most players is not adequate compensation for a minus score. A balance between the two tendencies is rarely achieved. All one can say is that all other things being equal, material is crucial. But all other things are rarely equal.

In almost any position it may be feasible to give up a pawn or even a more valuable piece, at least temporarily. Most "sacrifices" of this kind are "sham" sacrifices; a forced return of the sacrificed material could be seen from the beginning.

With this discussion in mind, open your eyes wide and look at our first position. If a blinding flash of lightning sears the ranks and files of your board, you have found the move made by Frank Marshall (black) against S. Lewitzky in 1912. If you have found the move, either you've seen the position or like Marshall you're a friend incarnate.

The "impossible" move is 1) . . . Q-KN6 threatening QxP checkmate. The Queen, 'mirabile dictu,' can be captured three ways and all of them speedily and simply lose. You must try working out what happens after each capture. Here are the variations to check your analysis with:

I. 2) BPxQ, N-K7 check forcing mate;

II. 2) RPxQ, N-K7 mate;

III. 2) QxQ, N-K7 check; 3) K-R1, NxQ check; 4) K-N1, NxR and black is a piece ahead.

While the spectators were showering Marshall with gold pieces after Q-KN6, Lewitzky resigned.

Once in history would seem to be enough. Yet in the San Juan International Tournament in Puerto Rico in 1967, Nicholas Rossolimo, one of the few players of the romantic school around, achieved the following position with white.

(Diagram 2)

The winning move? You guessed it, Q-KN6. Riceman (black) temporarily stopped the mate with 1) . . . Q-B7. But after 2) R-R3, reaching diagram three, mate was unavoidable. With the Marshall game as a model, work out the variations.

(Diagram 3)

LYMANISM

"As in marriage, the protagonist in chess achieves the mate he or she deserves."

Copyright 1973 by Shelby Lyman

Address your chess questions to Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

How the chessmen move

THE PAWN moves only forward one space, with the exception of its first move when it has the option of moving two spaces forward. It captures one square diagonally forward.

THE KNIGHT moves and captures in the form of a capital L — two spaces in either a horizontal or vertical direction and one space to the right or left. It is the only piece permitted to jump over other men.

THE QUEEN, the most powerful piece on the board, moves and captures diagonally, and horizontally and vertically, along the ranks and files.

THE ROOK (occasionally called the castle) moves and captures horizontally and vertically, along the ranks and files.

THE BISHOP moves and captures diagonally.

LYMANISM

"As in marriage, the protagonist in chess achieves the mate he or she deserves."

Address your chess questions to Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

How the chessmen move

THE PAWN moves only forward one space, with the exception of its first move when it has the option of moving two spaces forward. It captures one square diagonally forward.

THE KNIGHT moves and captures in the form of a capital L — two spaces in either a horizontal or vertical direction and one space to the right or left. It is the only piece permitted to jump over other men.

THE QUEEN, the most powerful piece on the board, moves and captures diagonally, and horizontally and vertically, along the ranks and files.

THE ROOK (occasionally called the castle) moves and captures horizontally and vertically, along the ranks and files.

THE BISHOP moves and captures diagonally.

THE KING moves and captures one square at a time in any direction.

Area libraries guard against fire

by KAREN BLECHA

Fire! It could do more damage to a public library than any vandal.

While a national study has revealed that most public libraries ignore this potential hazard, this is not the case in the Northwest suburbs. Public library officials in the area are well aware of the problem and have taken precautions against it.

Of 255 libraries in 39 states polled in the national study, six of ten had no fire alarms and nearly nine of ten had no automatic sprinkler systems. Out of nine public libraries polled by The Herald, only one did not have at least a fire alarm or a heat-activated sprinkler system. Three libraries had both.

Only the Elk Grove Village Public Library had neither an alarm nor sprinkler system. Librarian Mary Clark said the building is "as fireproof as materials can possibly be." Also, there are eight fire extinguishers in the library and the fire department is only about a minute away, she said.

"The fire department could smell a fire here," said Virginia James, business manager. "They could probably even smell a burnt out bulb." Elk Grove, like the other libraries, receives periodic inspections by the fire department.

The Mount Prospect Public Library does not have a fire alarm, but does have a powder sprinkler system that can be set off by heat detectors. "We have about five sprinkler systems in the building," said Mary Jo Hutchings, librarian. "We are trying to keep up with the new developments." The original library was built in 1950 and added to in 1962.

THE DES PLAINES, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, and Arlington Heights libraries have fire alarms hooked up directly to the fire department or police station. The alarms can be set off manually by breaking the glass in the alarm box or by heat and smoke detectors throughout the building. Librarians reported that several times false alarms went off, the fire departments responded in minutes.

"A rise of 15 degrees in heat per minute will set off our alarms," said Bob Day, maintenance engineer at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library. "If you held a match underneath one you would set off the alarm in a minute."

The Arlington Heights library, the largest in circulation in the Northwest suburbs, also has fire extinguishers on both floors. "We have a water pressure extinguisher on the main floor which is good for paper," Day said. "And we have Co2 extinguishers on the upper floor which is good for electrical fires and flammable liquids." He said the piping in the building, is all asbestos and the building itself is nearly all concrete block, "as good a fireproofing method as there is."

When Rolling Meadows built its library in 1968, planners were very conscious about the possibility of fire. "At that time it was advised not to put in a water sprinkler system because they cause more damage to the books than fire," said librarian Virginia Connell. "Today, though, there is a better drying-out system for books.

LIBRARIES IN Prospect Heights, Wheeling and Schaumburg Township have sprinkler systems besides the alarms. The Prospect Heights Public library, with a new building that opened last November, has overhead water sprinklers throughout the library. The carpet is also fire resistant, according to librarian Rose McDonald.

Besides local inspections, the library also gets inspected by the state, according to Mrs. McDonald.

The Schaumburg Township library, with a new building that also opened in November, has an elaborate fire detection system like the one found in public schools. There is a master control panel for the fire alarm and the panel shows if the alarm system itself is functioning properly.

"We have water sprinklers also, but only in areas away from books," said librarian Mike Madden. "I think its harder for books to burn than to be destroyed by water."

The fire prevention system in the 17-year-old building housing the Wheeling Public Library was remodeled two years ago. Besides an alarm, there is a water sprinkler system above the section where periodicals are stored, according to librarian Ken Swanson.

THE NATIONAL REPORT also showed that while library officials cite thievery and vandalism as major problems, only half have burglary alarms. The report also suggested that to guard against theft, libraries improve their checkout points, either with electronic detection devices or package inspections. The report suggested also that libraries replace expensive reference books with inexpensive copies to cut down the high cost of vandalism.

The Wheeling, Schaumburg Township, Prospect Heights and Arlington Heights libraries have burglar alarms hooked up to the local police stations. Although there have been false alarms, no library has ever suffered a burglary.

To guard against theft during open hours, the libraries have all centralized their checkout desks and have limited entrances and exits to one area. Fire doors in other areas of the buildings have alarms that go off when the doors are opened.

The Des Plaines Public Library is the only library to provide an inspection at the door which is done manually during peak hours, between 4 and 9 p.m.

The Lighter Side... by Dick West

Boycotts work both ways—by buyers and sellers

WASHINGTON—Consumer boycotts take two forms. In one, the consumer is the boycotter, as happened last spring when carnivorous supermarket customers rebelled against high meat prices.

In the otner type, the consumer becomes the boycottee. As is happening now under Phase IV of the government's knockout blow against inflation.

Cattlemen, for example, are boycotting consumers by holding cows off the market to protect beef price controls.

And during the Labor Day weekend, according to the American Automobile Association, thousands of service station operators plan to boycott consumers by closing their doors in protest over gasoline price controls.

FURTHERMORE, a survey by the National Federation of Independent Business shows that many gas stations are reducing their services even when they are open for business.

Such common amenities as washing windshields, checking radiators and airing up tires are rapidly being dispensed with. Fair enough.

We consumers have accepted these many civilities over the years with hardly a "thank you."

Now that gasoline dealers are in a profit squeeze because of price controls, it behooves us all to return the courtesy.

I'm not suggesting a motorist should get out of the car and wash the service station window every time he stops for gas.

But you can invite your gasoline dealer to stop and use your bathroom any time he's in your neighbohood. And there are numerous other ways you can show your appreciation for all that he has done for you.

Whenever I am having my tank filled, I make it a point to hand the attendant a few dozen Green Stamps.

If I purchase 10 gallons or more, I give hi ma free water glass imprinted with the likeness of Bobby Riggs clad in a loin cloth and dragging Billie Jean King across a tennis court by her hair.

When I use my credit card, I give him a certificate entitling him to buy a set of bonehandled steak knives at a big discount.

THE LATTER GIFT may seem an empty gesture in view of the aforementioned consumer boycott by cattlemen. But it's the spirit that counts.

Finally, I give him a bonus card in an exciting game called "Lucky Bur." Each card contains the testimony of one of the Watergate witnesses. Anyone who can make two cards match wins a $5,000 paper-shredding machine.

As in the games that oil companies used to sponsor, the odds are 10,000 to 1.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and
James Jacoby

We are indebted to the Encyclopedia of Bridge for today's hand. South would be better off in three notrump where he has nine top tricks, but he lands in four hearts.

West opens the queen of clubs. East puts on his ace and returns the jack. West ruffs South's king and leads back a trump to South's jack. South cashes a second high trump and East shows out.

It looks as if South has to lose two club tricks, but that is a mirage. South can bring home the contract by means of a most unusual and interesting unblocking play.

He starts by playing a third trump. Then he cashes the aces of diamonds and spades. The jack of spades is now led and overtaken by dummy's queen.

The queen of diamonds is led from dummy and after East follows low South discards his good king of spades.

West wins with the king of diamonds and is a dead duck. He has to lead a spade or a diamond. Either one allows South to discard his two losing clubs on the 10 of spades and jack of diamonds.

The Lighter Side ... by Dick West

Boycotts work both ways–by buyers and sellers

WASHINGTON—Consumer boycotts take two forms. In one, the consumer is the boycotter, as happened last spring when carnivorous supermarket customers rebelled against high meat prices.

In the otner type, the consumer becomes the boycottee. As is happening now under Phase IV of the government's knockout blow against inflation.

Cattlemen, for example, are boycotting consumers by holding cows off the market to protect beef price controls.

And during the Labor Day weekend, according to the American Automobile Association, thousands of service station operators plan to boycott consumers by closing their doors in protest over gasoline price controls.

FURTHERMORE, a survey by the National Federation of Independent Business shows that many gas stations are reducing their services even when they are open for business.

Such common amenities as washing windshields, checking radiators and airing up tires are rapidly being dispensed with. Fair enough.

We consumers have accepted these many civilities over the years with hardly a "thank you."

Now that gasoline dealers are in a profit squeeze because of price controls, it behooves us all to return the courtesy.

I'm not suggesting a motorist should get out of the car and wash the service station window every time he stops for gas.

But you can invite your gasoline dealer to stop and use your bathroom any time he's in your neighbohood. And there are numerous other ways you can show your appreciation for all that he has done for you.

Whenever I am having my tank filled, I make it a point to hand the attendant a few dozen Green Stamps.

If I purchase 10 gallons or more, I give hi ma free water glass imprinted with the likeness of Bobby Riggs clad in a loin cloth and dragging Billie Jean King across a tennis court by her hair.

When I use my credit card, I give him a certificate entitling him to buy a set of bonehandled steak knives at a big discount.

THE LATTER GIFT may seem an empty gesture in view of the aforementioned consumer boycott by cattlemen. But it's the spirit that counts.

Finally, I give him a bonus card in an exciting game called "Lucky Bur." Each card contains the testimony of one of the Watergate witnesses. Anyone who can make two cards match wins a $5,000 paper-shredding machine.

As in the games that oil companies used to sponsor, the odds are 10,000 to 1.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and
James Jacoby

We are indebted to the Encyclopedia of Bridge for today's hand. South would be better off in three notrump where he has nine top tricks, but he lands in four hearts.

West opens the queen of clubs. East puts on his ace and returns the jack. West ruffs South's king and leads back a trump to South's jack. South cashes a second high trump and East shows out.

It looks as if South has to lose two club tricks, but that is a mirage. South can bring home the contract by means of a most unusual and interesting unblocking play.

He starts by playing a third trump. Then he cashes the aces of diamonds and spades. The jack of spades is now led and overtaken by dummy's queen.

The queen of diamonds is led from dummy and after East follows low South discards his good king of spades.

West wins with the king of diamonds and is a dead duck. He has to lead a spade or a diamond. Either one allows South to discard his two losing clubs on the 10 of spades and jack of diamonds.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Could you please tell me something about Parkinson's disease and what it's all about. I understand there isn't too much known about it. I would like information about the cause, the symptoms and the effects it has on an individual.

Dear Reader — Parkinson's disease involves changes in brain cells, particularly those that control movements. In Parkinson's disease the contracted muscles cause stiffness. The muscles that are contracted are those that cause the stooped posture characteristic of Parkinson's disease. The body movements are actually slowed because it's more difficult to move the joints when some of the muscles are stiffened.

The disease may involve many different muscle groups. Characteristically, the arms may become stiff, even the muscles that move the tongue and lips are affected, which in turn can involve the speech. The muscles of the face may become stiff causing the mask-like expressionless stare of the person with Parkinson's disease.

The most common first symptom of Parkinson's disease is the tremor of the hand. It may involve one or both hands. There are many different kinds of tremors, including those caused by overactive thyroids, so the presence of the tremor alone is not proof of Parkinson's disease. The movement of the thumb against the fingers in Parkinson's disease has been described as a pill rolling tremor, characteristic of the disease. Very often a person with this problem may be doing something and simply freeze in one position.

The cause for the changes in the brain cells in most cases is not known. In a few cases, the cause is identifiable as previous encephalitis (inflammation of the brain), poisoning (either through drugs or toxins), and, rarely, brain tumors or other problems. Many individuals with encephalitis during an epidemic in 1918 to 1926 developed Parkinson's disease later. Some manifested their first symptom as long as 10 years after the episode of encephalitis. It's rare for the symptoms to progress sufficiently rapid to disable an individual within five years after the first symptom is first noted. It usually takes 10 to 20 years before the individual becomes incapacitated.

PERHAPS THE most widely popularized treatment is the use of L-Dopa. Apparently it replaces some needed chemical substance within the affected brain cells so that normal function is resumed, which in turn means the spasticity or rigidity of the over-contracted muscles disappears. As they relax, the person may return to near normal function. Not everyone has benefitted from this medicine and some people have complications from it. Nevertheless, it is an important addition to treatment of these problems.

Other medicines have been used and the whole gamut of physical therapy, including heat and exercises to maintain the full range of function for as long as possible.

Brain surgery has been helpful in some cases, although it's not indicated for everybody either and it's not universally successful. By destroying the cells that stimulate the muscles to overcontraction, these muscles can be relaxed, eliminating the stiffness and the rigid contractions of these muscles and thereby providing more normal movement. It is a promising area for continued investigation and probable use in selected cases.

Cigarettes that fail standard may be banned

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Smokers whose cigarettes fail to meet nicotine and tar standards being prepared by the Federal Consumer Product Safety Commission may find their brands missing from tobacco store shelves.

Chairman Richard O. Simpson said Wednesday he is awaiting a petition from Congressmen calling for the commission to set standards for cigarettes. He also said the newly formed commission has the power to regulate and set standards for cigarettes on its own.

That power, he said, comes under the Hazardous Substances Act, which includes "any substance" which can produce personal injury through ingestion, inhalation into the body.

SPEAKING AT Newark College of Engineering, Simpson said the ban could include some or all brands which fail to meet maximum tar and nicotine levels outlined in the petition. However, guidelines have not been formulated yet.

Despite warnings printed on cigarette packages that "The surgeon general has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health," Simpson said sales have increased.

He said he expected the proposal to be challenged by the industry in court. An official of the Tobacco Institute agreed.

HORACE KORNEGAY, president of the trade association, argued that the Hazardous Substances Act was not enacted to include tobacco.

"It was to prevent household injuries, such as children swallowing cleaning fluids and that kind of thing," said Kornegay.

Simpson, whose comments were made in a speech to the Product Liability Prevention Conference meeting here, said warning labels on cigarette packages should substantially back the commission's petition.

School district likes banking on its own computer

by WANDALYN RICE

While officials of the eight school districts in the Northwest Education Cooperative (NEC) computer co-op struggle with the problems of their organization, administrators in Arlington Heights Dist. 25 watch with neighborly concern — and a large measure of relief.

Dist. 25, with its 18 elementary and junior high schools, is one of two school districts in NEC which chose not to join the co-op which began in 1969. The other district is High School Dist. 211, which has its own computer.

During the past year, as the co-op has been plagued by equipment failures and as member districts have complained about a lack of service, Dist. 25 has been receiving computer budgeting and bill paying service from Continental Bank in Chicago for about $1,100 a month, according to Business Mgr. Dan Suffoletto.

Dist. 25 first became involved with Continental Bank in 1971 when the district was looking for computer services to replace the system they had been sharing with High School Dist. 214. Dist. 214 at that time was in the process of joining the NEC co-op.

THE DISTRICT had been looking at the possibility of PPBS budgeting, a system of computer budgeting first developed in the Department of Defense under Robert McNamara, Supt. Donald Strong explains. Continental Bank at that time was interested in developing a computer program it could sell to school districts and the two sides got together.

"Continental gave us free service for a year and we started working together on programmed budgeting," Strong says. In addition, the bank paid the school district an hourly rate for consultant time spent with Strong and other administrators in developing the program.

The district is now in its second year of paying for the program and Suffoletto has a computer terminal installed in his office so he can communicate directly with Continental's equipment. The bank does the district's payroll and bill-paying and in addition provides the district with budget information.

The budget information is being used by the school district in several ways, the administrators explain. "We can tell you what it costs to teach first grade in any particular school," Donald Monroe, director of administration and planning, says. "The staff can look at the budget and make decisions about alternative ways to spend the money to get results.

"In a sense it expands the teacher's role into that of a manager of a program."

DIST. 25 DOES not do student class scheduling in junior high school by computer yet, even though some members of the NEC co-op are trying to do that this year. "That has not been one of our priorities," Strong said.

So far, seven school districts are using the computer system, according to Continental vice-president Thomas Patterson.

Dist. 25 officials have been pleased by the way the system has worked out. "We have the best of all possible worlds," Strong says. "We are in the system from the beginning so it's tailor made to our needs."

13th headliner attracts over 700 entries

Paddock tennis tourney to begin Saturday

A record field of 737 women, men, girls and boys have entered the 13th annual Paddock Publications Tennis Tournament this weekend.

The three-day Labor Day weekend tourney, scheduled to begin Saturday, easily bettered last year's all-time high entry mark of 544.

Many courts in the area will be handling the abundance of tennis talent with Arlington High School serving as the center for the meet. Starting times will be 8 a.m. for boys and girls, 9:00 for men, 10:00 for women and 2:00 for doubles.

The 14 different categories allows players of all ages to compete. And the price for entering — a slim $1 — makes this late summer tourney a tough one to pass up.

The normal two-for-three-sets rule will apply with a nine-point tiebreaker to be used if a set is knotted at 6-6. New balls must be supplied by each player.

Back for defense of their titles are seven champions — John Laffey in Junior Vet Singles, Larry Brown in Junior Vet Doubles, Greg Harris in Men's Doubles, Rachel Kotsagis in Women's Singles, Rachel and Lynne Schwabe — who won as a doubles team — playing separately in Women's Doubles and John Paczkowski in Boys' Doubles.

This was how the division champions were determined last year:

Junior Vets' Singles — Laffey repeated as champ with a 6-7, 6-4, 6-0 win over Chuck Schunk.

Junior Vets' Doubles — Larry Brown and Schunk defeated Lyle Davidson and Bob Fink 7-6, 1-6, 6-1.

Men's Singles — Barry Magee over Lothar Peistrup 6-2, 7-5.

Men's Doubles — Magee and Harris over Steve Morgan and Bob McDole.

Women's Singles — Kotsaqis over Schwabe 6-0, 6-1.

Since this is the first year for the Senior Men's Singles and Doubles divisions, there naturally aren't any defending champs.

Also guaranteed new champions are Men's Singles, Boys' Singles, Girls' Singles and Doubles and Junior Boys' Singles and Doubles.

Peistrup, last year's runnerup in Men's Singles will be challenged by, among others, Paczkowski and Merkel, Illinois High School Association doubles champs. A total of 108 men will be vying for the title. The only other division that can equal this one for entrants is the Junior Boys' Singles.

MY NAME IS Susan Eames Frisk, and I am 7 years old.

I have been writing this column since I was 5 because I like baseball so much and Dad says it's hard to find things to write about at this time in the summer.

Dad says it's hard to find things to write about every week. He says if I write one of his columns every year and he misses four columns because of his vacation, he has to write only 47.

I really don't understand quite what Dad does at work because I don't see his name on many stories any more, but he says he keeps busy. He says he reads other stories before they go in the paper and puts out the pages, whatever that means, and writes headlines and goes to meetings, or something like that.

I still don't know what he does.

I should tell you right now that I still like the Chicago White Sox and I know they haven't been playing good. I am old enough to know that they have had so many players hurt this year that it has been hard to win.

My favorite player like I told you in my first column when I was 5 is Bill Melton. He will always be my favorite, but I like Dick Allen too and I feel bad that Dick is hurt and won't be able to play. I felt bad last year when Bill got hurt and didn't play.

Why are our good players always getting hurt?

You wouldn't believe what happened this week. It was the most exciting thing that has ever happened to me in my life and I am 7 years old. I met Bill Melton, and he was real nice to me and showed me his bat and I had my picture taken with him and he autographed a picture for me.

One of the White Sox coaches came over and gave me a brand new American League baseball, and I have never seen anything like that. Now I don't have to worry if I don't get a foul ball at the games. But I'll always have my glove ready.

I even met Mr. Hemond, who trades the players and pays them money and does all sorts of other jobs for the White Sox. It was real neat because everybody was so nice to me there. I guess they know I write a column.

I like to go to White Sox Park because they play so many games at night when Mom and Dad can go with and they give away bats and photo mugs and cushions and all sorts of neat things for kids and have fireworks also. And it's not as hot at night for me.

I hope the White Sox know I'm a good fan because I never give up. My Dad gives up all the time. I hope he doesn't read this, but he is a terrible fan. He doesn't even watch the games any more because he says they have been losing so much. He is watching football now, but he always gets mad at the Chicago Bears so I don't know why he watches them either. Why do you look at something that makes you mad?

Dad isn't a very good sport. He only seems to like a team when they win. I like the White Sox whether they win or lose because I know they don't try to lose but some times it just happens. They're playing a lot of kids now, not kids like me but kids that are a little older.

I like to listen to Harry Caray on the television and radio because he makes everything sound so interesting. Bob Waller is good also on television, and I think Gene Osborn is better now on the radio than he was before. He didn't get very excited before.

Dad says some of the players don't seem to like Harry Caray because he says bad things about them some times, but I think Harry is just a good fan who wants the team to win so much he says those things. The kids like Harry because he makes it sound so exciting and is funny also.

When Rick Reichardt was with the White Sox and did so terrible batting, Harry was always telling him on the television to swing the bat. I mean what's so bad about that? Isn't a player supposed to swing the bat? I think I can swing the bat harder than some of those times Rick Reichardt tried.

If you think Harry was saying bad things about Rick Reichardt and the way he was batting when he was with the White Sox, you should have heard my Dad. I don't know what some of the words were that he used, but I was told to leave the room first.

The kids in my neighborhood like both the White Sox and Cubs, and I think that is the way it should be. Grandpa likes the Cubs best and kids me a lot. I like to see the Cubs win also, and I can't understand why some kids and older people say you have to like one team or the other in Chicago.

I like both Chicago teams, but I just happen to like the White Sox better. I think the kids who say you can't like both teams are wrong because why would you want any Chicago team to lose?

Maybe the Cubs will win the pennant and that would be exciting for Chicago. What I don't understand is why the Cubs might win a pennant with a record about the same as the White Sox and the White Sox will finish far behind? That seems funny.

I would like to see the Cubs play some games too, but it's more fun to go at night and easier for my Dad to take me. Dad says the Cubs don't play night games. I thought all the teams played night games.

Wouldn't it be fun to see the White Sox and Cubs play games against each other in the summer? I don't understand why they don't play because the White Sox travel all the way to California to play, but they don't play a team in their same city. But I'm just a kid and I don't understand things like that.

Dad says the American League wants to play the National League, but the National League doesn't want to play and the man who could make the final decision (Ed. Note: Commissioner Bowie Kuhn) doesn't make any decisions. What is he supposed to do in his job?

Dad says the American League is trying different things to help get more fans and it seems to be working. I really like the designated hitter rule because I know I don't like to watch baseball games and see a pitcher come up and just swing the bat and miss and sit down. I think I can hit better than some of those pitchers, and I am only 7 years old.

Did I tell you I went to the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown this summer and it sure was exciting. Every kid who likes baseball should see the Hall of Fame and see the uniforms of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig and all the bats and balls and different things. They had all the baseball cards from bubble gum on display there also, I think it's almost 700, and because I collect them, I thought that was the neatest thing they had, even neater than Babe Ruth.

The baseball season will be over in a month and then I can watch football again although I still like baseball best. I like all sports and some people might think this funny because I am a girl, but I don't think that should make any difference. I see lots of girls at the baseball and football games. Why can't girls play some sports and be fans also?

I think I'll end this now and go watch the White Sox play.

Dad just came into the room and he says he would rather read than watch the White Sox play tonight.

But you wait. If I call and tell him the White Sox are winning the game, he will come into the room and be interested and watch also. He only gets interested when they are winning.

I know the White Sox will be great next year if all these players don't get hurt again, but Dad says Chicago fans are always waiting until next year.

I really don't understand Dad at times. He likes sports and writes about sports, but he sure is a poor sport.

I hope he doesn't read this.

Gibron 'burns up' reader

Fan's Forum

Dear Fans Forum:

I read something the other day that really burns me up. And I quote from an article in a Chicago paper:

"Down in Rensselaer, Ind., recently, Abe Gibron was holding up Allen (Dick) as a horrible example of what happens when a ball player is singled out for special attention. 'It had to happen," insisted the Chicago Bears' head coach. 'Allen has ruined that team.' "

That's the most ridiculous comment I've ever heard, particularly from a coach who "directed" the hapless Bears to the grand total of four victories last year and has yet to prove he even belongs as a head coach in the National Football League.

What right does Gibron have to pass judgment on Dick Allen's value to the White Sox? Just for the record, Mr. Gibron, when Allen suffered a leg fracture, the White Sox were one game out of first place and had won 10 of 15 one-run decisions. Now, they are about 16 out of first and have lost 14 of 21 one-run games since his departure.

Dick Allen is one of the most exciting players in baseball today. Have you ever been at White Sox Park when he walks to the plate? Have you ever watched the way the crowd comes alive when Allen bats?

Is it Allen's fault he got hurt this year? He has helped bring that franchise back to life and for that, and for the million-plus people that now watch the Sox play every year, Dick Allen is worth every center and HAS NOT RUINED THAT TEAM.

I would love to see how Gibron would react and how the Bears would do if they had as many injuries as the White Sox.

Gibron should stick to his coaching. Dick Allen certainly has accomplished more in his chosen profession than Abe Gibron.

LOOK WHO IS HOMER LEADER

Dear Fans Forum:

For all you National League fans who wrote in saying how much better your league is, let me tell you now that as of Monday, Atlanta's Davey Johnson (remember him, Baltimore fans?) was leading the MAJOR LEAGUES in home runs while playing in the tough NL. This is the same Davey Johnson who had never hit more than 18 homers in the American League. It must be that "tough" National League pitching.

It also seems to be, but I could be wrong, that Jose Cardenal, who struggled in the American League, continues to hit over .300 and play well in the tough National League. And isn't that ex-American League flop Del Unser hitting .307 with the Phillies?

It works both ways, National League fans, and you don't have anything to brag about anyway when you look at that disaster they call the National League East. If a team wins that division and finishes at or under .500, it would set baseball back 50 years.

STOP KNOCKING THE EAST

Dear Herald:

I'm getting tired of all this talk about how lousy the National League East is and how nobody deserves to win anything.

Isn't the object to win your own division first?

Does it really make that much difference what your record is as long as you win your division?

Granted, the Cubs haven't been playing the consistent baseball you expect from a champion, but their objective at the start of the season was to win their division first. And they still have a chance no matter how they've been playing.

COULD BE "BLACK EYE"

Dear Fans Forum:

Red Schoendienst, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, was quoted as saying last week, "The National League East winner might not break .500 but that World Series money spends the same no matter what the winner's record is."

You may be right about that, Red, but tell that to NBC and Bowie Kuhn. Can you imagine the World Series ratings on television if a sub-.500 team gets into it? Can you imagine the black eye major league baseball would receive if a sub-.500 team gets into the World Series?

If this happens, professional baseball would fall even further behind professional football in its hold on the fans.

Bowie Kuhn, NBC television, and all the leaders of baseball must be giving silent prayers every night that the National League East doesn't make it into the World Series.

Conley visits with Cardinals

Steve Conley

Steve Conley is coming home — briefly.

The Arlington Heights product, who starred for Arlington High School's undefeated 1966 team and later at Kansas University, is now a member of the St. Louis Cardinals, who will be in town to take on the Bears in an exhibition game Saturday night. (All 55,000 seats at Soldier Field have been sold out for more than a week).

For old friends and neighbors who are interested in visiting, Steve will be home early Saturday afternoon for a brief time after a morning team meeting. His younger brothers, who are active in Arlington Heights boys football, are planning to make a banner in his honor.

One more cut remains for the Cardinals to trim their roster down to the required limit, but Conley is confident of sticking. There is also a good chance he will see plenty of action against the Bears. He did not play against the New York Jets last week, but coaches later apologized, saying they wanted a better look at other running backs — who were then cut.

Conley, who was a star running back at Arlington and at Kansas, is also "back home" as far as his position is concerned. He was drafted by the Cincinnati Bengals last year as a linebacker because of his mobility to go with good size. But this year, the Cards have switched him back to running back — which pleases Steve.

He has lost 10 to 15 pounds since the beginning of training camp and now carries 225 pounds on his 6-3½ frame.

Paddock tennis tourney to begin Saturday

A record field of 737 women, men, girls and boys have entered the 13th annual Paddock Publications Tennis Tournament this weekend.

The three-day Labor Day weekend tourney, scheduled to begin Saturday, easily bettered last year's all-time high entry mark of 544.

Many courts in the area will be handling the abundance of tennis talent with Arlington High School serving as the center for the meet. Starting times will be 8 a.m. for boys and girls, 9:00 for men, 10:00 for women and 2:00 for doubles.

The 14 different categories allows players of all ages to compete. And the price for entering — a slim $1 — makes this late summer tourney a tough one to pass up.

The normal two-for-three-sets rule will apply with a nine-point tiebreaker to be used if a set is knotted at 6-6. New balls must be supplied by each player.

Back for defense of their titles are seven champions — John Laffey in Junior Vet Singles, Larry Brown in Junior Vet Doubles, Greg Harris in Men's Doubles, Rachel Kotsagis in Women's Singles, Rachel and Lynne Schwabe — who won as a doubles team — playing separately in Women's Doubles and John Paczkowski in Boys' Doubles.

This was how the division champions were determined last year:

Junior Vets' Singles — Laffey repeated as champ with a 6-7, 6-4, 6-0 win over Chuck Schunk.

Junior Vets' Doubles — Larry Brown and Schunk defeated Lyle Davidson and Bob Fink 7-6, 1-6, 6-1.

Men's Singles — Barry Magee over Lothar Peistrup 6-2, 7-5.

Men's Doubles — Magee and Harris over Steve Morgan and Bob McDole.

Women's Singles — Kotsagis over Schwabe 6-0, 6-1.

Women's Doubles — Kotsagis and Schwabe over Jean Hetman and Clare Gates 6-1, 6-1.

Boys' Singles — Steve Wild over John Paczkowski 6-2, 4-6, 6-4.

Boys' Doubles — Paczkowski and Jim Merkel over Kevin McNamara and Matt Borman 6-1, 6-1.

Girls' Singles — Andrea Laffey over Sue Whiting 6-3, 6-7, 6-3.

Girls' Doubles — Laffey and Whiting over Robin Heileman and Debbie Smart 6-4, 6-0.

Junior Boys' Singles — Buddy Edmondson over Dan Hanson 6-0, 6-0.

Junior Boys Doubles — Edmondson and Luke Weeg over Mitch Patterson and Tom Mayers 6-0, 6-0.

Since this is the first year for the Senior Men's Singles and Doubles divisions, there naturally aren't any defending champs.

Illinois Range finishes like a champ with win

Illinois Range, needing only 2½ points to win their division's first place trophy, finished like a champion Tuesday night with a 7½-2½ victory over Louie's Barber Shop, and wound up the 1973 Mount Prospect Twilight Golf season with a full 10-point margin over second place Mike's Marathon Service.

Capt. Don Snyder was the big point winner for Illinois Range in the final match. His 40 gross 33 net gave him a two point victory over opponent Bud Powell, plus the bonus point for low individual net. George Kratsch took two points from Pete Petersen with a seven foot putt on the final hole, and Carl Benrud added 1½ points to the total in his match with Carl Lindquist.

Capt. Wayne White was the only winner for Louie's, taking two points from opponent Rollie Becker, while Lindquist's ½ point completed the Barbers' scoring.

Hal Jebens, Illinois Range fifth man and a very important point getter for the team, was enjoying the night off with no match.

Surprisingly, Mike's Marathon Service, who had been lurking back in fourth place, defeated Annen & Busse Realtors 7½-2½, which gave them the point total to wind up the season as second place winners ahead of Louie's Barber Shop team.

Unfortunately for Louie's, their loss to Illinois Range and low point accumulation in the final match not only deneid them the first place finish they were seeking, but caused them to finish the season in third.

By way of consolation, Louie's can lay claim to being the most exciting team of the Tuesday Division. They were the only team that at some time during the summer occupied both first and last place. They also set a new record by scoring five 10-0 shutouts during a single season.

There was considerable juggling of team standings as the result of some surprising final night scrambling. George L. Busse & Co. dumped Mount Prospect State Bank way down after defeating them 8-2, while Licht's Paint store with a 9-1 victory over Morton Pontiac moved way up. Kirchhoff Insurance edged past J & B Meat Market 6-4, but it was a case of too little and too late for Kirchhoff.

Finally, Busse-Bierman Hardware defeated Keefer's Pharmacy 7-3, but they had already cinched last place a week ago.

Low gross honors for the session were shared by Ed Spletzer and Jim Driscoll with 39's, while Jim Price and Sig Hellstrom tied for low net with 30's.

Illinois Range finishes like a champ with win

Illinois Range, needing only 2½ points to win their division's first place trophy, finished like a champion Tuesday night with a 7½-2½ victory over Louie's Barber Shop, and wound up the 1973 Mount Prospect Twilight Golf season with a full 10-point margin over second place Mike's Marathon Service.

Capt. Don Snyder was the big point winner for Illinois Range in the final match. His 40 gross 33 net gave him a two point victory over opponent Bud Powell, plus the bonus point for low individual net. George Kratsch took two points from Pete Petersen with a seven foot putt on the final hole, and Carl Benrud added 1½ points to the total in his match with Carl Lindquist.

Capt. Wayne White was the only winner for Louie's, taking two points from opponent Rollie Becker, while Lindquist's ½ point completed the Barbers' scoring.

Hal Jebens, Illinois Range fifth man and a very important point getter for the team, was enjoying the night off with no match.

Surprisingly, Mike's Marathon Service, who had been lurking back in fourth place, defeated Annen & Busse Realtors 7½-2½, which gave them the point total to wind up the season as second place winners ahead of Louie's Barber Shop team.

Unfortunately for Louie's, their loss to Illinois Range and low point accumulation in the final match not only deneid them the first place finish they were seeking, but caused them to finish the season in third.

By way of consolation, Louie's can lay claim to being the most exciting team of the Tuesday Division. They were the only team that at some time during the summer occupied both first and last place. They also set a new record by scoring five 10-0 shutouts during a single season.

There was considerable juggling of team standings as the result of some surprising final night scrambling. George L. Busse & Co. dumped Mount Prospect State Bank way down after defeating them 8-2, while Licht's Paint store with a 9-1 victory over Morton Pontiac moved way up. Kirchhoff Insurance edged past J & B Meat Market 6-4, but it was a case of too little and too late for Kirchhoff.

Finally, Busse-Bierman Hardware defeated Keefer's Pharmacy 7-3, but they had already cinched last place a week ago.

Low gross honors for the session were shared by Ed Spletzer and Jim Driscoll with 39's, while Jim Price and Sig Hellstrom tied for low net with 30's.

Birdies were recorded by P. Petersen No. 3 and No. 5 and Jim Driscoll No. 13 and No. 16.

NEW YORK (UPI) —The touring golfers live in their own private little dream world.

It's a relatively rich beautiful world, but it rarely extends past that small, dimpled white ball they play with, and right there is where they frequently hurt themselves.

The majority of the touring pros generally concern themselves with only one sport — golf. They don't pay much attention to any of the others.

A handful like Ray Floyd, Bob Rosburg, Ken Still and Art Wall know the difference between Vida Blue and Roy White, but for the most part touring golfers don't know too much about baseball.

They should know more, particularly at this time when they are in the perfect position to profit from what has happened to baseball players the past few years, and what has happened to baseball players is they do not enjoy the enormous popularity they did, say, 20-30 years ago.

The reason for this is that they've lost touch with those people who pay the freight, the fans.

Ballplayers are offered $200, $300 and even $500 to make special appearances today, and they say no, they're too busy.

How do you think something like that goes over with Joe Fan? The next time he thinks about shelling out $2, $3 or $5 to see a ball game, he maybe thinks about it some more, and says what for, if they can't find any time for me, I guess I can live without them.

Which brings us back to the touring golfers.

They have as much faith in Joe Dey, the commissioner of the PGA Tournament Players Division as they have in any one man.

Joe Dey is not only a man with the capacity to see ahead, he is a man of unquestioned integrity.

He is paid $75,000 a year as golf commissioner and one of his prime functions is to guide and advise the tournament players. He is really their executive leader.

Joe Dey has had an idea kicking around in the back of his mind now for a number of years, and he finally made it public the other day.

Basically, his plan is a triple-decker. It provides for three different categories.

The first would call for 15 so-called championship tournaments with a minimum total prize money of $250,000 each. Under Dey's proposal, the sponsors would have to be guaranteed all "big boys" would be in the field. Such tournaments as the Los Angeles Open, the Doral, Westchester Classic and USI Classic in Sutton, Mass., probably would be included in this group.

The second category would be made up of what Dey calls the major tournaments, probably ones such as those held in Phoenix, Tucson, Jacksonville and New Orleans, and the minimum total prize money here would be $100,000 each.

The top players, according to Dey, "would be expected to enter some of these tournaments, but they wouldn't be obligated to do so."

Then there would be the second tour, actually the third plateau, taking in such cities as Little Rock and Hattiesburg, Miss.

Joe Dey's idea is a sound one.

Imagine for a moment you're a sponsor. Why should you put up a barrelfull of money if all you can look forward to having in your field is Jim Colbert, Homero Blancas and Grier Jones. All are fine golfers and capable of winning on any given Sunday, but they aren't the ones the galleryites come to see.

So the sponsors putting up the money naturally insist on the Nicklauses, Palmers, Trevinos, and Weiskopfs. That's understandable enough.

Similarly, it is understandable when a Nicklaus, Palmer or Trevino says he doesn't wish to play in every championship tournament. These, by the way, would be in addition to such other blue ribbon ones as the U. S. Open, Masters and PGA.

It's a stickler, with justification on both sides, but what it boils down to in the end is what it always has before — the haves on one side and the have-nots on the other. The have-nots are eager to play in as many tournaments as they possibly can, especially the big ones; the haves aren't that eager at all.

People like Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino have contributed a lot to golf. They say they wish to contribute more. The way they can is by helping to implement Joe Dey's proposal. They are the leaders, and leaders always are called upon to do more.

Meeske outlasts Mufich for twilight golf title

The Meeske Supermarket team defied the Paddock Tournament jinx by hanging on to win the championship by four points over John Mufich Buick in the Monday Division of the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League.

Stan Deming of Meeske fired a strong 38 to lead his team to a 6½-3½ victory over Mufich Buick. Deming's round also earned him three points for the evening and the league's Most Valuable Player award with a season total of 20 points.

An 8-2 victory for Winkelman's Service over Mount Prospect Jewelers earned them third place by five and one-half points. In addition to Deming, other members of the Meeske team are Ken Willert, Jim Brennan, Ray Krecker and sponsor Fred Meeske.

Low gross for the final evening went to Walt Peterson with an even-par 36. Walt led everyone with three birdies, on the 10th, 13th and 15th holes and also had low net with 30.

A total of 19 birdies were scored by 13 golfers as the course was figuratively burned up, and not just by the 90-degree heat. In addition tp Peterson, birdie shooters were Dick Coleman, Cliff Renzy, Deming and Dave Johnson with two each and Willert, Howard Berstead, John Hoppe, Bert Dahlstrom, Jody Hall, Rolla Carrel, Stan Bolit and Stan Peterson.

Final standings and points:

Winkelman's Service	89

It's a relatively rich beautiful world, but it rarely extends past that small, dimpled white ball they play with, and right there is where they frequently hurt themselves.

The majority of the touring pros generally concern themselves with only one sport — golf. They don't pay much attention to any of the others.

A handful like Ray Floyd, Bob Rosburg, Ken Still and Art Wall know the difference between Vida Blue and Roy White, but for the most part touring golfers don't know too much about baseball.

They should know more, particularly at this time when they are in the perfect position to profit from what has happened to baseball players the past few years, and what has happened to baseball players is they do not enjoy the enormous popularity they did, say, 20-30 years ago.

The reason for this is that they've lost touch with those people who pay the freight, the fans.

Ballplayers are offered $200, $300 and even $500 to make special appearances today, and they say no, they're too busy.

How do you think something like that goes over with Joe Fan? The next time he thinks about shelling out $2, $3 or $5 to see a ball game, he maybe thinks about it some more, and says what for, if they can't find any time for me, I guess I can live without them.

Which brings us back to the touring golfers.

They have as much faith in Joe Dey, the commissioner of the PGA Tournament Players Division as they have in any one man.

Joe Dey is not only a man with the capacity to see ahead, he is a man of unquestioned integrity.

He is paid $75,000 a year as golf commissioner and one of his prime functions is to guide and advise the tournament players. He is really their executive leader.

Joe Dey has had an idea kicking around in the back of his mind now for a number of years, and he finally made it public the other day.

Basically, his plan is a triple-decker. It provides for three different categories.

The first would call for 15 so-called championship tournaments with a minimum total prize money of $250,000 each. Under Dey's proposal, the sponsors would have to be guaranteed all "big boys" would be in the field. Such tournaments as the Los Angeles Open, the Doral, Westchester Classic and USI Classic in Sutton, Mass., probably would be included in this group.

The second category would be made up of what Dey calls the major tournaments, probably ones such as those held in Phoenix, Tucson, Jacksonville and New Orleans, and the minimum total prize money here would be $100,000 each.

The top players, according to Dey, "would be expected to enter some of these tournaments, but they wouldn't be obligated to do so."

Then there would be the second tour, actually the third plateau, taking in such cities as Little Rock and Hattiesburg, Miss.

Joe Dey's idea is a sound one.

Imagine for a moment you're a sponsor. Why should you put up a barrelfull of money if all you can look forward to having in your field is Jim Colbert, Homero Blancas and Grier Jones. All are fine golfers and capable of winning on any given Sunday, but they aren't the ones the galleryites come to see.

So the sponsors putting up the money naturally insist on the Nicklauses, Palmers, Trevinos, and Weiskopfs. That's understandable enough.

Similarly, it is understandable when a Nicklaus, Palmer or Trevino says he doesn't wish to play in every championship tournament. These, by the way, would be in addition to such other blue ribbon ones as the U. S. Open, Masters and PGA.

It's a stickler, with justification on both sides, but what it boils down to in the end is what it always has before — the haves on one side and the have-nots on the other. The have-nots are eager to play in as many tournaments as they possibly can, especially the big ones; the haves aren't that eager at all.

People like Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino have contributed a lot to golf. They say they wish to contribute more. The way they can is by helping to implement Joe Dey's proposal. They are the leaders, and leaders always are called upon to do more.

Meeske outlasts Mufich for twilight golf title

The Meeske Supermarket team defied the Paddock Tournament jinx by hanging on to win the championship by four points over John Mufich Buick in the Monday Division of the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League.

Stan Deming of Meeske fired a strong 38 to lead his team to a 6½-3½ victory over Mufich Buick. Deming's round also earned him three points for the evening and the league's Most Valuable Player award with a season total of 20 points.

An 8-2 victory for Winkelman's Service over Mount Prospect Jewelers earned them third place by five and one-half points. In addition to Deming, other members of the Meeske team are Ken Willert, Jim Brennan, Ray Krecker and sponsor Fred Meeske.

Low gross for the final evening went to Walt Peterson with an even-par 36. Walt led everyone with three birdies, on the 10th, 13th and 15th holes and also had low net with 30.

A total of 19 birdies were scored by 13 golfers as the course was figuratively burned up, and not just by the 90-degree heat. In addition tp Peterson, birdie shooters were Dick Coleman, Cliff Renzy, Deming and Dave Johnson with two each and Willert, Howard Berstead, John Hoppe, Bert Dahlstrom, Jody Hall, Rolla Carrel, Stan Bolit and Stan Peterson.

Final standings and points:

Meeske's Supermarket	94
John Mufich Buick	90
Winkelman's Service	89
Mount Prospect Jewelers	83½
Striking Lanes	82
Shearson Hamill	81½
Keljiks Carpet	81
Mullin's Real Estate	75½

Des Plaines Little League

The Yankees (Warchol Construction) of the American Division, which wound up with the best won-lost record in regular season play, swept to the championship of the Des Plaines Devon-Higgins Little League in a four-team playoff round.

Keyed by the five-hit, 13-strikeout performance of Peter Bryl and a three-run homer by Catcher Mike Wielgos in the first inning, the Yankees defeated the Tigers (Nisson Pharmacy), 6-2, Sunday at Seminole Park.

The Yankees, who sported an 11-2 regular season record, also gained runnerup laurels in the Des Plaines Park District Major Little League Playoff Series.

Bryl's two-hit performance in a 7-4 win over the Mets (White Hen Pantry) enabled the Yankees to qualify for the finals. A five-run first inning gave Bryl an early cushion as he went on to fan 13 Mets.

Since the Mets and Sox (Open Pantry Food Mart) tied in regular season National Division action, a playoff game was necessary to determine the final four-team entry. This was won by the Mets, 15-4, as Paul Stout hurled a five-hitter and banged out three doubles and a single.

The Tigers earned the right to meet the Yankees by eliminating the Braves (Tom Thumb Steak House), 3-0. Mike Hinich spun a two-hitter and Craig Montgomery socked a two-run double.

The Devon-Higgins Baseball League — which consists of 10 Little League teams and a four-team Babe Ruth loop — will hold its annual awards banquet and dinner on Friday, Sept. 21, at the VFW Post No. 3579, Canfield and Higgins Aves., in Park Ridge.

DEVON-HIGGINS LITTLE LEAGUE (FINAL)

American Division: Yankees 11-2, Tigers 10-3, Orioles 6-7, Angels 5-8, Astros 3-10.

National Division: Braves 10-3, Mets 8-5, Sox 8-5, Cubs 3-10, Expos 1-12.

Second-fastest miler

Ben Jipcho of Kenya recently ran the third-fastest mile of all time when he was timed in 3:52.0. Jim Ryun has run the only faster miles; his world record of 3:51.1 and a 3:51.3.

Blackman likes Finis

Bob Blackman, University of Illinois head football coach, called up eight freshmen to his varsity last week. One of them was Fremd's Jerry Finis and he's making Blackman look like Smart-Man.

"We needed a defensive end and an offensive guard, so we asked the freshmen who was best at those positions. They replied Jerry Finis in both cases," Blackman was quoted as saying in the Champaign News-Gazette.

"We'll use him at defensive end even though he may ultimately be an offensive guard."

Finis responded with a great performance during last Saturday's first Illini scrimmage. The News-Gazette reported: "Finis has been throwing his No. 55 into opposing runners with abandon since being called up at mid-week and he recovered two fumbles Saturday."

Finis was an All-Stater las year and a unanimous pick on the All-Mid-Suburban League team. He's a 225-pounder.

From campuses nationwide

—Many Herald area athletes are making football news on the nation's campuses including Arlington's Terry Ormsbee, also at the University of Illinois. Ormsbee, a third string varsity quarterback, tossed a 51-yard touchdown pass in last Saturday's two-hour Illini scrimmage. For the day, he was 7-for-14, mostly against the third string defense, for 141 yards and the single touchdown. Ormsbee also tossed one interception.

—Although Blackman is undecided about which quarterback will open for Illinois, he has no plans to test Jeff Stewart, the freshman signal caller who was All-State last fall for Elk Grove.

—Paul Cuccinotto, who lives in Des Plaines and attended Notre Dame High School, is an offensive backfield candidate at Northern Michigan University. He was a defensive back last season.

—Andy Knotek, the Herald's Athlete-of-the-Year last spring, began football practice this week at Millikin University in Decatur. Knotek attended Palatine High School.

—Three Maine West grads are continuing their careers at the college level. Dave Rumzis has moved up to second-string varsity tackle at Illinois State. Chris Bouchee is a split end and flanker at the University of Louisville. Rich Wetendorf is working as a linebacker at Purdue. All are freshmen.

—Halfback Skip Peterson, a Hersey graduate, scored two touchdowns and gained 94 yards in 24 carries last Saturday during Purdue's first controlled varsity scrimmage.

Peterson is a top candidate to replace All-American Otis Armstrong who was a member of the College All-Stars. Peterson scored on one and five-yard runs while working with the first unit.

—Senior Rich Bowman who attended Fremd is one of two returing varsity cross-country runners at Eastern Illinois University. Bowman was Eastern's No. 5 runner most of last year.

They play for Rifles

Four Herald area men are members of the Lake County Rifles of the Central States Football League. They are tight end Ray Caraskie of Wheeling, defensive tackle John Gavurnik of Buffalo Grove, center Darit Lindgren of Wheeling and defensive back Bruce Swanson, also Wheeling.

Hole-in-one

William Sabo of Crystal Lake recently aced the 150-yard fourth hole at Palatine Hills. He used a seven iron. His foursome included Lee Shull of Buffalo Grove. Sabo shot a 42 while playing for United Air Lines.

Golden Ager shoots 82!

J. I. McTaggart recently shot his age, 82, at Golden Acres Golf Club. McTaggart carded a 43 on the Red nine and 39 on the White nine for his 82. The course measures 3,305 yards.

Nebel Insurance heads VFW golfers

The Nebel Insurance team of Harold Nebel, Wendell Pearson, Rick Weber, Pat Kolman and Charles Baranowski Sr. captured the Arlington VFW Monday golf league title at Old Orchard Country Club. Nebel did it by holding off the Kehe, Foy & Snelten Insurance unit on the final evening of the season.

Hanlon Decorating moved into a solid third place, a point from second, by soundly beating fourth-place Mount Prospect Heating & Air Conditioning. The league was well-balanced this year with only 18 points separating the top five teams.

Members of the runner-up team are George Snelten, Harvey Bartholomew, Glenn Campbell, Bill Becker and Otto Heimann. Third-place unit was made up of Bob Hanlon, Al Garske, Tom Fegan, Cliff Little and Stan Lewandowski.

Low gross honors for the final evening went to Tom Johann with an even-par 36. Low new was shared by John Grabowski, Larry Brousseau and Dick Kopplin with fine 33's.

End of the season flight leaders: Darryl Burkett (first flight), Al Garske (second), Tom Fegan (third), Joe Kolman (fourth) and Al Martinson (fifth).

Charles Baranowski Sr., one of the senior members of the league, captured 12 matches and won 44 points for his team to take top honors in that department.

Located on Campbell St. in Arlington Heights, the tavern's reserve list is about half full.

Call Bill Andres, 255-5835, for complete details.

When the Welcome Wagon Golf League of Palatine met, the special event was "Flag Day." Those winning with the best drive on the fifth tee were: Championship Flight — Helen Smith; A Flight — Shirley Lehman and B Flight — Darlene Kelpinski.

The previous week all the golfers competed to win the "Best Poker Hand" event. Winners were: Championship Flight — Barb Miller; A Flight — Betty Christiansen and B Blight — Flori Gilden.

One week earlier all the players were allowed on the course with only three clubs, including the putter. The Championship Flight had co-winners with a net score of 36 — Gert Bostian and Flo Rulf. The A Flight winner was Irene Ward with a net score of 40 while the B Flight winner was Mim Shugars with a net of 35. The special event for Aug. 30 will be best low net score.

'Nationals' highlight Grove card

The jet turbine and rocket car "Nationals" will be held Aug. 31st, and Sept. 1-2-3 at the Great Lakes Dragaway. Five rocket powered racers, turbine machines, six jet dragsters, and two jet powered cars comprise the fastest 16-car field ever assembled.

A 32 car field of supercharged funny cars and pro stocks will also compete all four days.

Wheelstanders, nitro-burning dragsters, motorcycle stunt riders and a 200 MPH rocket-powered go-cart are also racing each of the four days.

Former land speed record holder Craig Breedlove, and Ky Michaelson, builder of the "Pollution Packer" lead the field of 300 mph rocket-car drivers. Both men will field new streamliners in this year's meet.

Chris Karamesines and Tommy Ivo lead the dragster lineup.

Gary Dyer, Mr. Norm, Ed Schartman, Kelly Chadwick, Don Carlton and Chuck Proite are a few of the funny cars and pro-stocks.

Two motorcycle jumpers will attempt to jump 130 feet (over 20 cars), three times each day, with both motorcycles in the air at the same time.

Kathy Guerrero named teaching pro

Kathy Guerrero of Skokie has been appointed Tennis Professional at the Woodfield Racquet Club, a 10-court indoor tennis facility under construction one-half mile west of the Woodfield Mall off Golf Road and located directly behind Vignola Furniture.

While conducting a wide range of successful programs at the Park Ridge YMCA, Kathy has earned a reputation as an outstanding tennis instructor in working with both youths and adults.

Frank Randazzo, club president said, "We are most pleased and proud to have added Kathy to our teaching staff. The reputation that Kathy has earned throughout the Park Ridge and northwest area is tremendous.

"She is a specialist at developing beginning and intermediate players. Her extensive work in small group lessons make her an invaluable asset to our professional teaching staff."

She is a graduate of the University of Illinois and has been very active in Chicago area tennis tournaments. She most recently won the Women's Single "B" Division championship in the Chicago District Tennis Association Tournament as well as another first place finish in a "B" Division.

Some Dirty Words from Woodfield Ford:

PRICE LEADER

A car that's advertised solely for showroom traffic-building purposes. Usually a stripped-down model with no options so that the price appears to be way below the average selling price of a comparable, fully-equipped model.

BAIT & SWITCH

The process by which the "price leader" described above has succeeded in luring in the curious customer, whereupon he is quickly switched to a better equipped, higher priced model. This will happen for one of two reasons: The salesman makes more money selling you a more expensive car or the advertised car, in fact, never existed (which constitutes fraud, on the dealer's part).

LOW·BALLING

If a salesman suggests you can buy a car from him at an alluringly low price and gets you to sign a purchase order without the dealer's authorized signature guaranteeing that price, you may stop shopping and wait several weeks for delivery, only to be handed a bill much higher than the original quote when you go in to pick up the car. If this happens (and it's perfectly legal, while not exactly above board) you will have wasted a lot of time, may find it difficult to back out of the deal, and worse yet, you may wind up paying more than you ever dreamed of for that particular make of car.

HIGH·BALLING

If a salesman offers you a fictitiously high price for your trade-in car, but the price is subject to reappraisal (unknowing to you) when you pick up your new car, you might be offered considerably less money even if your car has undergone no changes. If this happens (and it happens a lot) you have been "high-balled."

We offer the above definitions as a warning system to help you avoid unscrupulous car salesmen. If you need any further help in defining such car-buying lingo, we'll be happy to provide you with all the answers.

Our primary precautions when buying a car, or anything else for that matter, are as the Better Business Bureau outlines them: Know, thoroughly, what you're buying. Read every word of every contract. If you sign anything, have an authorized representative counter sign. If you leave a deposit, get a written receipt. If you're unhappy, speak up. To the manager. Or to the Better Business Bureau.

Our Goal: No Unhappy Owners

Cougars' fall camp

The Chicago Cougars will hold their second World Hockey Association training camp during the month of September at the Wheaton-Carol Stream Ice Arena. Rookie camp will last six days beginning Sunday, Sept. 9, with veterans reporting on the 14th.

New head coach Pat Stapleton, hired away from the Black Hawks, said: "I think it's important that Chicago fans get a chance to see the Chicago Cougars so I've stipulated that all training sessions will be open to the public and that there will be no admission charge."

Circus shenanigans

Behind the Big Top

by GENIE CAMPBELL

As Dolly's large ears flapped and fanned the calves of my legs, I kept a lookout for her trunk that occasionally caressed my red sneakers. Did she appreciate the bright color or was Dolly just checking to make sure I was still up there?

"Like sitting astride a hair brush," was the forewarning I received after first deciding to catch the view from atop a pachyderm.

Dolly's a mere child, only 8 years old, and perhaps that's why her backside felt merely prickly, not stiff and uncomfortably bristly.

Actually, the young elephant and I were a small twosome compared to the monstrous physiques of Mysor, Calcutta, Minnie and 30-year-old big daddy himself, Tommie.

TOGETHER WE held tails and paraded. Pardon, the elephants held tails. I held on.

The five pachyderms perform together as one of the featured animal acts in the L. N. Fleckles and Company Circus, now a part of the Future of America Fair at Arlington Park.

And I'm convinced . . . through only a brief encounter with several "beasts of the jungle," that animal tamers must use force, but rely more on psychology.

"You teach your animals the meaning of respect just as you would your own children," said Baron Julius Von Uhl referring to his household, a den of lions and tigers.

Ivan Henry agrees. He travels the country with a trailer load of chimpanzees.

Even elephants are surprising. They learn and respond to simple verbal commands. No additional prompting or hand motions are necessary.

Once trainer Col. Lee Keener received an elephant to work into his act that previously had only toured with circuses in Germany.

"SHE HAD BEEN broken in German and that's all she knew," said Keener, who solved the language barrier by having his German maiden first watch and then mimic her classmates. Gradually she picked up an English vocabulary, enough for an elephant anyhow.

Keener is on the road 11 months out of the year. But his elephants don't seem to mind. They've never known any other kind of life.

However, Keener does take precautions to keep Dolly and the others out of cold drafts because elephants are prone to pneumonia . . . and as one might guess, a wheezing pachyderm is difficult to treat.

Zoo elephants who have spent some time behind bars seldom interest circuses because they are already too old to adjust to the rigors of travel.

"Many taken from a zoo develop kidney problems from the continual juggling of the trucks," said Keener. (Not that I didn't experience my own kind of juggling on top of Dolly.)

TOMMIE, WHO weighs in at 9,000 pounds and daily has his long white tusks rubbed down with a Brillo pad, is the only full-grown male pachyderm currently performing in a circus.

Male elephants have a tendency to become mean and uncooperative as they grow older while females retain a much sweeter disposition.

Tommie is an exception. His only problem right now is his size. Elephants slow down, but they never do entirely stop growing and poor Tommie is just not as agile as he once was. Oh, those situps. What a strain.

Closer to the ground and a lot more cuddly, chimpanzees react very much like people and hence should be treated accordingly. That's the opinion of Ivan Henry who performs with three of them daily.

"YOU KNOW WHAT they always say . . . when God made the ape he was already a little disappointed in man," said Henry who sees no difference in the small problems and idiosyncracies of chimps than those suffered by humans. "They need to cry on your shoulder now and then just like people.

"They occasionally get their feelings hurt or they can be cross and stubborn too," he continued.

When one of his chimps steps out of line, Henry does what every normal parent would do in the same situation . . . takes out the paddle.

"Of course a chimpanzee is very conscious he is performing," continued Henry, who is the fourth generation in his family to become a circus performer.

HENRY HAS ONE small sensitive actor that turns his back on the audience unless he hears applause.

"He will continue to do what I tell him to, but he isn't happy unless he knows the audience is pleased. Animals, too, must learn to enjoy their work. I try to instill that in my chimpanzees."

Unlike many circus performers and trainers, Baron Julius Von Uhl was not born into the business. Son of a Budapest surgeon, he went to the circus one day at the impressionable age of 6 and was duly taken with the lion tamer.

"I said to myself . . . that's what I'm going to be when I grow up," said the Baron concerning his career choice.

Julius performs with six male lions and two tigers, one male and one female. It's not that he intends to discriminate but male cats, though harder to work with, are more ferocious and thus greater crowd pleasers.

"SOME LIKE ME, some don't. But they all know they have to work," said Julius about his clan.

"It's the same at an office, isn't it? Some people like their boss, others don't, but they all do their job. Only, it's difficult to fire a lion.

"If they don't feel good you must find out why. If they fight among themselves you must act as referee. But always, no matter what, I am top cat. And they know it," he continued.

"If you don't teach a young child the meaning of respect he's going to grow up to be a juvenile delinquent. I raise my cats the same way. If they don't respect me, they are going to eat me up," continued Julius.

As the Baron walked down the row of cages greeting his "friends and enemies" as he calls them, he walked up close enough to allow one lion, Cary, to lick his face, while two other further down the line bared their teeth and roared.

"SEE HOW THOSE two hate me," he said totally unconcerned, almost sneering back at his captives.

Julius travels with 15 cats, a dog, a pet chimpanzee and two ponies. When not on the road he lives in Akron, Ohio, and trains police dogs for a living.

Back in the Baron's trailer it was feeding time for the three 5-week-old tigers who weren't much taller than a Persian cat but equipped with much larger paws and a distinctly louder, more challenging meow.

Julius fed them by bottle a mixture of Gerber's baby food (beef) and special cat's milk.

"It's the third litter I've raised in captivity. Their life can't be all bad, eh," he laughed adding that when the tigers were first born, it was necessary to feed them every two hours night and day.

"PLUS THREE shows a day. I still have a good personality. I don't know how I do it," he chuckled.

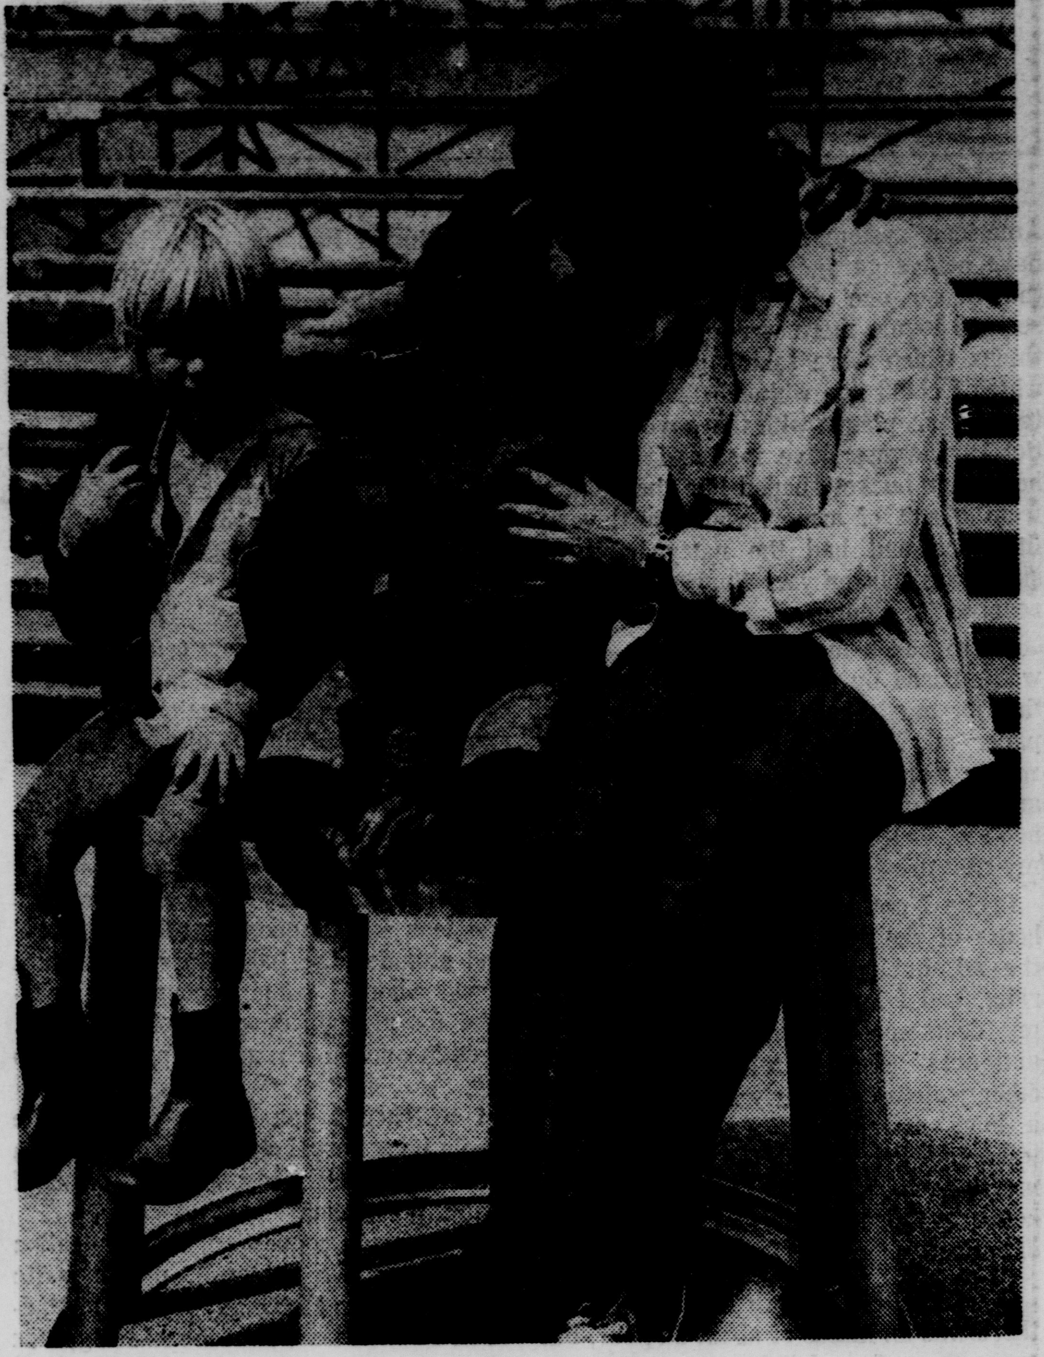
Yet why not let the real mother take over? "Please, she is a working mother," he joked. The real reason for separating the cats is a fear that the mother might accidentally roll over and kill one. It has happened before.

Once the cats are old enough they will join Julius in the ring. Yet he claims that jungle cats are actually easier to train and are far more trustworthy than the animals he raises from birth.

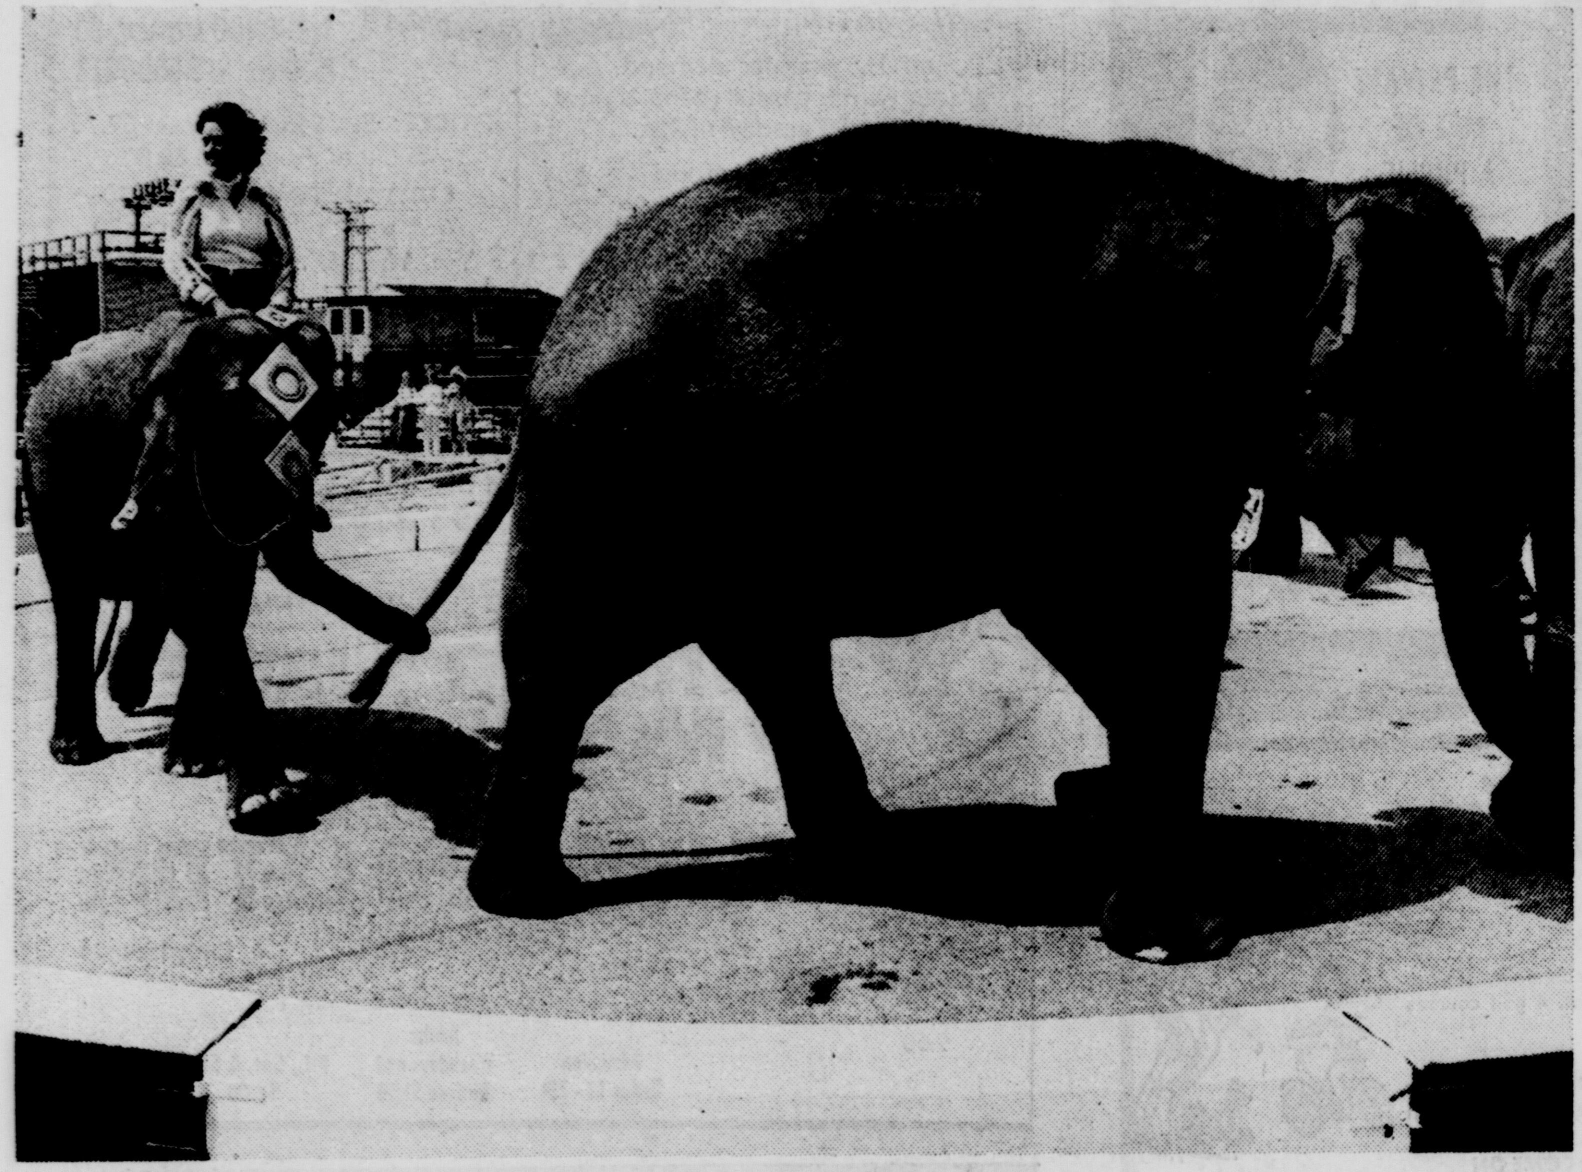
Those captured from the wilds retain an inbred fear for humans while domesticated cats, raised around people, have no fear. They will strike and kill without prior warning.

"You could surround yourself with lions in the jungle and there's a 99 per cent chance you could walk out without being mauled," said Julius.

I SWALLOWED hard and answered, "I for one would never care to test percentages. Five-week-old tigers are fine, just fine. Nothing larger, please, unless there are tall, steel bars in-between. But I'll surely ride an elephant whenever offered the chance."



HERALD REPORTER Genie Campbell receives a "get acquainted" kiss from one of the stars of the chimpanzee act. Almost human? "Well, just about, anyhow." Sharing the spotlight is Solan Henry, five-year-old son of the animal trainer. A kiss from a chimp means nothing to him.



GRAB THAT TAIL and circle the ring. Riding an elephant isn't all that much different than riding a horse . . . only higher and more lopsided. But one thing, for sure, the seat is guaranteed to be larger. And how many horses can hook up and hold tails?

TOO YOUNG TO BE dangerous. This baby is a bonus . . . a rare white tiger worth $25,000 to his owner, wild animal tamer Baron Julius Von Uhl. Only five weeks old, the white tiger and his two normal colored siblings must be fed by a bottle mixture of Gerber's baby food and special canned cat's milk.

The exploitation of MM

by ROD MacLEISH

This is by way of being a protest against the invasion of the privacy of someone who can't protect herself.

There is something dreadfully wrong with the current Marilyn Monroe cult — from Norman Mailer's garish coffee table book with its jacket showing Miss Monroe's face in living color and dying hope, to the magazine covers, photo exhibitions and re-exploitation of her sex symbolism.

The thing wrong with all of this lies at the confluence of death, sex, tragedy and illusion. By now everybody knows that Marilyn Monroe emerged from a gnarled and miserable childhood into a repeatedly shattered maturity which was subdivided into the public image of a sexpot and the private labyrinth of an unlivable life. She died a suicide in her middle thirties.

The movies and life live far apart. The movies are public dreams from which we fashion the symbols of our nostalgia for everything we cannot be and never had. No starker difference between the public dreams and the private complexity ever existed than the difference between Marilyn Monroe's public squishiness and her private hells. Exploitation of that is what the cult is all about.

To what end? None, aside from the dollars to be made. We learn nothing new from the pop invasion of this sad lady's privacy — just the old, worn lesson of pain.

De Mortuis nil nisi bonum, as the Latin proverb says . . . . of the dead speak nothing but good. That which is respoken of Marilyn Monroe to amuse us this summer, isn't good. Not for her. Not for us.

Collecting

with Grace Carolyn

I am now a member of the great American system of free enterprise; I have held a garage sale. Looking about the house one day this summer, it seemed to me there were a great many things which were taking up room and which I could live without (like the plaster of paris plaque with the woven ribbon tie Aunt Agnes gave me, and that top heavy ice bucket shaped like the helmet from a suit of armor, which held very little ice and had the nasty habit of slamming shut on your fingers when you reached for a cube).

I also had a few surplus antiques and was advised by everyone "in the know" that for maximum response to my newspaper ad, I should start out with that magic word, "antiques." The ad taker and I composed a gem of Madison Avenue-ese, I cleaned out the garage, priced my treasures and went to bed early.

Lucky I got a good night's sleep. The hours of the sale weren't mentioned in the ad, but at 6:30 a.m. the doorbell rang, and I found an eager prospect on my doorstep, demanding "Where's the antiques?" She was followed by several other jealous-eyed early birds, and I had a busy morning, answering questions, wrapping the purchases in newspaper, making change and rushing into the house to finish dressing and have a cup of coffee.

THE MORNING rush died down, and there was an hiatus of about an hour, but promptly after lunch, the afternoon crowd came. Almost everyone bought something. I had put out a big box of "giveaways" to be taken with a purchase, and the neighborhood kids had fun buying nickel items and choosing a free gift. Every mother in the area now has a rain hat and a key chain from my husband's place of business. They'll all be exchanging identical Christmas cards, too, since I gave away a carton of one hundred boxes, left over from my son's short-lived card business of a few years back.

Antique items went first, but household things sold well, with low price tags. My husband's Model A auto in the garage drew a great deal of attention, and in the excitement of selling, I almost accepted an offer for it.

One charming young matron confessed that she had just had a garage sale of her own the week before, so that she could use the money to go to other sales and look for antiques. I took my "loot" and attended the Lake Geneva Antiques Show, where I found a couple of treasures for my collections, a piece of R.S. Prussia and an Etruscan Majolica syrup jug.

I SUPPOSE you could just call the whole thing recycling, but I also call it a lot of fun. But nobody bought my suit of armor ice bucket.

'Keep Her in Her Pace' awards given by NOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vanguard Records won a special "Keep Her in Her Place" award from the National Organization of Women (NOW) recently for recording the song "Get Your Biscuits in the Oven and Your Buns in Bed."

NOW cited five other incidents of what it considered conspicuous male chauvinism, for a total of seven Keep Her in Her Place awards, but the women's lib group also gave "Positive Image of Women" awards.

The prizes—for positive and negative treatment of women by the media — were announced by NOW in an effort to "raise the consciousness of the communications industry."

OTHER KEEP HER In Her Place awards:

—To the ad agency which created the Winchester cigaret ad depicting a man smoking beneath the headline "No woman ever says no to Winchester."

—To NBC television's Dean Martin show which NOW says "presents a very males' eye view of women as trivial, decoration, and sex objects."

—To the film "Last Tango in Paris" for its "blunt sexual abuse and dehumanization of the female character."

—To WINS, an all-news radio station in New York for "constantly using male-oriented language such as 'the average man,' 'man in the street,' 'newsman,' 'working man' and 'businessman,' " and for "trivializing women by putting more emphasis on fun or novelty items relating to women."

—To the book "The Manipulated Man" by Esther Vilar for "portraying man as the oppressed and woman the oppressor."

THE GROUP gave "Horrible mention" citations to Playboy Magazine and the movie "Up the Sandbox." NOW said the film "has the rebellious female character abandoning her dreams and settling for a role as a baby breeder."

Positive awards went to NBC's Helen Reddy Show, CBS for the two "Maude" episodes in which she gets an abortion, a Zest soap ad showing two women on a cross-country camping trip, and to the movie "A Doll's House."

The awards were part of Women's Liberty Action Week in which women's rights groups across the nation were celebrating the Aug. 26 anniversary of women's suffrage.

'Harvey' tryouts for children

The Des Plaines Footlighters, a young people's theater group, will hold auditions for "Harvey," next Friday and Saturday, Sept. 7 and 8, 1 p.m., in the Footlighters Theatre, Rand Park Fieldhouse, 2025 Miner St.

Des Plaines students through the 12th grade are eligible to audition for the six male and six female roles.

Playwright Mary Chase received the 1945 Pulitzer Prize for her tale about Elwood P. Dowd and his six-foot rabbit friend.

"Harvey" first opened on Broadway in 1944. It played over four years in New York, was made into a motion picture starring James Stewart and appeared as a television special starring James Stewart and Helen Hayes.

Ken L. Johnson, Footlighters resident director, begins his third year with the group.

"Harvey" is being staged Nov. 16-18. Further information about the production and auditions is available through the Des Plaines Park District, 296-6106.

The Book Stall

JOURNEY THROUGH A LIGHTED ROOM," BY MARGARET PARTON
Viking, $7.95

This is the beautifully written autobiography of one of the bellweather foreign and domestic correspondents of the old New York Herald Tribune.

It is the story of a life burdened with tragic losses but blessed with happiness and the excitement of a career of reporting and writing of the kind that made her one of the fine journalistic craftsmen of her time.

Her memoir moves through depression, wars, riots, famine, murder, love affairs, the deaths of those close to her, the triumphs of a career that moved from the Herald Tribune to the Ladies' Home Journal, to freelance writing. Above all, Margaret Parton is a writer — one of those rarities, a workaday reporter whose product always carried a literary style of remarkable quality. This is the story of a bitter life that she has refused to concede was anything but sweet.

Follett, $8.95

From the San Francisco earthquake of 1906 to the death of three Soviet cosmonauts in 1971, this book in words and black and white pictures relentlessly details disasters both manmade and natural. The author, tape recorder ready, talked to dozens of film luminaries in assembling this book in Hollywood. Somehow he missed the "fun" in the title, but the book includes some ancedotes and a bit of valid insight into what made the films of the 1930s and 1940s so entertaining.

Collecting

with Grace Carolyn

I am now a member of the great American system of free enterprise; I have held a garage sale. Looking about the house one day this summer, it seemed to me there were a great many things which were taking up room and which I could live without (like the plaster of paris plaque with the woven ribbon tie Aunt Agnes gave me, and that top heavy ice bucket shaped like the helmet from a suit of armor, which held very little ice and had the nasty habit of slamming shut on your fingers when you reached for a cube).

I also had a few surplus antiques and was advised by everyone "in the know" that for maximum response to my newspaper ad, I should start out with that magic word, "antiques." The ad taker and I composed a gem of Madison Avenue-ese, I cleaned out the garage, priced my treasures and went to bed early.

Lucky I got a good night's sleep. The hours of the sale weren't mentioned in the ad, but at 6:30 a.m. the doorbell rang, and I found an eager prospect on my doorstep, demanding "Where's the antiques?" She was followed by several other jealous-eyed early birds, and I had a busy morning, answering questions, wrapping the purchases in newspaper, making change and rushing into the house to finish dressing and have a cup of coffee.

THE MORNING rush died down, and there was an hiatus of about an hour, but promptly after lunch, the afternoon crowd came. Almost everyone bought something. I had put out a big box of "giveaways" to be taken with a purchase, and the neighborhood kids had fun buying nickel items and choosing a free gift. Every mother in the area now has a rain hat and a key chain from my husband's place of business. They'll all be exchanging identical Christmas cards, too, since I gave away a carton of one hundred boxes, left over from my son's short-lived card business of a few years back.

Antique items went first, but household things sold well, with low price tags. My husband's Model A auto in the garage drew a great deal of attention, and in the excitement of selling, I almost accepted an offer for it.

One charming young matron confessed that she had just had a garage sale of her own the week before, so that she could use the money to go to other sales and look for antiques. I took my "loot" and attended the Lake Geneva Antiques Show, where I found a couple of treasures for my collections, a piece of R.S. Prussia and an Etruscan Majolica syrup jug.

I SUPPOSE you could just call the whole thing recycling, but I also call it a lot of fun. But nobody bought my suit of armor ice bucket.

If you have a question, or a collection you would like featured, please write Grace Carolyn Dahlberg, in care of Paddock Publications, Suburban Living, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

'Keep Her in Her Pace' awards given by NOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vanguard Records won a special "Keep Her in Her Place" award from the National Organization of Women (NOW) recently for recording the song "Get Your Biscuits in the Oven and Your Buns in Bed."

NOW cited five other incidents of what it considered conspicuous male chauvinism, for a total of seven Keep Her in Her Place awards, but the women's lib group also gave "Positive Image of Women" awards.

The prizes—for positive and negative treatment of women by the media — were announced by NOW in an effort to "raise the consciousness of the communications industry."

OTHER KEEP HER In Her Place awards:

—To the ad agency which created the Winchester cigaret ad depicting a man smoking beneath the headline "No woman ever says no to Winchester."

—To NBC television's Dean Martin show which NOW says "presents a very males' eye view of women as trivial, decoration, and sex objects."

—To the film "Last Tango in Paris" for its "blunt sexual abuse and dehumanization of the female character."

—To WINS, an all-news radio station in New York for "constantly using male-oriented language such as 'the average man,' 'man in the street,' 'newsman,' 'working man' and 'businessman,' " and for "trivializing women by putting more emphasis on fun or novelty items relating to women."

—To the book "The Manipulated Man" by Esther Vilar for "portraying man as the oppressed and woman the oppressor."

THE GROUP gave "Horrible mention" citations to Playboy Magazine and the movie "Up the Sandbox." NOW said the film "has the rebellious female character abandoning her dreams and settling for a role as a baby breeder."

Positive awards went to NBC's Helen Reddy Show, CBS for the two "Maude" episodes in which she gets an abortion, a Zest soap ad showing two women on a cross-country camping trip, and to the movie "A Doll's House."

The awards were part of Women's Liberty Action Week in which women's rights groups across the nation were celebrating the Aug. 26 anniversary of women's suffrage.

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

A very tasteful collection of country/folk music is "Valley Hi" (Elektra EKS-75061), the latest solo album by Ian Matthews. In many ways the album bears a strong kinship with the work of former Monkee Michael Nesmith, who has had three fine country albums on RCA since the TV group broke up.

The basic similarity is in high quality songs that are performed well. These songs range from the traditional "Old Man At the Mill" (on which Byron Berline fiddles divinely) to Richard Thompson's very countryish "Shady Lies." Matthews has successfully chosen a song each by Jackson Browne and Randy Newman. And naturally he does a Nesmith song.

Each song on the album, including three of his own, is a highly reflective look at life. Matthews' style of singing perfectly fits the material.

MATTHEWS IS A singer who has made a career out of changing styles. He is a former member of the English group Fairport Convention and his own groups, Matthews Southern Comfort and Plainsong. It seems each time he finds success with a certain musical format, he abandons it to find another.

This is a fine album. One in which each song has something to recommend it; although, my favorites are "7 Bridges Road" with its close harmonies and "Old Man At the Mill." Matthews, who plays guitar, is helped by Nesmith, Danny Lane and David Barry among others. Lyrics are included.

Blood, Sweat & Tears have apparently fully recovered, if indeed they ever faltered, from the loss of lead singer David Clayton-Thomas. "No Sweat" (Columbia KC-32180) is the group's second album with replacement Jerry Fisher and it all fits together well.

FISHER'S GRAVELLY voice seems the perfect replacement and, while I at first thought he tried too much to sound like Clayton-Thomas, he now appears to have evolved a strong singing style of his own.

Musically, the album has very few surprises for the band's long-time fans. Several of the slower cuts, including "Django (An Excerpt)," sound as if they could have been taken from the recording sessions for the first two B, S & T Albums. The playing, despite personnel changes, has the same high quality.

The opening song, "Roller Coaster," has the makings of a hit, comparing in excitement and execution to past hits. Another strong song is "Save Our Ship" with strings arranged by masterful Paul Buckmaster. The song, like much of the album, was recorded in London.

Steve Tyrell produced the album which continues the string of highly pleasing, very professional and sometimes brilliant music from the group.

"WOULD YOU LIKE to give a girl a dance," sing two couples in the "Telephone Dance" from "Cabaret." Rehearsing are Earl Carlson and Cheri Koch, both of Mount Prospect; Karen Krien of Arlington Heights, and Mike Woulds of Schaumburg.

Des Plaines Theatre Guild needs assistance in the costume department in preparation for their approaching production of "South Pacific."

Specifically needed is a camouflage outfit for the French planter, Emile DeBeque, to wear in the scene when he returns from a dangerous secret mission during World War II on a remote Pacific Island, and, also, a light-colored summer suit for the character of Emile to wear in a different scene.

For nurse Nellie Forbush in the "Honey Bun" number, DPTG is looking for a white sailor uniform large enough to "hang" on Pat Piper who plays the leading role.

If you have a costume please call the box office, 296-1211.

Lyric Opera seeks members

Members of the Northwest Chapter of Lyric Opera recently hosted a program at which seven young apprentice artists performed.

The seven, who are being sponsored in their studies by the Northwest guild, opened the new season of activities for the local chapter. The program included arias from "Maria Stuarda," "Manon," "Tosca," "La Fille du Regiment," and "Carmen."

Mrs. William Moore, president, invites area residents who enjoy music and the opera to join the guild. The Northwest Chapter of Lyric Opera was founded in 1963 to promote opera and specifically to promote Lyric Opera of Chicago in Barrington, Arlington Heights, Palatine, Lake Zurich, Inverness, Cary, Mount Prospect and Long Grove. Additional information concerning membership is available through Mrs. W. J. Skoien, 358-2467.

"Cabaret" hosts all-girl band

An all-girl orchestra will be playing for "Cabaret" . . . or at least an orchestra that at first glance looks like all women.

Music On Stage is presenting the musical Sept. 14, 15, 21 and 22 and 23 at Rolling Meadows High School and the script calls for an all-girl band to be featured.

Musical director Bill Cotsakis of Palatine and director Tom Ventriss of Arlington Heights like to do things right. And that means dressing up the male members of the orchestra in appropriate female attire straight from the 1930's. The musicians are making no comment.

FINDING SUITABLE costumes of pre-Nazi Germany is posing quite a problem for costume designer Sue Lufkin of Mount Prospect, but working from a stack of designs, she will have everyone outfitted by opening night.

The scanty costumes worn by the Kit Kat Klub chorus line pose little problem. Contemporary styles are quite suitable.

On the other hand, Fraulein Schneider, played by Beth Woulds of Schaumburg, is difficult to dress since costumes denoting elderly women in 1930 Germany are difficult to find.

After the Friday and Saturday night performances, audiences are invited for food and cocktails at the Beef and Barrel on Algonquin Road in Schaumburg where MOS's cabaret theater group will entertain free of charge. Theatergoers will have an opportunity to meet cast members which for this production number over 40.

Friday and Saturday night performances begin at 8:30. A Sunday matinee begins at 2:30. For tickets call 966-4720 or 296-8673.

Open auditions for 'Oh, Dad'

Auditions for "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mamma's Hung You In the Closet and I'm Feelin' So Sad" are this Tuesday and Thursday, at 7:30 p.m., at the Schaumburg Township Library, 32 W. Library Lane.

Michael Woulds of Schaumburg is directing the play which will be presented in mid-October by Schaumburg Festival Theatre.

"Oh Dad, Poor Dad," written by Arthur L. Kopit, is a comedy farce with parts for six men and two women. Additional people are also needed to work backstage. Rehearsals will begin Sept. 16 and continue every Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday evening until production dates. Additional information is available by calling 882-1894.

Youth Symphony has openings

The Metropolitan Youth Symphony Orchestra has openings in most sections and will hold its fall auditions Sept. 9 in Chicago.

The non-profit, non-sectarian orchestra, founded in 1959 by conductor Mary K. Rosen, is composed of high school and college music students who reside in Chicago and outlying suburbs.

Members rehearse every Sunday during the season in downtown Chicago and are given the opportunity to play symphonic music in public under professional leadership. Soloists are selected by an annual competition from within the orchestra personnel and are featured at regular concerts.

Those interested in auditioning should contact the orchestra's personnel secretary at 779-8904 for an appointment.

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

A very tasteful collection of country/folk music is "Valley Hi" (Elektra EKS-75061), the latest solo album by Ian Matthews. In many ways the album bears a strong kinship with the work of former Monkee Michael Nesmith, who has had three fine country albums on RCA since the TV group broke up.

The basic similarity is in high quality songs that are performed well. These songs range from the traditional "Old Man At the Mill" (on which Byron Berline fiddles divinely) to Richard Thompson's very countryish "Shady Lies." Matthews has successfully chosen a song each by Jackson Browne and Randy Newman. And naturally he does a Nesmith song.

Each song on the album, including three of his own, is a highly reflective look at life. Matthews' style of singing perfectly fits the material.

MATTHEWS IS A singer who has made a career out of changing styles. He is a former member of the English group Fairport Convention and his own groups, Matthews Southern Comfort and Plainsong. It seems each time he finds success with a certain musical format, he abandons it to find another.

This is a fine album. One in which each song has something to recommend it; although, my favorites are "7 Bridges Road" with its close harmonies and "Old Man At the Mill." Matthews, who plays guitar, is helped by Nesmith, Danny Lane and David Barry among others. Lyrics are included.

Blood, Sweat & Tears have apparently fully recovered, if indeed they ever faltered, from the loss of lead singer David Clayton-Thomas. "No Sweat" (Columbia KC-32180) is the group's second album with replacement Jerry Fisher and it all fits together well.

FISHER'S GRAVELLY voice seems the perfect replacement and, while I at first thought he tried too much to sound like Clayton-Thomas, he now appears to have evolved a strong singing style of his own.

Musically, the album has very few surprises for the band's long-time fans. Several of the slower cuts, including "Django (An Excerpt)," sound as if they could have been taken from the recording sessions for the first two B, S & T Albums. The playing, despite personnel changes, has the same high quality.

The opening song, "Roller Coaster," has the makings of a hit, comparing in excitement and execution to past hits. Another strong song is "Save Our Ship" with strings arranged by masterful Paul Buckmaster. The song, like much of the album, was recorded in London.

Steve Tyrell produced the album which continues the string of highly pleasing, very professional and sometimes brilliant music from the group.

Lyric Opera seeks members

Members of the Northwest Chapter of Lyric Opera recently hosted a program at which seven young apprentice artists performed.

The seven, who are being sponsored in their studies by the Northwest guild, opened the new season of activities for the local chapter. The program included arias from "Maria Stuarda," "Manon," "Tosca," "La Fille du Regiment," and "Carmen."

Mrs. William Moore, president, invites area residents who enjoy music and the opera to join the guild. The Northwest Chapter of Lyric Opera was founded in 1963 to promote opera and specifically to promote Lyric Opera of Chicago in Barrington, Arlington Heights, Palatine, Lake Zurich, Inverness, Cary, Mount Prospect and Long Grove. Additional information concerning membership is available through Mrs. W. J. Skoien, 358-2467.

A RECEPTION FOR seven young apprentice artists was hosted by Lyric Opera's Northwest Chapter to kick off a new season of activities. Going through the buffet line are left to right, Mrs. Bruce Douglas, Mrs. William Moore, Mrs. Elmer Etscheid and Mrs. John Katzler.

"WOULD YOU LIKE to give a girl a dance," sing two couples in the "Telephone Dance" from "Cabaret." Rehearsing are Earl Carlson and Cheri Koch, both of Mount Prospect; Karen Krien of Arlington Heights, and Mike Woulds of Schaumburg.

Night out

3rd round for "Quo Vadis"

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Donald Driver's "STATUS QUO VADIS" opened last night at the IVANHOE THEATRE for a special return engagement through Oct. 7.

It is the longest running, most successful hit in the history of the Chicago theater located at 3000 N. Clark St.

"Status Quo Vadis" first opened at the Ivanhoe Aug. 26, 1971, and ran for an extended 28 weeks. After a five-week tour in Washington, D.C., the show returned and ran for an additional 26 weeks from June of 1972 until December.

The hilarious, satirical comedy is meaningful and fun. I will say this even though Broadway failed to recognize its appeal when the show opened there last February. It lasted on stage only two days.

"Status Quo Vadis" concerns a young man, a victim of the establishment, who is shackled by too many of society's labels and boundaries.

Returning in the comedy are the originals: Gail Strickland, Bruce Boxleitner, Rebecca Taylor, Lee Zara, Geraldine Kay and Bob Thompson.

Complimentary tickets to performances at COUNTRY CLUB THEATRE are being offered by LE GOURMET RESTAURANT. The theater is directly across the street from the restaurant at Rand and Euclid roads in Arlington Heights.

Currently on stage is "LOVE IS A TIME OF DAY."

Tickets are given to Le Gourmet patrons on Mondays through Thursdays. They must be used during that week for Tuesday through Thursday performances. The theater is dark on Mondays.

The French restaurant is devoting the week of Sept. 10 to the celebration of its first anniversary.

Currently at MILL RUN THEATRE through this Sunday is comedian JERRY VAN DYKE who is entertaining in the theater-in-the-round with vocalist guitarist, SERGIO FRANCHI.

Singer NICK NOBLE is returning to the TOP OF THE TOWERS at ARLINGTON PARK TOWERS this Tuesday for a run through Sept. 29.

Noble recently cut a new record, "It's All Up To You." Words and music are by Nick Noble and Keith Droste.

Downstairs HELEN HALL & COMPANY will open in the TACK ROOM show lounge on the same night, Tuesday. They will be at the hotel through the middle of November.

With Helen is RANDY ESPESETH (her husband) on drums, clarinet, and cornet; FRANK SEVERINO on guitar and banjo; and MARY ALBRIGHT plays organ, piano and bass.

Four days are left of the FUTURE OF AMERICA FAIR being hosted at Arlington Park. Big name entertainment over the weekend includes KENNY ROGERS & THE 1ST EDITION and DAWN with TONY ORLANDO tonight, at 8 p.m.

MAC DAVIS, the STATLER BROTHERS, and DON RICE III will entertain tomorrow evening while BOBY GOLDSBORO, DONNA FARGO and ART LINKLETTER take over the stage at 8 p.m. Sunday. The fair ends with BOB HOPE and JOEY HEATHERTON on Labor Day.

BEN ARDEN and his Orchestra back up the entertainers and guest host for the entire fair is SKITCH HENDERSON. The shows I saw, GLEN CAMPBELL and RICH LITTLE Saturday, and JOHNNY CASH last Tuesday, were both tremendous. For $3 (the entrance fee to the fair that included all entertainment), the entertainment couldn't be topped even if binoculars were in order. The celebrities themselves were most generous with their time on stage.

Other entertainment including the group, SOUND GENERATION, and various ethnic dancing and music that can be heard throughout the day, are also quite good.

My only complaint is with the main exhibition area that turned out to be more of a "hawker's paradise" than an educational experience as it was previously billed to be.

Ignore it . . . and enjoy the fair for everything else it has to offer.

Art league to see slide program

Abe Raff will show slides when members of Mount Prospect Art League meet at 8 p.m., at the Mount Prospect Community Center.

Raff, a member of the league, will give a slide presentation, "Artists of Yesterday and Today - an empathic approach." The program will reflect on artists' lives, works, and the time in which they painted.

Employed by Teletype Corporation as an artist/designer, Raff studied at the Art Institute of Chicago and also the Institute of Design.

He received the 1973 award of excellence from Industrial Art Magazine for his preparation of 35mm slide presentations.

New officers for the 1973-74 season are Joe Anderson, president; Helen Brekke, treasurer; Mary Joern, recording secretary; Joan Holtorf, corresponding secretary; Eileen Lucas, program; Maddie King, membership; Barbara Grendys, exhibition; Desta Ahern, hospitality; and Audrey Hunt, publicity.

Guests are welcome to attend the meeting. Further information about the league is available through Joe Anderson, 255-4254 or Maddie King, 288-5806.

3rd round for "Quo Vadis"

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Donald Driver's "STATUS QUO VADIS" opened last night at the IVANHOE THEATRE for a special return engagement through Oct. 7.

It is the longest running, most successful hit in the history of the Chicago theater located at 3000 N. Clark St.

"Status Quo Vadis" first opened at the Ivanhoe Aug. 26, 1971, and ran for an extended 28 weeks. After a five-week tour in Washington, D.C., the show returned and ran for an additional 26 weeks from June of 1972 until December.

The hilarious, satirical comedy is meaningful and fun. I will say this even though Broadway failed to recognize its appeal when the show opened there last February. It lasted on stage only two days.

"Status Quo Vadis" concerns a young man, a victim of the establishment, who is shackled by too many of society's labels and boundaries.

Returning in the comedy are the originals: Gail Strickland, Bruce Boxleitner, Rebecca Taylor, Lee Zara, Geraldine Kay and Bob Thompson.

Complimentary tickets to performances at COUNTRY CLUB THEATRE are being offered by LE GOURMET RESTAURANT. The theater is directly across the street from the restaurant at Rand and Euclid roads in Arlington Heights.

Currently on stage is "LOVE IS A TIME OF DAY."

Tickets are given to Le Gourmet patrons on Mondays through Thursdays. They must be used during that week for Tuesday through Thursday performances. The theater is dark on Mondays.

The French restaurant is devoting the week of Sept. 10 to the celebration of its first anniversary.

Currently at MILL RUN THEATRE through this Sunday is comedian JERRY VAN DYKE who is entertaining in the theater-in-the-round with vocalist guitarist, SERGIO FRANCHI.

Singer NICK NOBLE is returning to the TOP OF THE TOWERS at ARLINGTON PARK TOWERS this Tuesday for a run through Sept. 29.

Noble recently cut a new record, "It's All Up To You." Words and music are by Nick Noble and Keith Droste.

Downstairs HELEN HALL & COMPANY will open in the TACK ROOM show lounge on the same night, Tuesday. They will be at the hotel through the middle of November.

With Helen is RANDY ESPESETH (her husband) on drums, clarinet, and cornet; FRANK SEVERINO on guitar and banjo; and MARY ALBRIGHT plays organ, piano and bass.

Four days are left of the FUTURE OF AMERICA FAIR being hosted at Arlington Park. Big name entertainment over the weekend includes KENNY ROGERS & THE 1ST EDITION and DAWN with TONY ORLANDO tonight, at 8 p.m.

MAC DAVIS, the STATLER BROTHERS, and DON RICE III will entertain tomorrow evening while BOBY GOLDSBORO, DONNA FARGO and ART LINKLETTER take over the stage at 8 p.m. Sunday. The fair ends with BOB HOPE and JOEY HEATHERTON on Labor Day.

BEN ARDEN and his Orchestra back up the entertainers and guest host for the entire fair is SKITCH HENDERSON. The shows I saw, GLEN CAMPBELL and RICH LITTLE Saturday, and JOHNNY CASH last Tuesday, were both tremendous. For $3 (the entrance fee to the fair that included all entertainment), the entertainment couldn't be topped even if binoculars were in order. The celebrities themselves were most generous with their time on stage.

Other entertainment including the group, SOUND GENERATION, and various ethnic dancing and music that can be heard throughout the day, are also quite good.

My only complaint is with the main exhibition area that turned out to be more of a "hawker's paradise" than an educational experience as it was previously billed to be.

Ignore it . . . and enjoy the fair for everything else it has to offer.

Art league to see slide program

Abe Raff will show slides when members of Mount Prospect Art League meet at 8 p.m., at the Mount Prospect Community Center.

Raff, a member of the league, will give a slide presentation, "Artists of Yesterday and Today - an empathic approach." The program will reflect on artists' lives, works, and the time in which they painted.

Employed by Teletype Corporation as an artist/designer, Raff studied at the Art Institute of Chicago and also the Institute of Design.

He received the 1973 award of excellence from Industrial Art Magazine for his preparation of 35mm slide presentations.

New officers for the 1973-74 season are Joe Anderson, president; Helen Brekke, treasurer; Mary Joern, recording secretary; Joan Holtorf, corresponding secretary; Eileen Lucas, program; Maddie King, membership; Barbara Grendys, exhibition; Desta Ahern, hospitality; and Audrey Hunt, publicity.

Guests are welcome to attend the meeting. Further information about the league is available through Joe Anderson, 255-4254 or Maddie King, 288-5806.

LOOK WHAT LADY LONG LEGS DID!

When Lady Long Legs wants to feed her family, she starts to spin. Her silky web is made from a special liquid that comes from her spinneret. These silk strands catch tasty insects that venture too close.

It's fun to study Mrs. Long Legs' handiwork. One of the prettiest webs is the wheel-shaped orb web made by the garden spider. You may find one on a bush, fence or low tree branch. It hangs up and down to catch flying insects. Wait quietly nearby to see what happens when one flies into the trap.

The spider may save him for a future meal by spinning silk threads around him. Or she may sting him and enjoy her snack on the spot. The male spider rounds up his own meals--and sometimes makes a tasty meal for the female spider.

Early on a summer morning, you may find a lacy web shining with dew on the grass. It was probably made by a grass spider. She waits for insects to tumble in her funnel-shaped web. Triangular webs in bushes or low tree branches are usually made by a triangle spider. And those cobwebs near the ceiling in your house are spun by a house spider.

Sometimes spiders bite, so don't pick them up. It's also important not to kill them, since they are helpful friends. They eat many pesty insects that spread disease and harm growing things.

Sandy Quillen marries New Jersey girl Aug. 18

Following their Aug. 18 wedding Mr. and Mrs. William S. Quillen are now residing in Columbia, Mo., where the bridegroom will be working on a graduate degree in adaptive physical education at the University of Missouri.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Quillen, 101 S. Can-Dota, Mount Prospect, Sandy met his bride, the former Virginia Ann Evens, when both were freshmen at Springfield College, Springfield, Mass. Both Sandy and Ginny are '73 graduates of Springfield. Sandy is also a '69 graduate of Prospect High School. Ginny is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Evens, New Providence, N.J.

The pair's wedding took place in a 4 p.m., double ring service in Summit United Methodist Church, Summit, N. J., with Ginny wearing a gown of her own creation in white eyelet with Alencon lace. She also wore a large-brimmed garden hat trimmed with moss green grosgrain, and carried white daisies with English ivy.

HER SISTER, Merry Ellen Alls, Ames, Iowa, was her matron of honor and bridesmaids were another sister, Robin F. Evens, New Providence, and the groom's sister, Cecelia Quillen, Mount Prospect. All wore gowns with white eyelet bodices and red and white gingham skirts. Their flowers were red geraniums and blue cornflowers with Queen Anne's lace.

Sandy chose his college roommate, John A. Peterson III, Springfield, as best man, and his roommate Paul Maruszewski, Port Jervis, N.Y., and his brother, David B. Quillen, Mount Prospect, as ushers.

A reception was held in the New Hampshire House in Summit.

Area couple wed Aug. 4

An area couple, Nancy Mary Petsch of Arlington Heights and William Byrnes of Rolling Meadows, were married Aug. 4 in St. James Catholic Church, Arlington Heights. The double ring rites united the Paul Petsch and Robert T. Byrnes families.

Nancy chose Maureen Finn of Arlington Heights as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Katie McEnerney and Mary Joan Summers, both of Arlington Heights; Mary Harris, Wheeling; and Karen Green, Detroit.

All the girls wore printed dresses in yellow, green and white sheer over yellow taffeta complemented by yellow picture hats. Their bouquets were of yellow, pink and white roses and pompons carried in parasols.

Also in the wedding procession was Barbara Ann Byrnes, 7-year-old sister of the groom, as flower girl, wearing a yellow taffeta dress and carrying a basket of mixed blooms.

THE BRIDE came down the aisle in a white organza gown with lace and beading covering the bodice. With it she wore a mantilla veil trimmed in lace and carried a crescent bouquet of white roses, orchids and pompons.

John Reiss, Rolling Meadows, was best man, while Mike Moser and Kevin Kavanaugh, both of Fort Collins, Colo.; Tom Byrnes, the groom's brother from Eau Claire, Wis.; and Brian Shannon, his cousin from Parker, Fla., were groomsmen. John Petsch and John Byrnes, the couple's brothers, seated the wedding guests.

A reception at the Camelot Restaurant, Des Plaines, followed the 5:30 p.m. nuptials.

The newlyweds are living and working in the area since returning from a honeymoon in Daytona Beach, Fla. Nancy works for J. C. Penney Regional Office, Rolling Meadows, and Bill for Multigraphics, Mount Prospect. He graduated from St. Viator High School and Harper College, Nancy from Hersey High.

White House Fellows Program open to young women, 23-35

The White House Fellows program is actively seeking young women to participate in the program which gives young persons 23 through 35 opportunity to observe the federal government first-hand.

Under the program, established in 1964, young men and women are assigned as special assistant to a Cabinet secretary or a senior member of the White House staff. They are not assigned necessarily according to their own background but to give them as broad an experience as possible.

Those selected receive a salary up to $28,692 during the year and may continue the fringe benefits of their previous employer, but no other outside renumeration is permitted.

While the White House Fellows program has been open to women, few women have participated so far and they represent only 10 per cent of the overall membership, according to Mrs. Anne Armstrong, adviser to the President.

Application for the 1974-75 Fellowships opened Aug. 15 and closes Nov. 15. Those interested may contact the President's Commission in White House Fellows, Washington, D.C. 20415, for more information.

Nuptials unite childhood friends

When Cynthia K. Wade and Edward Klingberg were youngsters living in Mount Prospect they met in fifth grade at St. Emily's School. Eventually their families moved to other suburbs, but they dated and recently were married in St. John the Evangelist Church, Streamwood.

Cynthia and her mother, Mrs. Shirley Wade, have been living at 3182 Norwood Court, Streamwood, and Edward's family, the Kenneth Klingbergs, now live at 725 W. Dempster, Des Plaines. They were married by Father John Smyth of Maryville Academy in Des Plaines, where the groom played football in eighth grade.

For the 5:30 p.m. ceremony on Aug. 3 the bride wore a white jersey caftan with irridescent trim and a turban headpiece with a jersey veil. She carried lilies of the valley and baby's breath tied with red ribbons.

HER ATTENDANTS wore bright red gowns with white-trimmed bibs, white straw hats tied with red ribbons, and carried white carnations, red Garnet roses and baby's breath with white ribbon streamers.

Debbie Erbaugh, Streamwood, was maid of honor; Kathy Klingberg, the groom's sister, and Judy Mobley, Elgin, were bridesmaids.

There was also a 6-year-old flower girl, Loree Spoerlein of Lake Zurich, who wore a navy seersucker dress with red and white trim and carried a basket of mixed flowers. She is a niece of the groom. Her brother, Dennis Spoerlien, 4, was ring bearer.

Two of Edward's brothers were also in the wedding, Casey Klingberg as best man and Dan as commentator. The ushers were Reed Polzin, Appleton, Wis., and the bride's brother, Bill.

AN EVENING reception took place at Starlight Inn, Schiller Park, before the newlyweds left on a 10-day honeymoon along the east coast.

They are living in DeKalb where Edward is a junior in special education at Northern Illinois University. He is a '71 graduate of St. Viator High School.

Cynthia attended St. Edward High School, Elgin, then graduated from Ray Vogue Art School. She is now a commercial artist in Sycamore, Ill.

Dear Dorothy: My younger brother has involved himself in a proposition which gives me some concern. He is taking an income tax deduction on a camper he bought not only for his own use but to rent out to others. He says his expenses and depreciation are deductible. You've been helpful in the past with a problem we had and hope you can answer this one. —Mrs. R. A. G.

Quit worrying. Your brother happens to be quite right. I know a little about it because my brother did the same thing. He and his family love their big camper (although it would never interest me for five minutes), and he's rented it out on many occasions. His rentals have come by word of mouth so he hasn't had to share anything with an agent. He deducts his expenses in proportion to the rentals and his own use and also a portion of the insurance premium. Not sure that he's done it, but camper owners are also entitled to depreciate this kind of use-and-rental equipment over a given period of time. It's fine for those who take to roaming in what to me is a near-bus.

Dear Dorothy: I read that pearls were going to be worn a lot in the fall. I have some cultured pearls which have yellowed. Can anyone tell me how to whiten them again? — Kathleen Reese

If the pearls were white originally, there isn't anything I know of that will restore the whiteness. Some Oriental pearls are yellow naturally and when they get dark, professionals in the pearl business know how to peel the layers.

Dear Dorothy: You've been so helpful — and so have your readers — I'm hoping someone might know the recipe for making balsam apple salve. —Mrs. Frank Kaufer

High school sweethearts married in Palatine Aug. 4

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Blum

Palatine High School sweethearts Gail Lynn Przysiecki and Glenn L. Blum were married Aug. 4 in a double ring ceremony in St. Theresa Church, Palatine.

The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl T. Przysiecki, 617 N. Eagle Lane, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray H. Blum, 1110 E. Palatine Road.

Gail chose a gown of white silk organza trimmed in lace and pearls. Her matching veil was held by a Camelot cap and she carried a cascade of white phalaenopsis and yellow and white stephanotis.

Carolyn Przysiecki, sister of the bride, was maid of honor for the 2:30 p.m. ceremony. She preceded the bride down the aisle in a yellow batiste dress and carried a basket of white daisies, orange carnations, white baby's breath and yellow mums.

BRIDESMAIDS WERE Gail Adams, Wheeling, Judy Bolino, the bride's cousin from Aurora; and Betty Yglesias, Palatine. They were dressed identically to the maid of honor and all wore yellow daisies in their hair.

Serving as best man was the bride's brother, Craig. Wayne Phillips, Aurora; Jim Von Sande, Lake Zurich; and Milo Yglesias, Palatine, seated the guests.

Following a reception for 125 at the Sherwood Forest Inn, Chicago, the newlyweds left on a two-week honeymoon to Hawaii and Sydney, Australia. They are now at home at Walden apartments, Schaumburg.

Both Gail and Glenn are graduates of Palatine High School and Harper College. The groom is now a senior at Northern Illinois University.

Newlyweds at University of Denver

Students at the University of Denver were married Aug. 4 in Immanuel Lutheran Church of Palatine. The bride is the former Charrie Renee Kamin of Hoffman Estates, who became Donald P. Schneider's bride in an afternoon ceremony.

Charrie is the daughter of Charles Kamin and Mrs. Lorraine Kamin, both of Hoffman Estates, and Donald's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Clifford R. Schneider of Milwaukee.

The bride, a '70 graduate of Conant High School, will graduate in December with a degree in psychology. Before attending the University of Denver she studied for a year at Valparaiso (Ind.) University.

Her husband is in his final year at the university's law school after earning a degree in '71 from St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

THE COUPLE wrote their own communion wedding service, in which the soloist was the maid of honor, DeAnn Stone of Palatine. Gayle Moberg, Palatine, and Katherine Haebich, Elmhurst, were bridesmaids.

Also in the bridal procession were Kari Schneider, 6, of Cincinnati, as flower girl and her brother, Ricky, 5, ring bearer. The children are a niece and nephew of the groom.

Three of the groom's brothers were at the altar with him, Thomas as best man and Fredrick, of Cincinnati, and Dr. Robert Schneider, Boston, ushers. Greg Pokrass of Madison, Wis., also ushered.

THE BRIDE chose a white silk organza gown re-embroidered with Alencon lace appliques over the entire bodice and on the fitted sleeves with bell cuffs and the chapel train. Charrie's Alencon lace and net mantilla was secured by a lace cap, and she carried a nosegay of white and pink roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Her attendants were all gowned alike in powder blue dotted swiss trimmed in crocheted lace and daisies. They wore white picture hats trimmed in blue ribbons and carried baskets filled with white daisies, pink roses and baby's breath.

Afterwards there was a reception at the Marriott Hotel, Chicago, for 135 guests. The newlyweds honeymooned for a week in San Francisco and are at home in Denver.

High school sweethearts married in Palatine Aug. 4

Palatine High School sweethearts Gail Lynn Przysiecki and Glenn L. Blum were married Aug. 4 in a double ring ceremony in St. Theresa Church, Palatine.

The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl T. Przysiecki, 617 N. Eagle Lane, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray H. Blum, 1110 E. Palatine Road.

Gail chose a gown of white silk organza trimmed in lace and pearls. Her matching veil was held by a Camelot cap and she carried a cascade of white phalaenopsis and yellow and white stephanotis.

Carolyn Przysiecki, sister of the bride, was maid of honor for the 2:30 p.m. ceremony. She preceded the bride down the aisle in a yellow batiste dress and carried a basket of white daisies, orange carnations, white baby's breath and yellow mums.

BRIDESMAIDS WERE Gail Adams, Wheeling, Judy Bolino, the bride's cousin from Aurora; and Betty Yglesias, Palatine. They were dressed identically to the maid of honor and all wore yellow daisies in their hair.

Serving as best man was the bride's brother, Craig. Wayne Phillips, Aurora; Jim Von Sande, Lake Zurich; and Milo Yglesias, Palatine, seated the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Blum

Following a reception for 125 at the Sherwood Forest Inn, Chicago, the newlyweds left on a two-week honeymoon to Hawaii and Sydney, Australia. They are now at home at Walden apartments, Schaumburg.

Both Gail and Glenn are graduates of Palatine High School and Harper College. The groom is now a senior at Northern Illinois University.

Newlyweds at University of Denver

Students at the University of Denver were married Aug. 4 in Immanuel Lutheran Church of Palatine. The bride is the former Charrie Renee Kamin of Hoffman Estates, who became Donald P. Schneider's bride in an afternoon ceremony.

Charrie is the daughter of Charles Kamin and Mrs. Lorraine Kamin, both of Hoffman Estates, and Donald's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Clifford R. Schneider of Milwaukee.

The bride, a '70 graduate of Conant High School, will graduate in December with a degree in psychology. Before attending the University of Denver she studied for a year at Valparaiso (Ind.) University.

Her husband is in his final year at the university's law school after earning a degree in '71 from St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

THE COUPLE wrote their own communion wedding service, in which the soloist was the maid of honor, DeAnn Stone of Palatine. Gayle Moberg, Palatine, and Katherine Haebich, Elmhurst, were bridesmaids.

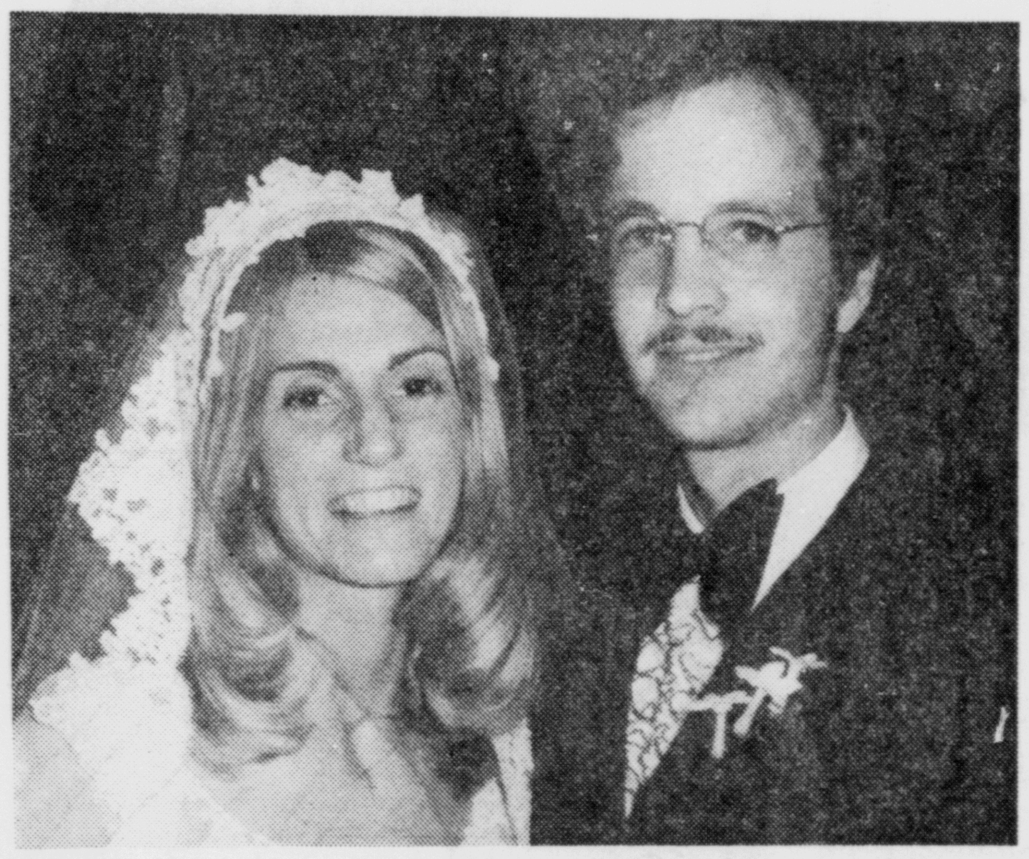
Also in the bridal procession were Kari Schneider, 6, of Cincinnati, as flower girl and her brother, Ricky, 5, ring bearer. The children are a niece and nephew of the groom.

Three of the groom's brothers were at the altar with him, Thomas as best man and Fredrick, of Cincinnati, and Dr. Robert Schneider, Boston, ushers. Greg Pokrass of Madison, Wis., also ushered.

THE BRIDE chose a white silk organza gown re-embroidered with Alencon lace appliques over the entire bodice and on the fitted sleeves with bell cuffs and the chapel train. Charrie's Alencon lace and net mantilla was secured by a lace cap, and she carried a nosegay of white and pink roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Her attendants were all gowned alike in powder blue dotted swiss trimmed in crocheted lace and daisies. They wore white picture hats trimmed in blue ribbons and carried baskets filled with white daisies, pink roses and baby's breath.

Afterwards there was a reception at the Marriott Hotel, Chicago, for 135 guests. The newlyweds honeymooned for a week in San Francisco and are at home in Denver.



Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schneider

Last year, all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Last year, all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.
